11 AUTOS TO BE OPERATED AT 5 CENT

As a result of the failure of the San Francisco-Oakland Terminal Railways Company to comply with the city ordinance banning one-man cars, the city of Oakland this morning took two counter measures against the street car company. They were:

1—The installation of a motor-line along Telegraph avenue, municipally controlled.

2—The repeal of the penal clause in the old jitney-bus ordinance. The penal clause provided a penalty of $100 or six months in the city jail. The anti-jitney ordinance stands, but there is no penalty for its violation.

The first move came to light early this morning, when a municipal bus apeared in front of the city hall. The second was made by the city council.

The first bus, received from the Fageol company at 9:10 this morning, started on its run along Telegraph avenue, from First to the Berkeley line, at 11:45. Fred Davie, son of the mayor and the official city chauffeur, started the bus on its first run.

Mayor Davie asserts that the new municipal transit system will be "managed from his office." Harold D. Weber, secretary to the mayor, will be passenger traffic manager.

The new bus, old ivory in color, costs $7500. The city officials assert that ten more are on the way. If necessary, say the officials, they will compete with other lines.

The appearance of the Oakland municipal super-jitney was made suddenly. For a week it was known at the city hall that the city officials had a "surprise" for the traction company, but only four or five were in the secret and nobody gave the slightest inkling of what was to happen.

Meantime, the Fageol Company had received secret orders to prepare a fleet of auto buses, appropriately painted and labeled. By rushing work, the company turned out Bus Number 1 in time for its appearance in front of the city hall this morning. It was immediately inspected by all the city officials and by crowds of spectators, after which it started on its career.

City officials admit that the bus is taken by the city "on trial." The entire fleet of 10 machines will cost about $75,000. Nobody asserts where the money is coming from. The officials say they believe they might meet the bill from current earnings or from scraping the bottoms of some budget-appropriations; but meantime the Fageol interests are said to be willing to meet the city "half way" in the matter.

The arrival of the motor-bus fleet, it is admitted, is the result of long conferences at the city hall concerning the one-man car.

CITY WOULD AVOID LEGAL CONTEST.

"We gave the traction company our request that it stop the one man car," said Commissioner Frank Colbourn, "it refused. It held that the railroad commission had granted the use of that car. We held that the police power of a city is paramount. It is; but we knew that the moment we acted the matter would go into the courts and we would be tied up by injunctions.

"We do not seek a law suit. To stop the one-man car by using a squad of police would start a long battle. We knew the traction company was ready for it. So we decided on this method. We think we have given them a little surprise."

The surprise, it was admitted, drew no immediate return-fire from the San Francisco-Oakland Terminal railways, though it is equally admitted in that quarter that the matter is under urgent consideration. The Terminal Railways holds that it has an exclusive franchise for transportation in the city, and contends further that the city itself banned jitneys from the streets some time ago.

City Attorney Leon Gray, however, asserts that the city has the power to run its own municipal lines at any time.

SCHEDULES TO BE ANNOUNCED SOON.

The motor-bus for the municipal line is a standard type, the sort that is used in Los Angeles and several other cities. It has a 218-inch wheelbase and seats 29 passengers. The driver sits near the front window, at the left side of the car. Entrance is usually from a door at the right front of the car, the door opening by an automatic lever. The chauffeur, or motorman, takes the nickels, makes change and does all the other work. Schedules for the new line will be worked out shortly, according to the mayor.

New Tribute Paid Women Students By U. C. Recorder

BERKELEY, Oct. 22.—New tribute to woman's scholarship at the University of California was paid today by Recorder James Sutton in a report which shows that 270 students were found last May to be disqualified, on scholarship grounds, from continuing their university work. This figure is net, 59 students having later been reinstated for various reasons.

Of the 270 finally disqualified and obliged to suspend their college work until next January, 190 were men and 79 were women or 4.23 per cent of all the men students in the university last spring and 2.46 per cent of the women students. The whole number of disqualifications represents 3.49 per cent of the student body as enrolled between January and May, 1923.

In May, 1922, the total number disqualified was 259, or 3.14 per cent of the enrollment of that semester. Of these, and of those disqualified at earlier dates, 94 returned to the university in January, 1923, and 11 of this number were again disqualified in May, 1923.

HOSPITAL BID AT LIVERMORE ASKED

250-Bed Institution for Tubercular Ex-Soldiers to Be Enlarged As Need Arises.

Two new government hospitals for tubercular ex-service men will be built at Livermore and Los Angeles, it was announced today by Director Hines of the United States veterans' bureau. Each hospital will contain 250 beds, but will be enlarged as conditions justify. Bids will be asked within thirty days, said Hines.

5 Killed in Mexican Political Clashes

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 22 (United Press).—Political clashes caused at least five deaths and injuries to many, following the arrival here today of General Elias Calles to open his campaign for president.

Calles came into the city at the head of a parade of 75,000 supporters.

8000 Irish in Jail On Hunger Strike

DUBLIN, Oct. 22.—At Sinn Fein headquarters today, it was stated that 8000 men were on hunger strikes in the various camps and prisons in Ireland, including New Bridge, Curragh, Kilkenny, Cork and Germanstown.

MRS. SCHICK COLLAPSES IN DEATH PROBE

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 22 (United Press). — Mrs. Sarah Margaret Schick, wife of the missing George E. Schick, today collapsed in her cell in the county jail.

Medical assistance was rushed her and she was removed to the matron's office. Her condition is reported as critical. County officials refused to give the cause of the collapse.

Mrs. Schick, who is soon to become a mother, has not been questioned since last Friday night. At no time has she been questioned without permission from physicians, officers say.

By KENT COCHRAN, International News Service Staff Correspondent.

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 22.—The grewsome "kettle of bones" found hidden in the chapparal on the side of a canyon back of the Mission Drive home of George Schick, missing realtor, was taken today to the laboratory of Dr. H. A. Thompson, bone specialist. Dr. Thompson's scientific examination of the score or more of charred bone fragments, which officers feel confident are from a human body, will determine, according to District Attorney Kempley, whether E. Drew Clark will be charged with the slaying of his missing business partner.

Clark, a Burns detective said today, is a man of many aliases. He is a roamer, the investigator said, and has worked as salesman in Seattle, Salt Lake, San Francisco, Honolulu and many other western cities. His correct name, the authorities claim, is Everett Drew Clark, and he has at various times transposed the three words of his name, often omitting one or the other of them.

THREE MYSTERY SACKS SPIED BY NEIGHBORS.

More light was shed on the strange happenings at the Mission Drive home on the evening of February 7 last, the date of Schick's disappearance, when F. A. Comstock, a neighbor, told authorities of seeing several pieces of old furniture and three partly filled gunny sacks loaded into a light truck. He and his wife noticed particularly he said, because the dilapidated furniture coming from a home they knew to contain only new things, struck them as strange. Two hours later, however, they were nonplussed to see the truck return with the same furniture. Watching the affair, they said, it was noted that the furniture was unloaded, but the sacks were missing.

Pending completion of the analysis of the bone fragments by Dr. Thompson, which is expected to consume from one to four days, the two dozen detectives and the county authorities today redoubled their work along other lines. The mystery has so many angles, they say, that many more days will be required to check up on all of them.

One of the various lines of inquiry yet to be probed leads to the astrological and occult influences on the lives of the three persons now in jail on charges of forgery—Clark, Mrs. Etta Drew Clark, his divorced wife, and Mrs. Schick. The latter has signed a full confession of forging the power of attorney by which possession of Schick's $75,000 estate was obtained, the confession implicating all three.

Suicide Pact Seen In Couple's Death

CHICAGO, Oct. 22. — Arthur Thors, 23, and Miss Bernice Halversen, 17, of Palmer, Mich., who were to have been married in a few days, were found asphyxiated in Miss Halversen's room at the home of her aunt here.

After learning that Thors was reported to have a wife living in Nebraska, the police advanced the theory that the deaths may have been the result of a suicide pact after Miss Halversen had learned this from Thors. Among papers in Thors' pocket was one bearing the name of Angeline Zucco of Omaha, Neb.

Enforcement of Dry Law Scoffed At by U. C. Editor

BERKELEY, Oct. 22.—"Bootleggers" are not being considered as criminals but as respected members of society under the present "dry" status of the United States, says J. R. Loofbourow, member of the editorial staff of the Daily Californian, publication of University of California students.

In an editorial this morning Loufbourow scoffs at the "enforcement" of the eighteenth amendment. He says:

"Looking at the situation now, we see bootleggers on every side, selling liquor that is not fit for anyone, and getting more money for it than was previously gotten for 'pure' liquor. These higher prices are forcing the poor man to pay double for his daily stein, and the statistics show that the flame of crime is blazing higher than ever.

"The eighteenth amendment has never been properly observed or properly enforced, and it is doubtful that the authorities are capable of enforcing it. It has become a point of honor for the man who can most successfully evade the prohibition authorities to do so. Bootlegging is not confined to the lower classes. Thousands of formerly law-abiding citizens have taken up the business, and these people are not considered criminals by the majority, they are often respected and even admired."

STOKES ON STAND AIDS WIFE'S CASE

Witness Acknowledges His Spouse Was Not in N. Y. During Fall of 1914.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—W. E. D. Stokes was called as a witness for his wife today when she began her defense against his suit for divorce. The aged millionaire, seeking to divorce the young and beautiful Helen Elwood Stokes and obtain the custody of their two children, proved a hostile witness.

Samuel Untermyer, counsel for Mrs. Stokes, tried to question Stokes about the birth of his two children, but Justice Mahoney would not permit him to answer.

Stokes admitted that his wife was not in New York during the summer and fall of 1914 when some witnesses had testified that they saw her at Wallace's apartment.

"Then why did you have negro witnesses swear they saw her in Wallace's flat at that time?" Untermyer shouted.

Justice Mahoney would not permit Stokes to answer.

Before Stokes testified the defense presented a deposition from Dr. L. E. Benson, a former roommate of Wallace's, that he had never seen Mrs. Stokes at their apartment. Horace Knowles, former diplomatic agent, had testified he saw Mrs. Stokes at the apartment when he went there to call on Benson. The deposition said Benson was not at the Wallace apartment in May, 1916, the date Knowles said he called on him.

Wallace, the co-respondent, was in the courtroom as Stokes closed his case, prepared to take the stand to refute the charges against himself and Mrs. Stokes.

"DAMNABLE OUTRAGE," DECLARES WALLACE.

"The most damnable outrage that ever got into an American court," Wallace said of the Stokes charges that Mrs. Stokes was a frequent visitor at his New York bachelor apartments, and sometimes breakfasted with him attired in negligee.

Mrs. Stokes, he asserted, was a "good woman, the victim of an evil marriage."

Oakland Boy Will Attend West Point

Congressman James H. MacLafferty today announced his appointment for 1924 to West Point. The boy chosen is Lewis Adam Vincent of 3883 Brookdale avenue, Oakland. The first alternate is William Buford Cook of 1331 Burbank street, Alameda, and the second alternate is E. Wilbert Vernon of 1569 Jackson street, Oakland.

22 CHARGES BY SOLONS HIT WALTON

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Oct. 22.—(By the Associated Press.)—A report charging Governor J. C. Walton with "wilful neglect of duty, incompetency, corruption in office, and offenses involving moral turpitude" was submitted today to the lower house of the Oklahoma legislature by its committee on investigation and impeachment.

The report sets out twenty-two specific charges in support of the general accusation. Among the more important are:

PARDON AND PAROLE POWERS WERE ABUSED.

That he abused the pardon and parole powers vester in him in order that his friends might collect lucrative fees for obtaining the release of persons in the state penitentiary.

That he collected a sum of money by threatening to veto an opinion for a state school passed by the last legislature.

That he submitted a false report of his expenses in the election campaign. That he had his personal chauffeur placed on the payroll of the state health department.

That he dispersed by use of military forces a grand jury legally called to inquire into his official acts.

MARTIAL LAW ACT IS QUESTIONED.

That he placed portions of the state and later the whole state, under martial law, when no need existed, and that during the period of martial law he suspended the privilege of the writ of hebeas corpus and placed a censorship on the press.

That he has caused a "large number of persons" to be placed on the state payroll although such persons "rendered little or no service" to the state.

That he issued two deficiency certificates calling for $14,000 in violation of law.

That he appointed many state officers, and attempted to authorize such persons to carry arms without legal right to do so.

CORRUPTION CHARGED TO THE EXECUTIVE.

That he had refused to permit the execution of the law imposing the death penalty for crimes committed within the state.

A bill of impeachment attached to the report set out in detail the varrious charges against the executive.

The impeachment bill charged Governor Walton with having "entered into an agreement and arrangement" with E. W. Marland, president of the Marland Oil & Refining company, by which Marland purchased $30,000 in notes given by the executive on a residence he purchased here in May." This transaction was declared wilfully corrupt in that, as chairman of the governor was placed under "great financial obligation" to Marland, who was described as having taxable wealth to "the extent of several million dollars."

Kels' Name Dropped In Other Murders

STOCKTON, Oct. 22. — No attempt is being made to connect Alex Kels, convicted Lodi butcher, with two other mysterious murders in that city, according to Sheriff Riecks today.

From previous investigations the sheriff said he was certain Kels had nothing to do with the killing of either Robert Fuller or John Hummell nearly three years ago.

Oleum Oil Worker In Other Murders

John Nelson, 36, an oil worker at Oleum, was instantly killed last night when he was struck by an automobile alleged to have been driven by a man named Moore, living in Avenue Court, Oakland. The accident occurred at Oleum.

Rhineland Revolt Growing Rapidly; Allies To Treat With New Republic; Bavaria Hurls Defiance At Prussia

MUNICH NOW READY FOR SECESSION

LONDON, Oct. 22.—The Bavarian Premier, Dr. Von Knilling, has declared that Bavaria cannot remain united with Germany, according to Exchange Telegraph despatch from Berlin this afternoon.

BERLIN, Oct. 22.—(International News Service.)—Bavaria today suspended the seventh division of the national Reichswehr, under Bavarian command, threatening a new crisis with Berlin.

By S. D. WEYER International News Service Staff Correspondent.

BERLIN, Oct. 22.—The Berlin government was beset on two sides today, being in the most dangerous position since the end of the war. Bavaria was defiant toward Berlin and was threatening warfare against red Saxony, while the Rhineland republic movement was spreading.

Feverish attempts are being made to settle the Bavarian crisis amicably, leaving the decision whether Bavaria is right or wrong to the Reichsrat, which is the representative body of all the federal states in Germany. The Reichsrat will meet tomorrow.

Bavaria presented an open break over Sunday by not attempting to swear in formally the members of the Reichswehr.

Meanwhile the official statements being given out at Munich, while threatening Berlin, indicate that for the time beting, the Bavarian government will be content to watch the secessionist movement in the Rhineland.

Airplanes were sent out by the Berlin ministry of defense to scatter a million copies of the German government's proclamation of warning over all Bavaria. Dr. von Kahr, the Bavarian dictator, had suppressed it.

The latest Bavarian threat is, if Minister of Defense Gessler carries out his threat to blockade Bavaria from the balance of Germany, Munich will insist upon revocation of all the sovereign state rights enjoyed while Bavaria was a monarchy before the war.

The governments of Hesse, Wuerttemburg and Baden conferred today regarding the future course toward Bavaria. All fear a Bavarian coup. Dr. Ulrich, president of Hesse, is a Socialist. He presided at today's conference. All three states are against Bavaria, because of the widespread Monarchist sentiment among the Bavarians.

BAVARIAN STAND TAKEN AGAINST REDS.

MUNICH, Bavaria, Oct. 22.—(By The Associated Press.)—Now that Dr. von Kahr, military dictator of Bavaria, has hoisted his colors and notified the central government that he is no longer disposed to obey Berlin's orders, Chancellor Stressemann and the members of his ministry realize that they are confronted with a situation threatening as never before the disruption of Germany. In a proclamation to the Bavarian people issued yesterday Dr von Kahr, military dictator of Bavaria, declares that Minister of Defense Gessler tried by threats against Bacaria to compel General von Lessow, commander of the Reischswehr in Bavaria, to resign, and that Gessler had replied to the protest of the Bavarian government with an order for the immediate dismissal of General von Lessow.

"The Bavarian government and the state commissioner," says the proclamation, "know themselves to be in accord with all nationally-minded Germans if they reject this. Bavaria considers it her holy duty in this hour to be the stronghold of threatened Germandom. The government therefore

Old Tapestries At Versailles Palace Stolen

PARIS, Oct. 22.—(By the Associated Press. — Two Great Gobelin tapestries, each valued at one million francs, were stolen during the night from the walls of the Versailles palace. The tapestries were made in 1674 and formed part of Louis XIV's collection. One of them represented the siege of Douai and the other the entry of the Kink into Dunkirk.

President's Son Declares Von Kahr Is Trying to Disrupt Germany.

By FRITZ EBERT, JR. (Son of the President of Germany) (Written especially for and copyrighted, 1923, by International News Service)

BERLIN, Oct. 22.—Bavaria's action is tantamount to a declaration of war against the German state. The same Bavarian leaders who have been bragging of the restoration of order and unity in the state, try to disrupt the state because the Berlin government dismissed a mutinous general—von Lossow.

What would the same Bavarians and their reactionary friends in the German Reich say if not General von Lossow, but General Mueller (Reichswehr), commander in red Saxony, had been the offender.

What if General von Meuller had refused to obey Minister of Defense Gessler's command to proceed ruthlessly against the Saxon radicals?

Few remember that von Kahr himself, head of the Bavarian government, is a product of the movement of General von Luettewitz, who made him Bavarian premier during the Kapp rising in Berlin in 1920. Now this same von Kahr leads a mutinous General von Lossow to compel the Reich's soldiers to break their military oath of allegiance.

Auto Exhaust Pipe Fumes Kill Girl, 14

SAN BERNARDINO, Oct. 22.—Suffocated by the fumes of a broken exhaust pipe while riding in the rear seat of a sedan automobile between San Bernardino and Victorville, Lucille Marie Mahaney, 14 years old, was found dead by her parents when they attempted to arouse her as the car reached Victorville.

The girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mahaney of Oro Grande, believed their daughter asleep and did not attempt to awaken her during the trip.

"Lucille, wake up; we are going to have something to eat," Mrs. Mahaney said. The girl lay still on the rear seat. The mother touched her. She was cold, dead.

Mrs. Mahaney fainted.

Wales Plans Visit to To South Africa

LONDON, Oct. 22.—Already one of the most-traveled young men in the world, the Prince of Wales has plans for still more voyages to lands beyond the sea where flies the Union Jack. He had hardly disembarked this week from the ship bringing him home from his Canadian travels when he was again rounding out a program for another long trip, this time to South Africa, the only big dominion of the empire he has not yet seen. It is expected that the prince will pay a formal visit to that state next spring.

BREAK FROM BERLIN IS COMPLETED

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 22 (By United Press).—Allied occupation authorities opened negotiations with the Rhineland Separatists today regarding their proclamation of a republic, despatches from Aix la Chapelle said.

BRUSSELS, Oct. 22.—Aix la Chapelle despatches today said it was expected Herr Talbot would accept an offer of the regency of the Rhineland. The Separatist movement has extended to Erksela, it was reported.

By CARL D. GROAT, United Press Staff Correspondent.

BERLIN, Oct. 22. — A blow against which the German republic has been steeling itself fell yesterday. Citizens of the Rhineland area put on red, white and green armbands, armed themselves and declared a separate republic.

Aix la Chapelle, Mayence, Dueren, and other important cities of the buffer country between France and Germany were seized by the separatists.

The French and Belgians occupying the stretch of territory in which the uprising occurred did not interfere.

Separatist attempts at Peulich and Coblenz have failed, according to reports here this afternoon. The Separatist attempt to seize Weisbaden was unsuccessful. Separatist demonstrations in Grefeld and Rheydt proved abortive.

In both Rheydt and Munchen-Gladbach, city authorities retained possession of the public buildings.

Reports were received here that workers in Aix-la-Chapelle were about to proclaim their protest against the attempt at separation of the Rhineland from the rest of Germany.

TROOP FREEDOM ASKED BY BERLIN.

The German government has asked the Allied occupation authorities for permission to allow German troops freedom to act in Aix-la-Chapelle and elsewhere to thwart the Separatist cou..

News agencies report troops are marching on Bonn

French sources reported an unimportant clash of troops and Separatists at Mayence at dawn today, after which the revolters were reported to have withdrawn temporarily to the outskirts.

The seizure of Aix-la-Chapelle by the Separatists was accomplished quietly Sunday morning.

Advocates of the new republic, apparently numbering less than 10,000, moved shortly after midnight, at a time when German inhabitants loyal to the reich were asleep. Organized groups of citizens, distinguished by their arm bands in the Rhineland republic colors, moved to allotted positions at public buildings.

Local authorities of Aix were informed that the republic coup was an accomplished fact. There was no resistance.

POSTERS PROCLAIM NEW REPUBLIC.

Men with buckets of paste and posters proclaiming the republic scattered through the city and soon every billboard and wall flaunted a boldly inked proclamation.

Red, green and white ensigns went up on the principal buildings and those Germans who had gone to bed within the greater reich, awoke to find themselves in a new republic.

First direct reports to the Stresemann government indicated that the Separatist uprising was confined to Aix. Later, from French sources, reports of similar military coups by Rhinelanders in other towns and cities along the famous old river that marks Germany's western frontier, came in.

Belgian reports, too, told of the success of the Rhinelanders at Aix and reported the city calm. The Belgian authorities in the occupied territory announced they would remain neutral, but [illegible]

GILROY SHIPPING GRAPES EAST WITH PLENTY OF CARS

Weather and Transportation Speed Up Moving of Large Crop.

GILROY, Oct. 22.—Excellent weather conditions and no car shortage is causing the local grape growers much satisfaction, and up to date 190 cars have been moved out of Gilroy. From the San Martin district 114 cars have been shipped.

The present condition of the eastern markets, where the majority of the grapes are being shipped, is also a cause for the grape growers to wear a smile. So far the local crop has brought an average of $2 per lug, according to one grower, who is shipping considerable tonnage. Ten different shippers are shipping from Gilroy at present, and the end of the peak of the season is in sight.

Not only grapes, but dried fruits and canned fruits from the Felice and Perrili cannery are moving out at the rate of three cars per day, according to H. H. Bunds, the local Southern Pacific agent.

Lenin Recovering; Again Able to Walk

MOSCOW, Oct. 22. — Nicolai Lenin, the premier, has completely recovered the use of his paralyzed leg and is able to mount the stairs to the second floor of his residence unaided, according to a statement made today by Dr. N. Semashko, commissary of public health, one of the physicians attending Lenin.

The premier is anxious to begin work and the physicians are having difficulty in restraining him.

Republic's Capital To Be at Coblentz

BRUSSELS, Oct. 22.—Leo Deckers, the 60-year-old manufacturer, who is one of the leaders of the separatist coup at Aix-la-Chapelle, said today that the separatists would recognize the treaty of Versailles and were ready to assume their share of the reparations. He added that Coblenz would be the capital of the new republic.

The Rhineland forces, he said, were organized into military formations, but are unarmed. Nevertheless they know where to find weapons if necessary, he added.

"Bavarians and Germans: Remain true to the lofty task of restoring internal freedom to the German fatherland."

Dr. Von Kahr explained to the newspapermen today his reason for what has been described as the Bavarian government's open rebellion against the Berlin government. He emphatically declared the Bavarian government in taking its momentous step had rejected all ideas of separatism and particularism. It considered its attitude as a national duty against internationalism and Marxism. Its action was not taken against the Reich, but only against the policy of the government of the Reich. A choice now must be made between the German and the non-German peoples. The Bavarian government was fighting for the idea of a greater Germany, he said.

French Neutral On New Republic

PARIS, Oct. 22.—(By The Associated Press.)—The proclamation of a Rhineland republic in Aix la Chapelle has not changed the attitude of the French government with regard to its policy of non-interference in the affairs of the Rhineland Separatists, according to information obtained in official circles here today.

It was pointed out in these circles that the French government was not directly interested in this morning's coup d'etat, as Aix la Chapelle is in the Belgian zone of occupation. It was added, however, that should cities situated in the territory occupied by the French follow the suit of the Aix la Chapelle Separatists, the French troops would maintain a policy of absolute neutrality, except in case the lives or safety of the French troops and citizens or persons of other nationalities were imperiled.

If you see it in The TRIBUNE, tell them so.

FRANCE FAILS TO BE DISTURBED BY RHINE REPUBLIC

By JOHN DE GANDT,
United Press Staff Correspondent.

PARIS, Oct. 22.—"France is not responsible for the establishment of the Rhineland republic," Pertinax, usually regarded as a journalistic mouthpiece of the government, said in a signed editorial today.

"France regards the event as the inevitable consequence of Germany's mad course in following out passive resistance to Franco-Belgian occupation of the Ruhr.

"It was this resistance that caused gradual breakup of the power of central government in Berlin.

"France will treat with the new state on its merits.

"The Rhenish republic must assume its full share of reparations."

"All the Separatist parties of the Rhineland have only one aim—separation from Prussia," Herr Smeets, leader of the Mayence Separatists, said in an interview with the correspondent of Le Journal.

"The Rhenish republic can exist only on a basis of absolute autonomy," Smeets asserted. "It must be willing to assume its full share of reparations."

Berlin to Release Reserves of Flour

BERLIN, Oct. 22 (By the Associated Press).—In view of the seriousness of the situation generally and continued reports of food riots from various points, the government has decided to release immediately the comparatively small reserve supplies of flour which had been stored and originally intended for emergency use during the winter.

Officials express the hope that the release of the flour will have a tendency to relieve the conditions brought about when the government abandoned the subsidies to the bakers, which for years had kept down the price of bread. The bakers maintain, however, that there is not enough reserve flour in storage to relieve the situation materially, as far as they are concerned.

The price of a loaf of bread tomorrow in Berlin will be two billion five hundred million marks.

The police announced today that extra men would begin tonight to patrol the streets to prevent wholesale robberies.

Rhineland Completes Break From Berlin Rule

hold the Separatist leaders responsible for keeping order.

BERLIN LEADERS HAVE ONE HOPE.

The one hope of the Stresemann government, ill-equipped to meet the revolt and harrassed by trouble in Bavaria and economic difficulties, was that the Separatist revolt was premature. It was understood at first that Herr Smeets and Dr. Dorten, who all along have been the recognized leaders of the Rhineland republican movement, had not authorized yesterday's proclamation. At Aix-la-Chapelle, most important of the Rhineland cities seized, the proclamations, which were posted about the city, were signed by Leo Deckers and Dr. Guthardt, more or less independent Separatist agitators.

Everyone had known that the plans of the organized Rhinelanders had been to have the republic proclaimed next Sunday, not yesterday. The government, getting much of its information from French sources in the ocupied areas, could only cling to the hope that this uprising might divide the Separatists against themselves. It remained to be seen whether Smeets and Dorten would fall in line.

MATTHES PICKED AS FIRST PRESIDENT.

Dr. Matthes, who has been proposed as provisional president of the first Rhineland republic, is reported by French sources to have formed a provisory government at Dueren. This would seem to indicate that the recognized leaders of the Separatist movement were with those who started yesterday's action.

The Rhineland republic has long been a German nightmare. Ever since the World War, there has been agitation from two sources for a break from the reich.

Certain prominent citizens of the Rhineland, notably Herr Smeets and Doctors Dorten and Matthes, have led a growing movement in favor of a separate republic, followed by those who felt the country along the Rhine to be an economic entity.

Hand in hand with the growth of this Separatist movement from within, came a desire in France for creation of a "buffer state" between France and Germany.

No secret was made of the fact that the French, and the Belgians as well, constantly encouraged the Rhineland Separatists. Each Sunday for months since occupation of the Ruhr and other German territory by the allied troops, there have been meetings in important Rhineland cities at which plans for the new republic have been formulated. The French and Belgians on one occasion offered free rides in special trains to citizens of the Rhineland who desired to attend the mass meeting.

Proclamation of New Nation Brief

AIX LA CHAPELLE, Prussia, Oct. 22. — (By The Associated Press.)—A Rhineland republic was proclaimed here yesterday.

Rhinelanders occupied the public buildings at 4 o'clock yesterday morning without opposition from the security police.

The city was calm, presenting its usual Sunday appearance. The public buildings occupied by the Separatists displayed the colors of the Rhineland Republic—green, white and red. Two proclamations were placarded. The first of these said:

"To the people of the Rhineland: The hour of liberty has struck. Berlin has plunged us in distress and misery. We come to our own assistance.

"We proclaim today a Rhineland Republic. Free and independent, we wish to live in peace and friendship with our neighbors and to work in an effective manner with them for the reconstruction of Europe.

"Workers, every man to his post! Immediate care will be taken to assure peace, work and bread.

"(Signed)
"THE PROVISIONAL GOVERNMENT,
"Leo Deckers and Dr. Guthardt."

SECOND PROCLAMATION WARNS AGAINST REVOLT.

The second proclamation is as follows:

"The Rhineland Republic is an accomplished fact. Any resistance will be crushed pitilessly. Pillagers and disturbers of public order will be punished with the severest of penalties.

"We shall apply all our care to the questions of food supply and work, and will preserve order and peace."

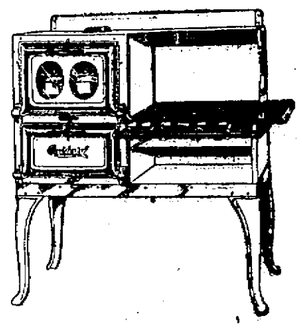

This proclamation was signed in the same way as the first.

TIRED BUSINESS WOMEN' INVITED TO HEAR EXPERT

"Be Young and Successful," Is Advice of Margaret Josephine Blair.

The "tired business woman" who is growing old, has no place in the world, according to Mrs. Margaret Josephine Blair, health, beauty and happiness specialist, whom The Oakland TRIBUNE will present in a complimentary demonstration lecture in Ebell club house tonight. "Therefore be young," she implores. Mrs. Blair will undertake to show tonight how this transformation may be made through the simple, practical method of exercise, diet and personal care.

"Ten minutes a day means success," she declares. She will show the ways in which this brief space of time may be budgeted from the time a woman arises in the morning until she composes herself to slumber at night.

FAT CALLED CRIME.

"Women who slouch, slump or stick out a hip when they walk never have success," in Mrs. Blair's opinion. "The business woman must make capital of her appearance." She demonstrates the walk of success.

"Fat is a crime. Why, a woman 50 pounds overweight engaged in business ought to be ashamed of her laziness," she scorns. According to health authority, fat reduces life. She has simple methods of eradicating it.

"Take out wrinkles when you telephone. No reason why a good business deal should interfere with the rubbing out of age lines," Mrs. Blair will show how.

Dress and color are important factors in achievement, she believes. Therefore these subjects will share in her attention.

DANCES URGED.

Dances and exercises for the cure of physical defects and many ailments; for the keeping away of disease which is apt to attack a woman; for creating a joyous mind and buoyant heart; for preserving youth and a slender figure—Mrs. Blair will show their simple movements.

The beauty and health specialist is presented by the Oakland TRIBUNE in response to many requests from women who were unable to attend the complimentary lectures which crowded the Auditorium theater last week. Business, professional women and school teachers have demanded the opportunity to learn the practical way to health, beauty and happiness at an evening lecture. The Oakland TRIBUNE is happy in announcing the appearance of Mrs. Blair which meets this demand.

Railroads Complain Of Water Seepage

OAKDALE, Oct. 22.—Railroad companies are bothered to a considerable extent from breaks in irrigation canals and seepage water used near their rights of way, the Oakdale Irrigation Board was told by Superintendent G. Superintendent Hartley was instructed to see that all canals belonging to the district which are located near railroad property and in good condition and also to notify all parties owning private ditches nearby to see that they do not break or allow water to seep upon the right of way of the railroad companies.

Yellow Cab
Seeks to lower rates

At Every Possible Opportunity YELLOW CAB rates are revised; sometimes despite increasing costs of operation. The public secures the benefit.

Two things make this possible. First is the highly organized YELLOW CAB system with up-to-date efficient equipment. The second is volume of business.

The people of this city will never have cause to complain of YELLOW CAB rates. Inversely as patronage increases, rates decrease. This is a fundamental YELLOW CAB principle and practice and works almost automatically.

Our request for your cab business is based on the simplest of propositions — the best transportation for the least money.

Use YELLOW CABS for shopping; social calls—as a convenience. Send your children to school in them with confidence they will be safe.

CONTEST IN COW MILKING FEATURE AT DAIRY SHOW

Business Women to Compete for Prizes in Event on November 3.

A cow milking contest for business women, with a silver tea set as first prize and two other handsome awards as the latest feature announced for the Pacific Slope dairy show by Robert E. Jones, manager, the contest will be held Monday night, the first night of the show, at the Oakland auditorium Monday, October 29.

There are hundreds of women now working in offices or stores who spent their early years on a farm and who have not forgotten how to milk a cow, in the belief of the dairy show management, and this contest is intended to give them a chance to hark back to their days on the farm, with a good chance of winning worth-while awards while doing so. It is open to women from every part of the Pacific slope, and will prove an entertaining feature for the general public on the big closing night of the show.

Besides the prize cattle and dairy products and the demonstrations of modern machinery in dairying which the show will afford, there are to be a number of attractions that are expected to prove most entertaining to those outside the dairy industry. Among these are a Better Baby contest, which will be held Thursday, November 1, and Friday, November 2, from 1:30 to 4 p. m.; a Junior Amateur Band contest, in which bands made up of boys or girls under 21 years of age will compete for $500 in prizes on the evening of November 1 and will give a concert on the next evening; and a horseshoe tournament, open to every one connected with the dairy industry. Dairymen feel that they are the real fathers of "barnyard golf" and many of them are anxious to try their skill against their neighbors from other states or sections.

Dr. Ellen Stratmuller, well known throughout the state as a specialist on infants, and Dr. Carl Kennedy of Oakland, will score the babies in the contest, which will prove to be one of the most popular events of the show, judging from the interest evinced in advance.

BANDITS ROB 12 OF $545; ESCAPE

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 22.—Three masked bandits late tonight held up a soft drink place in the downtown section here and after lining up the proprietor and 11 male patrons of the place, facing the wall, robbed them of cash and currency totaling $545. The bandits escaped in an automobile. Shortly before the holdup, three masked men, supposed to be the same ones, leaped from an automobile in a Portland residential section and held up Ralph Stock, a pedestrian. When Stock yelled for help, the bandits beat him in the face with the automatic pistols and fled in their car.

Following these two crimes, two masked men stopped W. H. Bates on the edge of the business district and robbed him of cash and a valuable diamond ring.

Killing of Koreans Explained By Japan

TOKIO, Oct. 22.—(By the Associated Press.)—Publication Saturday of reports that more than 500 Korean residents of Japan were killed by vigilantes and troops during the excitement following the earthquake brought forth today an authoritative statement detailing alleged instances of looting, incendiarism and other outrages committed by Koreans individually or in groups.

This was presented as accounting to some extent for the alarms and rumors which took color from exaggerated reports and created a feeling of consternation among the terrified people. In the resulting acts of violence many innocent Koreans suffered with the guilty.

CLIFF BLOWN IN OCEAN TO MAKE ROOM FOR ROAD

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 21.—Engineers hurled a cliff into the sea today to make room for a new road through the Palos Verdes hills, south of here, using more than 200,000 pounds of black powder and 10,000 pounds of dynamite to rip their pathway clear.

Several thousand sightseers' automobiles dotted the near-by hills when the colossal blast was touched off. The cliff, estimated to contain a hundred thousand cubic yards of earth, crumpled and crashed into the surf, the dust of the explosion covering the sky for miles.

Red Rule to End Slowly, Says Koehler

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 22.—The end of the present soviet rule in Russia will come by evolution, not by the death of Lenin or by revolution, in the opinion of Lieutenant Commander Hugo W. Koehler, U. S. N., who arrived here yesterday on board the S. S. New Mexico. Koehler served under Rear Admiral McCauley, who was a special agent for the state department with the anti-Bolshevik leader Denekin at the time that leader and Kolchak were fighting the soviets.

Denekin, according to Koehler, had a fine army, and was supported with British munitions. The people of the country, however, could not understand what he was fighting for, while the Bolsheviki propaganda appealed to everyone, he said. The result was that Kolchak and Denekin lost even while they were winning battles because they could not combat ideas.

Lewisite, the strongest gas the American army had at the end of the war, was discovered more than 25 years ago.

MANY CRY WHEN TEAR BOMBS LEAK

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 22.—Sorrowless tears flooded the hall of justice here yesterday, when prisoners in their cells, officers on duty and attendants caring for the jail fixtures, broke down and cried like babies. Tear bombs that had been stored in the office of Captain of Detectives Duncan Matheson had started to leak.

Many entertainment events have been arranged, including a gigantic parade of the fraternal organizations, a baby show, and a beauty contest.

The parade will be held on the opening day of the exposition. It will be formed of the fraternal organizations of Oakland who have headquarters east of Lake Merritt. The line of march will be from the Southern Pacific to the showgrounds.

A style show and the first automobile show of the season will be among the features. There will be dancing and vaudeville, and band and orchestra concerts every day.

Aquatic Star Held As Wife Deserter

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 22.—Charged with abandoning his wife and four-months-old baby, Fred K. Kahede, a member of the American Olympic games swimming team at the Antwerp games, and a holder of many aquatic records, was arrested here yesterday. The warrant was sworn to by Katherine Kahede, his wife, 139 Andover street, whho alleges that Kahede deserted her here last May, leaving her only $25 for the support of herself and their baby. Kahede claims that while working at Benicia his wife deserted him.

Man Drowns in Surf As Wife Looks On

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 22.—Washed off the rocks into the surf at Tennessee Point on the Marin county shore, George Noonan, 28, a Sausalito bank teller, was drowned before the eyes of his wife yesterday afternoon. Noonan was fishing when a huge comber washed him down from his seat on the rocks. His wife ran three miles to the Point Bonita life saving station to summon Captain Peter Johnson and the life guards. The recovered the badly battered body, half a mile from the shore.

PLUS AND MINUS MADE DEBUT IN COLUMBUS' TIME

Book Issued in 1494 in Venice Contains ethematical Signs Invtnted by Priest.

"Plus" and "minus" signs made their first appearance in a book which has recently been presented to the University of California. The book, which was printed in Venice only two years after Columbus discovered America, is the first volume ever written on the subject of bookkeeping. It was written by an Italian priest named Luca Pacioli and is printed in both Italian and Latin.

Many of the modern algebraic signs and symbols were originated by Pacioli in this book. Plus and minus signs are among the important inventions of the Italian monk.

POSSES CLOSE IN ON SISKIYOU S. P. TRAIN BANDITS

ASHLAND, Ore., Oct. 22.—Activities in the search for Roy, Ray and Hugh d'Atremont and Bernard Lachance, alleged by officers investigating the Siskiyou tunnel train holdup and murders of October 11 to have committed the crimes, centered today in Del Norte county, California, where it was thought the alleged bandits were hiding. Posses under direction of Sheriff Breen, of Del Norte county were searching the mountains eastward from Crescent City.

But while Del Norte county was considered the most likely hunting ground for the fugitives, Dan O'Connell, chief special agent of the Southern Pacific company, has warned officers in all towns and cities of the northern Pacific slope to be on the lookout for them, and has sent photographs of two of the d'Atremonts broadcast in the hope that they may be recognized. Photographs of the other two have not been obtainable so far, O'Connell said.

With the identity of the men established to their satisfaction the officers said they considered it only a matter of a short time until the bandits will be brought to justice.

Ray and Roy d'Atremont are twins, aged 23. Hugh d'Atremont is 19. Lachance is 30 years old. The d'Atremonts have lived in Salem and Eugene.

Paul d'Atremont, father of the trio of d'Atremont brothers, was brought to Ashland last night from Eugene by Sheriff Stickler of Lane county, and M. Coterri, special agent of the Southern Pacific company. He gave the information that his sons had not been at home since October 1, and that he had heard nothing from them since that date.

Sheriff Breen and District Attorney Davis of Del Norte county, California, have been giving valuable aid and they, together with several special agents were combing the mountains from Crescent City westward to the coast.

Sheriff Breen and about thirty officers of Del Norte county, are combing the mountains of that district. A report was received today that part of the man-hunting force was on the trail of at least one suspect. Late yesterday the sheriff and the party accompanying him came upon a camp fire that was still warm. Footprints were easily discernible and were photographed.

The Signpost of Health

STOP LOOK LISTEN

Conducted by the Health Center

Tired and listless you are dragging yourself homeward after a hard day's work. Suddenly that cry strikes your ear. Horrors! An auto almost completely overturned with a woman pinned underneath. You dash madly to the rescue (Where did your tired body get the energy?) You broke all your speed records getting there. "Oh! If only this part could be tipped a little more, the woman might be freed enough to be pulled out." You never did have much strength in your back and arms, but a wave of strength surges over you, you strain and struggle and wonders of wonders, it begins to tip, the woman wriggles free and you pull her out and away from danger. Question: Where did you get that strength? Answer: A great emotion set the emergency mechanism of the body into action.

Again: A fierce looking dog starts to chase you. You gaze wildly around for means of escape. Ah! a high board fence! Once over and you would be safe. What a sprint! You spring, catch the top, pull yourself up and gnash go the brute's teeth on thin air! Next day you take another look at that fence. Impossible! You can't believe you went over it and weren't having a night mare instead. In the first place, you never could run, also you can't jump and skirts always interfered with getting over fences seeming only half as high as that. Question: How did you do it? Answer: A great emotion set the emergency mechanism of the body into action.

Fire breaks out. An old woman, bed-ridden for years, gets out of her bed and flees to safety! What! Yes, and the catty neighbors say that if she could do it then she could do it all the time. But they are wrong. Question: Where did her strength come from? Answer: A great emotion set such powerful chemicals free in her body that her emergency mechanism enabled her to get into action once more—but the chemicals don't last.

Now what is all this about? What explanation is there for these seeming miracles? Well, in the first place there are safety devices in the body to prevent our using all of our strength at once. We feel tired after a given amount of exertion. The lighted match (which is the nerve message) can't reach the gunpowder (which is the muscles we are trying to set off) and we say we are fatigued. Now let a great emotion be aroused such as is roused by a cry of Fire! Murder! Help! and the sympathetic nervous system is thrown into great excitement. Now the emergency mechanism is set off forthwith. A "Chemical message" is set free by the odd little ductless glands, called the adrenal glands, which lie one on top of each kidney. Instantly the increased nerve flame bridges the gap to the gunpowder muscles and a tremendous explosion of energy takes place. No wonder we feel a surge of strength.

Nor is that all. If the muscles have excessive work to do, they must have more gunpowder or fuel to explode. Just as soon as the "chemical message" from the adrenal glands reaches the master chemist of the liver laboratory a storeroom is immediately unlocked and a flood of sugar is sent off to the muscles to burn for energy.

But how is it going to get there fast enough when speed laws are being broken? The chemical message has gone right on to the pumping plant and the heart gets up such a tremendous head of steam, so to speak, that the increased blood pressure gets the sugar there in a flash.

But you know neither gasoline, gunpowder or sugar can combust without oxygon and we need a big supply. All right—the passages through which the air is sucked are stretched by that chemical message to let in every possible molecule of oxygen.

Good! But supposing we were wounded—we never could afford to lose much blood—it's too precious. That has been looked after, too—the adrenal secretion has greatly increased the clotting power of the blood,—so the bleeding will stop quickly. Some chemical message this, isn't it?

But have we a sufficient quantity of blood for all this muscle's demand? No, we haven't, unless we take it away from others parts of the body, and that very thing takes place. Digestion is stopped; blood is taken from the abdomen where it is not needed and sent to the muscles. And what happens to your face? It doesn't need blood in order to work, so you turn white as a sheet to save that previous blood for the muscles. What happens to your mouth? Can you explain the dryness now?

The very queerest thing of all is the way our hairy coat—or rather the fuzzy coat that now takes the place of the one our ancestors had a few million years ago—stands out on end like pussy-cat's when she wants to scare enemy dog into thinking she is too formidable to attack and he's better trun tail and run. Don't you believe it? Surely it's so. Here's a little muscle attached to the shaft of each tiny hair over our skin and when we are frightened the muscle contracts and pulls the hair up straight—gooseflesh we call it. Sometimes we do it to keep warm. Queer, aren't we?

Besides being interesting doesn't the way the emotions set off the emergency mechanism explain why savages use tom-toms to cure illness by arousing emotion. Why the Indian medicine men go through such mysterious, awe-inspiring rites over the sick? Why rousing a strong emotion will sometimes cure a case of shell-shock?

It opens up an interesting field of speculation to say the least, don't you agree?

PRO-GERMAN WAR EDITORS DENIED TRIAL'S REVIEW

Supreme Court Rules Rumley and Two Conspirators Must Serve Sentences.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—The supreme court today denied the petition of Dr. Edward A. Rumley and his associates for a review of their conviction and sentence for conspiracy to hide the interest held by the German government in the New York Evening Mail during the early part of the war.

Appeal to the supreme court was based on the following grounds:

That portions of depositions excluded as evidence were shown the jury during its deliberations.

That the court instructed the jury that knowledge of the German government ownership might be imputed to the defendants even if they have in fact no knowledge.

That the court erred in admitting evidence of the defendants' pro-German sympathies prior to war as bearing on guilt after declaration of war.

CATTLEMAN BURIED.

MERCED, Oct. 22.—More than two hundred persons attended the funeral of G. H. Drakeley, Atwater cattle man, at his residence in that town Saturday afternoon. Rev. H. R. Salisbury of the local Methodist church preached the sermon.

FURNITURE NEED OF FIRE VICTIMS TOLD BY WOMAN

Berkeley Sufferers Use Boxes for Chairs, Says Aid Leader.

BERKELEY, Oct. 20. — The need for furniture for fire victims is still urgent in Berkeley, according to an appeal issued today by Mrs. Lewis Hicks, president of the Mobilized Women, who is in charge of a "furniture depot" for the disaster relief committee at Dwight way and Shattuck avenue.

Concerning the need, Mrs. Hicks says:

"The relief workers report that many fire refugees are living in bare rooms with packing boxes for chairs and tables. All are showing a wonderfully brave spirit spirit in accepting their posses and adjusting themselves to conditions, according to the reports coming to the committee. Nevertheless it has been a very generally expressed desire on the part of the popl who escaped by the fortunate turn of the wind that they be allowed to share with their fellow citizens who were in the path of the flames.

"The committee also has called attention to the fact that the fires raging in the hills back of Claremont and Piedmont were arrested very largely by the work of college students and the forces under the direction of the Contra Costa Hills Fire Protection Committee. Had it not been for their heroic and determined stand, large sections of the hill district south of the university, including some of the finest residential sections of Oakland and Piedmont would have been jeopardized. It has been suggested by the committee that if the fortunate people of these districts had their attention called to the very real need for furniture which still exists, they with the furniture bureau at Dwight way and Shattuck avenue, Berkeley 150, and ask that a truck be sent for surplus furniture. Any families who have furniture stored or laid aside can have it put to good use and will certainly derive much pleasure from knowing that it is serving so useful a purpose."

Watch the prettier teeth that come when you combat the film

Here is a test which has brought to millions a new conception of clean teeth. Wherever you look you see the results. Teeth glisten as they never did before.

If you don't know this method, you should find it out. You owe that to yourself.

Film is dingy

You feel on your teeth a viscous film. No ordinary tooth paste effectively combats it. So much of it clings and stays, becomes discolored, and then forms dingy coats. That is how teeth lose their beauty.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

So dental science sought and found two effective film combatants. One disintegrates the film, one removes it without harmful scouring.

Able authorities proved these methods by many careful tests. Then a new-type tooth paste was created to apply them daily. The name is Pepsodent. Now careful people of some 50 nations employ it, largely by dental advice.

Other new effects

Pepsodent also multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. Also its starch digestant. Those are Nature's agents for combating acid and starch deposits. Every use of Pepsodent gives them manifold power.

So this creation has brought to millions new beauty, new cleanliness, new protection.

It will delight

Pepsodent will bring to you a delightful revelation. The results are quick and apparent.

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth become whiter as the film-coats disappear.

Then you will realize why you and your family should ever use this method. Cut out coupon now.

Protect the enamel

Pepsodent disintegrates the film, then polishes it with an agent far softer than enamel. Never use a film combatant which contains harsh grit.

MAUDE FULTON HAPPY CAST IN 'THE GOLDFISH'

Star Plays Role With More Sympathy Than Given by Marjorie Rambeau.

By WOOD SOANES.

"You cannot have success and happiness—you must leave something for the failure."

On this thought does Gladys Ungle base "The Goldfish," a delightful comedy "of many manners" presented for the first time in Oakland at the Fulton theater last night with Maude Fulton in one of her happiest moods as Jenny, the girl created by Marjorie Rambeau.

It was a role well suited to Miss Fulton, one in fact that might have been written for her and one incidentally (this must be whispered) that she played with more verve and greater sympathy than did Miss Rambeau. Comparisons, often called odious, are sometimes necessary.

To this chronicler it seemed that Miss Fulton was more successful in effecting the character changes in the role. Her shop girl of the first act was what one would expect a Fulton to make it. But it was in the second and third acts that she showed to finest advantage.

Jenny, so the story goes, has bargained with Jimmy, her song-plugging husband, a youngster like herself, that if once they find married life annoying the annoyed one will present the other with a goldfish. Singularly both Jenny and Jimmy buy their gold fishes at the same moment.

He does his purchasing in a fit of temper, she because a money-loose Count tells her that she will do better if married to more money.

She tries it with Herman Krause and starts on the business of becoming a lady. Thence she goes, always legally, to Hamilton J. Power and Park View. Power conveniently dies.

Up to the last scene of the last act the author is true to her theme but then in order to fit her play to the tastes of the Philistines she throws in a sort of a sop and lets her principal character eat her cake and have it. In a word she has all the wealth and position she craved and also she gets Jimmy, her first and only love.

"The Goldfish" none the less is true to nature. That is perhaps what a Jenny would have done and all of us Philistines were sent home in a peaceful and lawful frame of mind, convinced that love would win out in the end. Miss Ungle has written a smart comedy and one with many sharply drawn characterizations and neatly balanced scenes.

Miss Fulton was excellent as Jenny. There was nothing to ask for and her gowns in the last act caused feminine gasps. J. Anthony Smythe, cast in a role somewhat out of his line, rose to the emergency in noble Roman gladiator fashion. John Ivan was polished as the diabolical Count Nevski; Henry Shumer was unctious and wholesome as Krause; and V. Talbot Henderson was typical without being offensive as the English fortune hunter.

THE distinction of being the only woman in the cast is accorded Florence Locke for the forthcoming production of Bernard Shaw's comedy, "Captain Brassbound's Conversion," to be presented as the third play of the Greek Theater Players of the present season.

FLORENCE LOCKE.

Although one of the less well known of Shaw's works, the play is said to be as scintillating a "take-off" on modern customs and behavior as other comedies from the pen of the well known author. Its Berkeley presentations are scheduled for Friday evening next and the succeeding Saturday and Monday evenings.

Miss Locke, the leading woman of the play, is well known to audiences on both sides of the bay. She has appeared wit the Greek theater Players in a number of productions, among them Shaw's Heartbreak House," Oscar Wilde's "The Importance of Being Earnest" and A. A. Milne's "Belinda."

TWENTY SEASONS AGO TODAY

Trixie Friganza is playing the slim widow in "The Prince of Pilsen," with J s Dandy.

Anton Van Buren, who will play the title role, is a student at the university. He appeared last year with the Irving Pichel Players at the Berkeley Playhous in "The Faithful." As an interesting coincidence Va. Buuren has spent some time traveling on the northwest coast of Africa where the scene of the play is laid.

Some of the other members of the cast are Harold Minger, this year's assistant producing director; John Herzog, who has played in both of this season's productions; and Lester Raphael, a newcomer. The piece will be presented at Wheeler Hall under the direction of Dan Totheroh.

Peggy Joyce Threatens To Sue Charlie Chaplin

Variety, the theatrical magazine, which manages to get "the low down" on everything, is presenting an amusing tale anent Peggy Hopkins Joyce and Charles Spencer Chaplin for the delectation of the trade, and one which is worth a repeat here because of the fame of the two principals.

It appears that when Chaplin went back to New York recently to view the New York premier of his new dramatic picture, "A Woman of Paris," in which Edna Purviance is starred, he took occasion to drop in at the Carroll theater to give a look-see to the "Vanities" in which Peggy is disporting her charms.

FORTY SEASONS AGO TODAY

James Fagan will reopen the Adelphi in San Francisco this week with variety.

After the show he dropped back stage to pay his respects to his former fiancee and was graciously received. Then, apparently, some one told Miss Peggy of "A Woman of Paris," and on the second night she treated the film star to what is commonly known as the royal razz. For, says the musical comedy queen:

The story of "A Woman of Paris" is the story of the life of Peggy Joyce, or a few incidents, and it was told to Chaplin in confidence while the pair were dining in Paris, and it was understood that if it were ever used, it would be on a co-partnership basis.

Now the feminine heart-breaker threatens to sue her erstwhile suitor and everything.

EXITS AND ENTRANCES

Eleanor Duse is to appear only in middle aged roles during her American tour. "I am what I am," the aged tragedienne told reporters.

"The Irish Jew," far from being the hit that "Able's Irish Rose" is, has proved a riotous "flop," the backers of the show having lost about $20,000. Meanwhile there are five companies out with the Nichols show and a sixth being rehearsed for Boston.

John Drinkwater's wife, Kathleen Walpole, is suing him for divorce. They were married in 1906.

Cyril Maude has purchased a farm near Oakdale, Ont., where he worked as a boy before starting his stage career. He is importing a Holland dairy man to install a model dairy farm on the place.

Now one hears that John Barrymore will inaugurate his road tour in "Hamlet" by playing four weeks at the Manhattan opera house.

The other distinguished male Barrymore, Lionel, and Irene Fenwick will soon start their season under the Belasco banners in "Laugh Clown, Laugh." It will play the sticks first getting to New York in December.

* * *

George M. Cohan has not yet found an actor to take his place in "The Song and Dance Man," since Lynn Overman, who has returned to vaudeville, retired from the cast. There is a possibility that Robert Ames will assume the part.

Which, for no reason whatsoever, recalls the fact that Charles Ray is being mentioned for the film version of "Merton of the Movies."

* * *

This department is getting quite worried about "Gypsy Jim." The premier was given at the Fulton and it was scheduled for New York in October, but so far there hasn't been a chirp about it and Robert Warwick, who was to be starred, is still vacationing in Oakland.

Turkish Embassy in London to Reopen

LONDON, Oct. 22.—(By Associated Press).—It is expected that the Turkish embassy which has been closed since 1914 will be reopened soon. The Embassy, which is in Portland Place, presents a grimy exterior for it has remained untouched all these years. A solitary caretaer has been in charge of the building and he stated today that the furniture was just as it had been left in 1914. He complained that he had been without wages for months but he expected his little account would be satisfactorily settled.

"No, we have had no burglars. There is nothing here to steal," he concluded.

Earthquake Beheads High Peak in Alps

GENEVA, Oct. 22.—(By Associated Press).—Mount Gallo, a peak 7000 feet high in the Lower Engadine, has been decapitated by an earthquake.

When the Zurich observatory registered the Japan earthquake shock, it also reported slight shocks in the Canton of Grisons, Switzerland. Alpinists from Maloja who recently climbed Mount Gallo found that its top, a huge granite block, undermined by deep crevices, had fallen into a ravine several thousand feet below.

Steam of Volcano Used to Heat Office

HILO, Island of Hawaii, Oct. 22.—(Associated Press). — Steam flowing everlastingly from a fissure in the side of the volcano of Kilauea is now being used to heat the office building of the Hawaiian National Park Commission.

The vapor leaves the ground at 120 degrees and is guided through conduits a distance of forty feet to the building. In the winter time it easily keeps the offices at a uniform temperature 70 degrees.

Pair of Half Soles Teuton Lawyer's Fee

BERLIN, Oct. 22.—(By Associated Press).—A Berlin shoemaker recently sued a prominent German actress for libel and won a decision. The actress was required to pay the costs of the case. When the judge asked the shoemaker the amount of his lawyer's fee, the cobbler replied he had promised the attorney a new pair of half-soles. The court required the actress to pay the cost of mending the lawyer's shoes.

Lassen Peak Again In Violent Eruption

'COVERED WAGON' WILL OPEN NEW LURIE THEATER

"The great American picture at last," is truly descriptive of the remarkable screen version of Emerson Hough's story, "The Covered Wagon," which will be seen at the New Lurie theater for a limited engagement beginning Sunday.

It is different from most American epics heretofore shown on screen or stage, for the reason that it deals with an intimate and widely appealing phase of our peculiar national development. It shows a nation not smug and contented with unusual benefits and blessings, but answering that greatest urge for expansion and the carrying forward of the best in tradition and ideals. Nothing ever placed between the pages of book or behind footlights has so vividly shown that spirit which alone made the United States the greatest of nations.

The trials, struggles, hardships, and bravery of men, women, girls and boys in that great forward march of civilization epitomized in the closing forties, when progress moved westward, is at last brought before our eyes and quite correctly in this superlative of film creations. Those who see this motion picture wonder will feel justly proud if they happen to have been born in this land and others who have come here from distant shores will have a vast satisfactory thrill over their wisdom in adoption. The finest players in pictures were recruited to make lasting fame in the great characterizations of this story. Among them are J. Warren Kerrigan, Lois Wilson, Ethel Wales, Ernest Torrence, Tully Marshall and others.

A selected orchestra of 20 pieces will play Hugo Reisenfeld's special score.

ORPHEUM

Bessie Barriscale, popular screen star and legitimate stage favorite, heads the bill at the Oakland Orpheum this week. Pearl Hickman's talented kiddies and Billy Arlington, famous hobo comedian, also are feature acts for popular favor.

Miss Barriscale presents an oddity in playlets, called "Picking Peaches." Miss Barriscale plays four different parts. It is by far the most interesting thing she has presented in many a season.

Miss Pearl Hickman's twenty tots, all young stars, dance and sing like finished stage veterans. The act is beautifully staged and the kaleidiscopic speed of the routine makes for an exceptional half hour's entertainment.

Bringing grace to the art of buffoonery is the particular genius of Billy Arlington, the serio-comic tramp whose dignified maneuvers under ludicrous circumstances capture the audience. Every move of Arlington's is a bit of studied satire with a fine touch of thought behind it. His co-workers are Eleanor Arlington, C. I. Taylor and Joseph Ward.

Polly and Oz are youthful and personable fellow and a girl whose work is perfect harmony. They have the nack of getting humor into their songs and music.

'Orace will be at the Orpheum this week. Though he is a dummy he is not dumb. Russell Carr, greatest of English ventriloquists, brings 'Orace on the stage and puts in his mouth a line of humorous patter.

Harry Moore's manipulations of an ordinary piece of paper is the last word in ingenuity.

The feature photoplay for the week is "The Madness of Youth," starring John Gilbert. The story of a thief disguised as a philosopher who goes into a family apparently to reform them and in the process reforms himself. Aesop's Fables, Pathe News, and Topics of the Day conclude the bill.

STATE

William Russell is at the State theater this first part of the week in his newest picture, "Alias the Night Wind," tale of a crook who worked so fast here, there and everywhere that he was nicknamed "The Night Wind." Some of the most remarkable night scenes of a large city's streets ever filmed are in this picture.

The vaudeville bill includes Miller Bros. and Read, with their seven piece jazz band, in a study in dance and jazz; Cooper and Valli, in their funny talking act; The Almonds, in a vaudeville surprise; Charles and Cecil McNaughton, in clever imitations, and Don Stanley in his musical act.

Neptune Beach

Thursday the American Legion Swim at Neptune Beach drew big crowds and Alameda Post, No. 9, did its utmost to give every one a good time. At the dance in the evening representatives from all parts of the United States vied with each each other in dancing with Neptune's mermaids and Alameda belles.

Sunday the usual crowd of beach fans visited the beach resort. The social dance in the afternoon was the mecca of a great many and the evening dance was well patronized. On the beach the bathers enjoyed games on the sand when not in the big pool.

Next Sunday the beach concessionaires are giving a Hallowe'en ball and are going to have a display of fireworks.

CHIMES

The final showings of the Paramount picture, "The Woman With Four Faces," which opened at the Chimes theater yesterday, will occur today. This is a Herbert Brenon production, with Betty Compson and Richard Dix in featured roles—a crook story treated in a masterly way

Starting Tuesday for a two days' showing is "Lawful Larceny," a Paramount picture. The cast includes in featured roles Hope Hampton, Nita Naldi, Lew Cody and Conrad Nagel. Playing in the support are Russell Griffin, Yvonne Hughes, Dolores Costello, Gilda Gray, Florence O'Denishawn and Alice Maison. Allan Dwan directed the picture.

AMERICAN

"Zaza" was given to the screen by Allan Dwan, producer of "Robin Hood" and other great pictures.

With her vivid personality, her charming Frenchy manners and her ability to wear striking gowns, Gloria Swanson is ideally suited to the role of Zaza, the pet of "The Odeon," a Parisian cafe, who dared to hope for the clean, real love of Dufresne, a noted diplomat.

In the story Zaza meets with a terrible accident conceived by a jealous woman and Dufresne is the first to offer her aid. He takes her to his home regardless of the fact that he is married. Zaza leaves when she recovers and Madame Dufresne returns but in later years her love is requited by circumstance.

H. B. Warner has the role of Dufresne, and many other prominent Paramount stars are seen in support of Miss Swanson.

Other film features and a special concert by Owen Sweeten and his orchestra are on the bill. Today closes the three-day engagement of "Ruggles of Red Gap."

NEW FRANKLIN

The play was taken from Joseph Hergesheimer's novel and was filmed in Cuba with most of the scenes taken in Havana. The picture shows the old Morro castle, a building in the market square erected in 1660, and other interesting Cuban scenes.

The story depicts the struggle of the Cubans to throw off the yoke of the despot, and is replete with action, plot and counterplot. It also depicts a strong love theme with Miss Gish in the role of La Clavel. Although Barthelmess and Miss Gish are the outstanding star, there are many other notable screen figures in the cast.

Beginning Wednesday the Franklin will present Anita Stewart in "Playthings of Destiny," for the remainder of the week. The bill changes twice each week under the new management.

BROADWAY

With a cast the like of which has never before been gathered together in one production, "Jacqueline, or Blazing Barriers," a new James Oliver Curwood story, shows for the last times today at the Broadway theater.

Heading the aggregation of popular favorites is Lew Cody, who has been seen in many tremendous productions, supported by such well-known players as Marguerite Courtot, Sheldon Lewis, J. Barney Sherry, Edmund Breese, Effie Shannon and a host of other popular stars.

CENTURY

"The Killer," Jack Russell's latest vehicle, is being presented at the Oakland Century theater this week. Russell's midget chorus of tiny tots are appearing as a special added attraction.

Russell appears in the star role of the piece and is ably supported by his company of thirty entertainers. The story concerns the search for "the killer," a mysterious personage, whose identity Russell and the management of the theater have refused to divulge.

FOX-OAKLAND

Two headline attractions and a number of special entertainment features make up the new program at the Fox-Oakland theater this week. Tom Mix, in Zane Grey's famous story of the west, "The Lone Star Ranger," and Lupino Lane, international comedian, in "A Friendly Husband," are the featured attractions. Oakland's own tenor, known as "The Voice," is an extra attraction for the week. Billie Dove, leading lady with Tom Mix, appearing in person will be a special feature for today, tomorrow and Wednesday.

Tom Mix, with Billie Dove and an excellent cast give realism to the stirring tale," "The Lone Star Ranger."

Lupino Lane, since his advent into the films in America, has created some excellent comedies. "A Friendly Husband" is his first five-reel presentation.

As a special feature with a surprise element an Oakland own tenor, billed simply as "The Voice," presents an excellent musical program. In addition there is offered a Fox News Weekly, organ recitals, and orchestral concerts on the current program.

Billie Dove, the petite and charming leading lady with Tom Mix, appears in person today, tomorrow and Wednesday as a special added attraction.

Curran Theater

A week of laughter and song, with Sir Harry Lauder, the inimitable interpreter of homely character songs, is this week's offering at the Curran, San Francisco, opening tonight. There will be six night and four matinee performances. The first matinee is announced for Wednesday. The fact that Sir Harry will not appear in Oakland this season, and the further announcement that his San Francisco engagement will virtually inaugurate his long-planned world tour, which will keep him away from the United States for several years, has concentrated attention upon the Curran appearances.

Sir Harry's company promises some novelties this season. Edna Maude, English dancer, and Olga Morselli, a French violiniste, will be among the newcomers. The company of associate entertainers will also include the Brothers Gaudsmith, London Hippodrome clowns; Gintaro, Oriental top-spinn , and Marian Vallance, vocalist.

Lauder will offer several new songs, including "Love Makes the World a Merry-Go-Round," "Dixie Girls Are Good Enough for Me," and "Saturday Night." Among the revivals will be the inetful "I Think I'll Get Wed in the Summertime," "Come Back Nanny" and "O'er th' Hill tae Ardentiny."

T. & D.

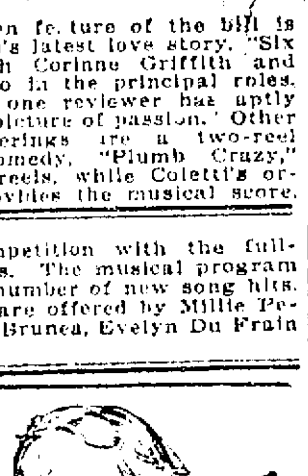

"The Artists' Ball," the musical tidbit provided by the Fanchon and Marco Gaities troupe on the current Oakland T. & D. theater program, is participated in by the Diehl Sisters, two clever mimics who sing and dance in regular clown fashion; Johnny Perkins, the fat and funny comic; Helene Hughes, a singer with an appealing voice; Pierrette Garnier, a dancer, and a chorus of pretty girls.

The screen feature of the bill is Elinor Glyn's latest love story, "Six Days," with Corinne Griffith and Frank Mayo in the principal roles. It is what one reviewer has aptly dubbed "a picture of passion." Other screen offerings are a two-reel Christie comedy, "Plumb Crazy," and news reels, while Coletti's orchestra provides the musical score.

Coughing—a futile waste of strength—

MEDICAL authorities agree that coughing aggravates the irritation in throat and lungs that is causing the cough and therefore only makes you cough the more. Control the cough and the irritation is soon relieved.

Dr. King's New Discovery stops coughing quickly by gently stimulating the mucous membranes to throw off clogging secretions. Harmlessly and effectively the violent throat and chest spasms are quieted, and the inflammation then quickly clears away. It has an agreeable taste. All druggists.

NEBRASKA LABOR ACCUSES PAPER OF 'RED' POLICIES

Support Is Withdrawn From Publication in War on Radicalism.

OMAHA, Oct. 22.—Another move in what was declared to be action intended to rid organized labor of radicalism was made yesterday when the executive committee of the state federation of labor withdrew endorsement of the Midwest Labor News, a labor paper published here.

The action was taken, committee members said, on the ground the paper has published views derogatory to the policies of the state and American federation.

According to Joseph A. Lochray, editor and publisher of the paper, the objection of the federation men to the paper is due to publicity it has given to the word, "in the interest of amalgamation of unions into 'one big union' for each industry." He upbraided their action as "a trial and sentence in which the jury was picked but the defendant not allowed to be heard or to be present."

"Grandest on Earth," States Mrs. Furtado

"I think Tanlac the grandest medicine on earth, and it made me gain fifteen pounds and feel just perfect," was the enthusiastic comment recently made by Mrs Mary Furtado, 2423 18th St., Sacramento, Cal., in relating her experience.

"Several years ago I had an attack of the flu, which left me in such a weak, run-down condition that I couldn't do a bit of my housework. I had no appetite whatever, and ate so little that I got very thin. My nerves were in such a fearful state it seemed I would just go to pieces, and everything worried me.

"Tanlac not only increased my weight fifteen pounds, but that tired feeling left me completely, my appetite improved wonderfully and my nervousness disappeared entirely. Now, when I begin to feel the least bit run-down I get Tanlac, and it never fails to build me up."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 37 million bottles sold.

SONORA, Oct. 22.—Tuolumne apples to England. The Tuolumne Apple Growers' Association has arranged with a San Francisco exporting firm to send a large trial shipment across the Atlantic about November 1. The "big red apple" which has made Tuolumne famous, will be tried on the Britons. Its keeping quality will land it in London in prime condition. The cost to lay down a box of this fruit in the British metropolis is $1, but the exporter declares returns will be equally high in proportion and feels certain the growers will receive much more net profit than the California market pays.

LONELY RIDERS WOULD WRITE TO SAN JOSE GIRLS

SAN JOSE, Oct. 20.—From the lonesome dwellers of the cattle ranch and frontier came a call today to the girls of San Jose for letters to break the monotony of the men who make their homes in the great open spaces.

City Manager Clarence B. Goodwin received from the Fraternal Order of Cow Punchers, 713 East Union street, Seattle Washington, asking that the manager request San Josians, especially lonesome girls who wish to communicate with lonesome men, with no mention, however, of prospective matrimony, or anyody at all interested in outdoor life, write to the members of the newly formed order.

The letter follows. "This is a personal appeal. Humanity calls from the wilderness. Will you answer? As the largest organization of cowboys in the world, we are taking the liberty of writing you, as have been requested by a number of our members who live in lonely and remote places. These boys, fearless hunters of the mountain and desert, wild riders of the plains, who spend many lonesome hours on the range, have the idea that you, as chief executive of your city, can place them in touch with honorable girls, women, men and boys of your community who would be interested in outdoor life for an exchange of correspondence, to lighten life along the long, long trail.

Persons wishing to write to the lonesome cowboys have a long list to choose from, for in addition to the plain cowboy members of the new order, there is a list of officers with romantic titles, such as supreme vigilance counsel, supreme ranger and scout, supreme dauntless immigrant, supreme pony express rider, supreme protective cowboy, supreme mountain stage driver, supreme exploring frontiersman, supreme conquering chaplain, supreme intrepid pioneer, supreme wagon train marksman, etc.

LIVERMORE WILL MAKE DRIVE FOR C. OF C. MEMBERS

Campaign to Enroll Ranchers and Farmers Will Be Begun Nov. 5.

LIVERMORE, Oct. 22.—A membership drive, which will have as its object the enlistment of not only the business men of Livermore but the farmers and ranchers of the surrounding country, will be started on Monday, Nov. 5, by the Livermore Chamber of Commerce according to plans formulated at the meeting of the chamber in the American Legion club house last night. President M. G. Callaghan of the chamber, who has always favored the enlistment of the farming and ranching men, declares he believes that any work done by the chamber which aids the city of Livermore will also be of benefit to men in the outlying districts.

With the commencement of work on the U. S. Veterans' Bureau hospital, the recent additions of two new manufacturing enterprises to the already excellent industrial life of the town, and the rumored coming of still another factory, it becomes necessary, in the opinion of Callaghan, to have a live, active body of men who will work hard to make Livermore and the Livermore valley thrive as never before. The chamber with a small membership has been active in preventing Southern California and other parts of the state from taking the new hospital from Livermore. The commencement of preliminary work on the hospital site, near Cresta Blanca, is to a great extent the direct result of untiring work of the Livermore Chamber of Commerce. The Oso Products company, which is now ready to begin manufacturing, is another tribute to the enterprise of the chamber, which purchased the site and aided the company in having a factory erected on the land. With a larger membership the chamber will be able to do even more good work for the town of Livermore, says Callaghan.

Cat Has Aversion For Meat; Plays With Birds, Mice

HAYWARD, Oct. 22.—The day when "the lion shall lie down with the lamb" seems to have arrived, at least in Hayward.

A cat is responsible for that conclusion. She not only eats vegetables and other fruits and cereals usually thought of as being only for human consumption, but also she refuses to eat meat of any kind. She carries her aversion so far as to have a positive affection for mice, birds and other small game as playmates, according to her owner.

Cleopatra is the name of the cat, which belongs to Otto Emerson, naturalist and writer of Hayward, who vouches for the story of her unusual tastes. He firmly declares that Cleopatra not only has a positive aversion for meat as a food, but that playing with a mouse or small bird and finally letting it go scot-free and unharmed is her diversion. He states that Cleopatra often enters the house with a mouse or sparrow tenderly carried in her jaws and plays with them and even seems to caress them as though she were trying to make friends. But to date her every friendly advance has ended with her new playmate making off in great haste at the first opportunity.

MERCED, Oct. 22.—John Canapa, Merced rancher, suffered severe burns about the hands and forearms, in a gasoline explosion Friday, while he was attempting to fill the gas tank of his automobile by the light of a kerosone lamp. His barn, together with the automobile and a wagon, were destroyed by the fire. Canapa released two horses which were tied in the barn before being rushed into town for medical attention.

The fire department responded to an alarm, but on account of the absence of fire plugs near enough, the building was a total loss.

None of that variety were taken last night. Only a small catch of "horse" mackerel was taken. The first rock cod to be taken in this bay in several weeks was caught in the nets of fishermen working off Lighthouse Point last night.

Miss Caroline Olsen, well known horsewoman of this section, has won her case in small claims court for recovery of $35, alleged to be due from Andrew Gomez, to whom she recently sold a horse. Gomez' defense was that the horse he received at the hands of Miss Olsen was not the horse that he bought.

SAN BENITO CO. TOMATO CROP IS OF RECORD SIZE

Perfect Growing Weather Has Produced Heaviest Growth Known.

HOLLISTER, Oct. 22.—A warm spell followed the few heavy rains that visited here a couple of weeks ago, with the result that tomato canning is now in full swing. With heavy sugar content tomatoes are being handled by an eager, high priced market.

One cannery here out of three, has a force of 150 men, women and children handling solely the tomato pack, and in addition a special train of seven or eight cars leaves every evening for the San Jose tomato canneries.

It is the heaviest, richest tomato crop this section has ever enjoyed. Auto trucks are also carrying a large part of the crop to outside packers, as well as to the city markets.

Scout Head to Ban Boys Asking Rides

HAYWARD, Oct. 22.—Holding that it is against all the teachings of proper Scout ethics, Henry L. Hopkins, field executive of Alameda county, is preparing partially to eliminate the present custom of youths standing at street corners and signaling passing autoists for a ride. Scout masters not only of Hayward, but the whole end of lower Alameda county, will be asked by Hopkins to so instruct their charges. Approbation of the idea has been expressed from all quarters in preliminary conferences, states Hopkins.

Prevalence of youths standing at street corners hailing autoists has passed from a nuisance to an absolute menace, says the executive. There is a continual danger of colliding with one or more of the boys in addition to the fact that the driver is responsible and liable should he pick them up and an accident follow.

Cooperative Club Would Change Name

HAYWARD, Oct. 22.—Proposed change in the name of the organization will be voted on at a meeting of the Smalley Avenue Co-operative Club, to be held Wednesday night at the home of B. J. Perry, 462 Smalley Avenue, as the initial step in an expansion and enlargement campaign to open within the next month. Should the change of title be accepted, and according to members there is small doubt of it, an amendment to the present by-laws of the club will be accordingly arranged.

The present name of the organization, it is held, is not indicative of its scope and extent, and will be even less so if the proposed enlargment program is carried through. A membership of residents reaching from the Southern Pacific to the Western Pacific tracks, and from the Sunset boulevard to A street, is planned.

900 Autos An Hour Through Santa Clara

SANTA CLARA, Oct. 22.—Calculations made by Marshal George P. Fallon during the past two days show that nearly 900 automobiles pass through Santa Clara every hour during the day time. According to Fallon, a count was made of every machine passing through the main business section and he counted over 900 cars an hour for two hours on Saturday and Sunday. Saturday Civil Suits Tabooed By Hungry Judge

HAYWARD, Oct. 22.—When Judge Jacob Harder Jr. missed mid-day meals on two successive Saturdays, and was forced to cancel important engagements in both instances, he issued the ultimatum that hereafter there would be no civil suits heard on such days. The local court is supposed to close promptly at noon Saturdays, points out the judge, and continually to remain open for several hours after that time is an injustice to all its attaches. Civil suits will be restricted exclusively to the five remaining week days.

If only the matters included in the civil suits were of importance or moment, asserts Judge Harder, the court would gladly continue, but too often a wordy, lengthy controversy revolves around the non-payment of a few dollars.

Monterey Police Still Searching For Young Girl

Other Cities of State Asked to Help Find 16-Year-Old Mable Johns.

MONTEREY, Oct. 22.—Police and detectives of this section are completely baffled by the disappearance of Miss Mable Johns, 16-year-old daughter of Mrs. M. Johns, of this city, who is reported to have eloped with a soldier named Pope on Wednesday evening of this week. Although the search has now been extended into San Francisco and Los Angeles no trace of the girl or the soldier has been found.

MISS [illegible] JOHNS

A rumor was afloat here today that the couple has left Monterey on one of the freight boats which put in here three times each week. This could not be verified. However, it is believed possible, since no word has been heard that would lead to the belief that they had motored away, as was originally thought.

In an effort to locate her missing daughter Mrs. Johns today appealed to the press of this section, sending out snapshot photos, the only ones available, and a description of both the girl and the man with whom she is now believed to have left Monterey Peninsula.

Miss Johns is a blonde, rather large for her age.

Bert Pope, the soldier, is described as being about 35 years of age, stout and rather dark. He is now absent without leave from the Presidio of Monterey, and will, in due time be declared a deserter.

The Auto Paint Shop, the Baccei Bros.' garage and the Yolo Battery and Electric Works, all located on the north side of Main street, between College and Elm, were damaged.

Federation of Bay Commerce Bodies Will Be Discused

SAN LEANDRO, Oct. 22.—The proposal of the San Leandro chamber of commerce for the establishment of a federation of chambers of commerce of the San Francisco bay district will be presented to the board of directors of the Berkeley chamber tonight by L. H. Hill, vice-president of the San Leandro chamber and originator of the plan, and U. S. Ackles, secretary-manager of the chamber. The project has already been given the support of the San Francisco chamber, through Colonel C. S. Simmons, manager, and of the Oakland chamber through its board of directors.

Hill, J. Allison Bruner, president of the local chamber, Secretary Ackles and A. E. Pelton, chairman of the city council, will attend a meeting of the Commuters Club in San Francisco on November 15 at which the move for merging cities of the bay into one municipality will be discussed. San Leandro, it is understood, will not favor this move, and will attempt to have the club devote its energies to the establishment of a federated chamber rather to the plan for a merger.

Brings Dinner Guests Home In Airplane

Mrs. Elizabeth Doak Towle decided rather suddenly to return home to the Doak ranch—one of the show places near Napa—to spend the week end with her mother and little daughter

But it was difficult to get a train at the hour of decision, so she took "Mike" Dolan, ace with many an adventure to his credit, into her confidence.

"Sure, we'll make it, and have dinner at the ranch."

"Then we'll make it a party," said the young matron, "and bring up our friends."

And so it was that when the sun gilded the fields and orchards of Napa valley, airplanes began to circle overhead and to drop ominously near the farmhouses just out of town.

And to the amazement of the countryside and the utter consternation of the cows and the barnyard families, the "big birds" settled right down on the field at the south of the house and out hopped the dinner guests.

Going calling in your airplane is, as you see, right with us.

No more need to wait for ferries that are obstinate enough to run when one doesn't want them. Get into your little air motor and without mussing your marcel, you step out right at the door of your host's home, in the best of moods, and road congestion out of one's life.

Mrs. Towle is well known among the young matrons about the bay. She is a clever pianist and loves to surround herself with friends in her home. Nearly every week end finds the ranch house a busy place.

Incidentally, she made something of a record during the big fire, when she drove a truck carrying treasures to the safety zone.

Coming-Out Ball for Debutantes

The coming-out ball of the Misses Marie and Florence Welch on Saturday night at the Welch home in San Mateo was the largest deb affair of '23, and therefore inclusive of the girls of recent debutantage, their parents and friends.

Their mother—a De Laveaga—was one of the most beautiful and best loved girls of her year. And her popularity as well as the tradition that surrounds the Welch family bring to the younger generation a wide friendship among the older families of California.

A thousand guests danced in the pavilion erected on the lawn adjoining the drawing room, that looked like a corner of the Amazon river, with its wealth of tropical ferns and exotic flowers.

Many dinners preceded the ball, which nearly all the debs of the Eastbay attended, as well as the girls of the last two winters.

Among the dinner hosts were the Messrs. and Mesdames Frederick McNear, Sidney Ballou, Walter S. Martin, Gayle Anderton, Platt Kent, Walter C. Filer Alfred Oyster, Eugene Lent, Webster Jones, George Cameron, Nion Tucker, Robert Hayes Smith, Charles McCormick, Joseph O. Tobin, Jean de St. Cyr and Dr. and Mrs. Moffit.

The Entrance Hall

The floor that was selected for this hall is Armstrong's Straight Line Inlaid Linoleum (Pattern 350), black and cream, with a border of plain black linoleum

It's New and Decorative

The Bordered Linoleum Floor

PICTURE to yourself your entrance hall with a linoleum floor of alternating black and cream tiles, with a twelve-inch black border framing the floor all around the edges of the room. Or a Dutch tile effect in red and black or gray; or an Italian Renaissance floor of alternating light and dark marble blocks.

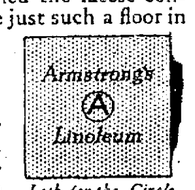

Linoleum permanently cemented in place is practically waterproof and always smooth and tight

Wouldn't you like one of these interesting floors if they could be obtained at a very moderate cost? They can be. For your enclosed sun porch, your dining-room that you are doing over in the modern style, or for your kitchen, where you have installed the latest conveniences, it is possible to have just such a floor in Armstrong's Linoleum.

Bordered linoleum floors

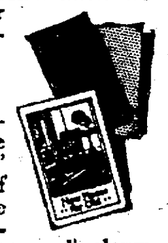

The newest idea is the bordered linoleum floor. This is a tile or pattern inlaid field, surrounded by a border of plain linoleum or two-tone Jaspé linoleum. You select a design that just fits your color scheme and lay around it a border of solid-color linoleum—black, gray, or other contrasting color. This arrangement frames the floor and dresses the room. It provides a delightful note of contrast to too great floor expanse. It lends a "cozy" air to large rooms. It looks as though the floor were "built in."

Look for the Circle "A" trademark on the burlap back

Ask your merchant

Many good stores have panels made up showing bordered linoleum floor effects. Ask to see them. Also ask for suggestive ideas of floors to fit rooms in your home where you desire unusual decorative treatment. No floor is so easy to clean as linoleum, and your bordered linoleum floor will never need refinishing or redoing. It lasts for years.

Write for free sample and booklet

Let us send you a sample of Armstrong's Linoleum and our 24-page booklet, "New Floors for Old," containing a score of colorplates of distinctive designs that you can see at good stores—Jaspés, carpet inlaids, tile inlaids, and printed patterns; linoleum rugs, printed and inlaid; also information on laying linoleum and how to care for your linoleum floors.

VINCENT RICHARDS IS DEFEATED BY HOWARD KINSEY IN GREAT CONTEST AT BERKELEY

OLYMPIANS DEFEAT ST. MARY'S ELEVEN IN GREAT GAME 9-6

Clyde King Wins Game Single Handed for Club Men with 3 Goals from Placement; Collegians Showing Surprise of Present Grid Season.

By DOUG. MONTELL.

In one of the best games of the season from the point of view of the number of thrills per square minute, St. Mary's College lost a decision to the Olympic club on the gridiron out in the fog belt at Ewing Field yesterday by a score of 9 to 6.

Packed with tense situations with sufficient anti-climaxes to do credit to a Frank Merriwell novel, the game afforded the spectators few lax moments, action being the keynote from start to finish with the outcome in doubt up to the last three minutes of play.

Ideal football weather enabled the players of both teams to maintain fast pace from the outset and the two teams, evenly matched.

Breaks played an important part in the game, which might well have ended in a tie contest for in St. Mary's being shutout, some of the unexpected things which happened during the game playing an important part in not only the scoring but in the way the game was played.

St. Mary's Line Halted Winged "O"

Suffice to say that St. Mary's, badly considered to rate on even terms with the Winged "O," gave football followers the treat of the season, playing bangup ball on defense, displaying a varied and effective offense and only for the fact that "Ducky" Grant, star punter and individual figure of all previous games, was kept out of action to rest an injured knee, the result might have been different. The St. Mary's line, at times appearing to be a sieve in mid-field, tightened once within their own twenty yard line and so stubborn was their resistance that the Olympians were unable to cross the Red and Blue goal line, only the accurate place kicking of Clyde King, former Annapolis star, enabling the Olympians to overcome the collegians.

Three place kicks gave the Olympians their only tallies of the contest while St. Mary's made their own break by blocking one of Patrick's punts and recovering it for the only touchdown of the game.

Two Sensational Marches Staged.

Two sensational marches marked the first period, the Saints working the ball for four first downs from their own 17 yard line to the Olympic club seven yard line, failing to score when a forward pass went incomplete over the goal line.

From their own 20 yard mark the Winged "O" retaliated by marching for four first downs to the St. Mary's five yard line where Underhill intercepted a forward pass to prevent the score. Hungerford punted 58 yards out of danger and the Saints took the ball in midfield and continued their attack until checked on the Olympic club's 25 yard line, Hungerford missing an attempted place kick by inches.

The first quarter ended without score but after five minutes of play the Olympians tallied in the second period, a second attempted place kick by Hungerford at the center being blocked and the Winged "O" getting the ball on the St. Mary's 23 yard line. Being unable to gain, King place kicked from the 30 yard line for the score.

Saints Succeeded In Wild Scramble.

An interchange of punts following the kickoff and after making three first downs King kicked a second place kick, this time from the 18 yard line.

St. Mary's kicked off and with the scrimmage on the Olympic club 31 yard line O'Rourke broke through, blocking Patrick's punt, the ball bounding to the 15 yard line. Here an Olympian kicked it over the goal line where Watson, diving ahead of two Olympic club men, recovered for the touchdown. Conlan missed goal and the first half ended with the score standing 6-6.

Clyde King missed a long place kick from the 48 yard line early in the third quarter play alternating back and forth, both teams showing strength on defense, save for an occasional gain in mid-field. Neither team scored in the period and the fourth quarter opened with the two still deadlocked.

Taking the ball on the St. Mary's 19 yard line at the start of the fourth period, two first downs being carried it from the Olympic club 45 yard line at the close of the previous quarter, the Olympians made first downs but were held on the 3-yard line for three downs, Clyde King dropping back to the 13-yard line from which point he booted over the winning points on a placement kick.

St. Mary's made a rally in the last minutes which carried the ball to Olympic club territory, a long run by Strader gaining 25 yards and Coach Madigan sent in "Ducky" Grant to attempt a long pass. Schwill intercepted the throw on the Olympic club 32 yard line and the game was over, the Olympians bucking the pigskin for four successive downs in the closing minutes to the St. Mary's 3 yard line where the game ended with the Saints still showing their defensive strength.

Conqueror of Richards

HOWARD KINSEY, bay cities net star, who yesterday added to his laurels in the State tennis tournament at Berkeley by defeating Vincent Richards, national indoor champion, in the finals of the men's singles. Kinsey's victory keeps the state title at home.

Sportiva Team Holds Sons to Scoreless Tie

The Sons of St. George, leaders of the Bay Cities Soccer League, were held to a scoreless tie yesterday at the San Pablo playgrounds at Berkeley after two thrilling halves of high class soccer. The result was the greatest surprise of the present season, the unexpected strength of the Sportiva Italia club taking the Sons completely by surprise.

At Washington Park, Alameda, the Rangers defeated the Neptunes by a score of 2 to 1, the score standing 1 to 1 at the end of the first half. The Rangers won in the second period when Miller netted.

At the grounds at 45th and San Pablo the Virtus club defeated the Golden Gate Merchants 2 to 0, the victory being the first of the season for the Virtus club.

The first game at San Pablo park was called off by Referee Wardlow when the crowd swarmed on the field in protest of a decision, the score standing 1 to 1 between the Ancient Order of Foresters and the British Veterans. The game will probably be ordered replayed.

Hanford Trounces Dinuba in Finals

DINUBA, Oct. 22. — Hanford cinched the Valley League championship by defeating Dinuba 5 to 1 yesterday. The Kings battered their way to victory by jumping Keating for four runs in the fourth, on tfo singles, a double, and Carl Manda's homer. Southpaw Red Oldham outpitched Keating all the way and he held the Sun Maids to seven scattered blows, most of them coming after Hanford established its four run lead.

Fred Manning Wins Race From Easterner

Fred Manning, western champion of one-legged skaters, defeated Ed Castle, eastern champion, in a half mile event yesterday evening at Idora Park. The finish was exciting, Manning just nosing Castle out. A large crowd saw the race. Manning, through the defeat of Castle, claims the world's championship of skating for one-legged men. He has sent out a challenge to any and all comers for a match. He will take on anyone providing they have one leg. Art Mathiesen, Oakland merchant, gave a silver cup to the winner of last night's race.

My Own and Zev May Meet in L. A. On Christmas Day

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 22.—United Press.)—Richard "Dick" Ferris, general manager of the new Culver City race track to be opened Christmas Day, said today he was expecting a wire from Admiral Cary T. Grayson, owner of My Own, either accepting or refusing his offer of a purse of $100,000 for a race between the Grayson horse and Zev on Christmas day.

Ferris wants to open his new track with this event as he believes the race would attract thousands and would result in a huge financial return. Ferris' offer contained the provision of eighty per cent to the winner and twenty per cent to the loser.

Trojans Were Outplayed by Washington U.

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 22.—An analysis of the play in Saturday's game between the University of Washington and the University of Southern California elevens, won by Washington 22 to 0, shows that the northerners had the better of their opponents in practically everything except punting.

Plunging through the line fifty-nine times, the Washington backs carried the ball 143 yards, an average of about two and a half yards a plunge. California's attacking power was weak, the net gain from 21 attempts being only 26 yards.

Behind a powerful wedge, the Washington backs returned the California kickoff 195 yards, one of them a 55-yard dash by Wilson, Washington star. California brought back Washington's only kickoff 30 yards.

California fumbled the ball five times and Washington smothered all five. Washington fumbled three times and recovered two of them. The other fumble went to the Californians.

Columbus Boxer Is Given Match

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 22.—Bobby Jones, Columbus, Ohio, heavyweight, has been matched with Sam Baker, Los Angeles, "K. O." Bobby Dyson, who got one win and a draw with "Dandy Dick" Griffin in two bouts at Hollywood recently, will meet Harry Wallace, negro bantam.

S. F. Net Star Is Victor in Exciting Match

Helen Wills Defends Her Title by Defeating Miss Charlotte Hosmer.

Several hundred tennis enthusiasts gathered yesterday at the Berkeley tennis club to witness the final day of the state tournament.

The greatest tennis event played on the Berkeley courts as featured by Howard Kinsey, of San Francisco, who defeated Vincent Richards, national indoor champion, and ranking third man in the nation. It was again Kinsey's court generalship and consistent placements that enabled him to keep the state title at home. Richards played well in streaks, but would break down at times into a slump that made him helpless in the hands of the victor. Perhaps the erratic playing of the vanquished was due to his physical condition, for the great star was completely tired out at the close of the match. Defeating Richards in a 5-7, 8-6, 9-11, 6-3, 7-5 contest, will advance Kinsey high upon the ladder of tennis fame.

HELEN WINS MATCH.

Helen Wills, women's national champion, lived up to her honors in a style that pleased the fans. Miss Wills met Charlotte Hosmer in the finals of the women's singles and credited herself with a 6-3, 6-1 victory. Up to date this is the first competition Miss Wills has received from any woman player since defeating Molla Mallory, for the national title. Miss Hosmer, played brilliant tennis, but was outclassed by the Berkeley girl, who flashed about the court driving aces at will.

FOLLETT WINS NATIONAL.

Avery Follett, wrested the national girls hardcourt title, from Carolyn Swartz, in a 6-2, 6-4 match. Both girls played good tennis providing plenty of thrills for the spectators.

Cranston Holman annexed the boys' junior title defeating Gervais Hillis 6-4, 6-3, 6-3, 3-6, 6-1, in a terrific five set match. The Golden Gate park product was forced to extend himself to the limit before he could dispose of the Berkeley boy.

RICHARDS, ALONSO WIN.

In the final event of the day, four of the world's greatest net stars struggled for the supremacy of the men's doubles. Billy Johnston and Peck Griffin, two of California's finest, suffered a defeat in the hands of Vincent Richards and Manuel Alonso. These stars gave the fans one of the finest exhibitions of the doubles game presented this season. Johnston, the famous little Californian still showed signs of being in the stump he had fallen into, as the result of too much tournament play in the early season. The exceptionally good volleying on the part of both teams featured throughout the contest. Manuel Alonso displayed his wonderful ability to cover the court, by recovering shots, that seemed impossible to return. The total count of the match was, 6-8, 1-6, 6-2, 8-6, 6-3, in the favor of the visitors.

At the close of the tournament, trophies were awarded to the winners and runners up of the different divisions, by the California lawn tennis association. A special gift of a silver cocktail mixer was given to both Richards and Alonso, these tokens of appreciation will be essential on their trip to Mexico.

Grist from the Sport Mill

BY BOB SHAND

Jimmy Delaney, who boxes Ray Pelkey at the Auditorium next Wednesday night, is a regular fighter, according to Los Angeles reports. So many eastern bloomers have appeared here of late that the clientele is a bit dubious when a stranger is advertised, but Delaney, on his eastern record and showing against Willie Meehan in the south last week looks like the goods. One report states that he literally punched the phat one full of holes and had Meehan dizzy in every round. Before coming west Delaney defeated Billy Shade, which is probably nothing much to boast of, and he also took a decision from Chuck Wiggins. He is fast, clever and a snappy puncher. Promoter Tommy Simpson says he will stake his reputation that Delaney is no Midget Smith or Jack Sharkey. The newcomer was accompanied to town by Mike Collins, the man who talked the Shelby folks into staging a championship battle. Mike was here a few years ago with Fred Fulton when the lanky plasterer was doing a turn on the stage.

The Mexican boxing fans are not hard to please when they get a thrill out of watching Sam Langford and Jim Flynn in action. The Pueblo Fireman and the Boston Tar Baby are both close to the fifty mark, but they insist on remaining in the game. Age has tempered Flynn's rough-house tactics considerably, but the fireman is still the lion-hearted battler he was when he was a punching bag for the best heavyweights in the country. He appeared at the Auditorium a few years ago and lost to Bill Larue when he insisted on looking on the canvas for a dime or something while the referee was counting ten. Langford is fatter than Willie Meehan and almost as slow, but the veteran colored battler still carries a wallop and when he lands he wins.

Young Stribling, the high school youth who recently boxed Mike McTigue, may take a fling at the four-round game. Major John Paul Jones, who promoted the McTigue fight, was in town last week and intimated that Stribling might come west in the near future.

Little Dynamite Murphy, the Sacramento boy, meets Danny Martin in a preliminary Wednesday, but he expects to fight his way to the main event class here again. Murphy's draw battle with Johnny McManus at Sacramento recently was one of the most torrid scraps the capital fans have seen in years and they are still talking about it. Murphy also gave Teddy Seidman a good time recently and appears to be back in his old form. Kid Parker, the noted local batter, is managing the Dynamiter's affairs and wants to match his boy with McManus or Johnny Farr.

Leo P. Flynn is still wiring for Tommy Gardner to go East and join his stable, but Tommy is so busy getting knocked out that he can't get away just at present. Marine Ted Snyder, who rocked Gardner to sleep in the second round the other night, will be seen in action on this side of the bay soon.

B. J. BUFFHAM WINNER OVER TARRANT AFTER BRILLIANT PLAYING

C. L. Butler Provides Surprise of Tribune Tournament in Defeating Dr. J. H. Stineman; Ed Wilson Defeated By Dr. C. H. Walter.

By W. D. McNICOLL.

Many closely contested matches featured in the first round of the city championship, held under the auspices of The TRIBUNE at the municipal links yesterday. B. J. Buffham, who has heralded his arrival to Oakland from the metropolis of the Middle West, by winning the low gross score in the qualifying round, won again yesterday, but only after going to the 19th hole, and having a generous share of the breaks of the game in his favor.

T. Tarrant, after holding his brilliant young opponent even throughout the game, finally reached the 18th tee one up. Both players were on the green in three, and a half would have given the match to Tarrant, but he used bad judgment and putted boldly for a four, missed and failed to hole the return for a half in five.

An extra hole was played and both had good drives; Tarrant's second was just short of the green, while Buffham's second was strong and looked like reaching the rough beyond the second tee when a friendly rub of the green by a crowd of players waiting to drive off stopped his ball which rolled toward the green. Buffham laid his next close to the pin and holed out in par, while Tarrant failed to sink his putt for a half and the match was over.

Stineman's Defeat Was Surprise of Day.

C. L. Butler's win over Dr. J. H. Stineman was the surprise of the day. It was a typical case of the weaker player shooting over his regular game and the stronger player slumping. Butler started off well and was 2 up at the 7th, but Stineman won the 8th and 9th to even the match.

After halving the 10th the Sequoyah player got onto his game and was 2 up with 3 to play, but lost the 17th when his opponent holed out in 2. Butler had a perfect tee shot at the long 18th while the doctor's drive reached the rocks to the left of the fairway, his brassie second cannoned off another rock and the hole finally went to Butler, who had steered a straight course to the green.

Butler's drive from the 19th was close to the guide flag while Stineman's was over toward the fence on the right in a bad lie from which he just failed to reach the green. Butler was nicely on with a mid-iron while his opponent threw away his chance for a half when he dubbed his short approach.

Brunner-McCutcheon In Good Exhibition.

R. B. Brunner and Bob McCutcheon gave a brilliant exhibition of match play golf. Stymies were negotiated by each in turn while brilliant shots were intercepted by the usual lucky breaks that go to make golf a bad game for the gamblers.

Brunner had a medal score of 79, but lost at the 18th, when Mack supplemented two bad shots by a brilliant third to the home green.

R. F. Hoffman and E. C. Henshaw are municipal golfers who will make some of the regular club members hustle in a year or two. Hoffman was steadier around the green and finally won at the short 17th, 2 up.

Dr. Walter Plays Reliable Game.

Dr. C. H. Walter, playing his usual reliable game, was too strong for the Municipal player, who has plenty of good shots in his bag

Stray Bullet Kills Secretary to Judge

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 22. — Isaac Hamburger, 63, secretary to Judge E. E. Cushman of the United States District Court at Tacoma, died in a hospital here yesterday from an injury received Wednesday afternoon, when he was struck by a bullet fired by Patrolman S. H. Short at a suspected thief whom he was pursuing on a crowded downtown street.

Hamburger's death occurred less than half an hour after his wife, Mrs. Elsie Haburgor, reached his bedside. She had hurried here from Paradise, Cal., when informed of the accident that had befallen her husband.

It is said this company has bought a large fleet of tank steamers in Argentina and also acquired large holdings of oil lands in Argentina.

Recluse Slays Self at Grave Of Sweetheart

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 22.—Frank Porter, 55, an eccentric recluse, well known here, shot himself through the heart yesterday morning at Cypress Lawn cemetery and died lying over the grave of his former sweetheart, Mrs. Mamie Mason, who died November 19, 1922, at the age of forty-four.

Porter, who had paid weekly visits to the grave, brought flowers as usual yesterday, but brought a revolver also. Nearby people heard the shot and saw him fall. Constable Landini of Colma was called and identified the body.

Mrs. Mason was a sister of Albert B. Bellous of Acampo and Perry E. Bellous of Santa Cruz. She lived at 4190 Twentieth street prior to her last illness.

Young Man Drowned In Swimming Tank

William H. Sutton, 23, of 477 Twelfth street, was drowned yesterday evening while swimming in Piedmont Baths. Sam Sutton, a brother, told the police that he and his brother entered the water together about 5 o'clock and an hour later his brother could not be found. Albert Napoleon, a life guard, found the body of William at the bottom of the tank. The body was turned over to the coroner.

HUETER'S

If you are planning a new home or if the old floors need refinishing, you will want to use this Varnish that stands every test. Linoleums finished with HUETER'S Floor Varnish do not have to be scrubbed; a damp cloth keeps them looking as good as new. HOUR BY HOUR PRICE CHANGES

PUBLIC TAKES MILD INTEREST IN STOCK MART

Lack of General Participation Gives Professionals Clear Field for Week.

By ALLEN L. WETMORE, of William Cavalier & Co.

Lack of public participation during the past week left the stock market almost entirely in the hands of professionals whose buying and selling resulted in meaningless fluctuations within narrow limits. Industrials continued heavy, the Dow Jones price average for this group reaching 86.91 on Tuesday, which is exactly the same figure reached on July 31st when the market as a whole made its low for the year. Stocks of retail and chain stores proved an exception to the general trend, scoring consistent advances in anticipation of very favorable earnings a result of continued heavy volume of business. The reason for this unusual retail activity in the face of the indutsrial slump presents an interesting paradox. The high price of labor which is providing the funds for stimulating the retail trade and at the same time seriously blocking industrial progress. This is an unhealthy condition and must be corrected if we are to enjoy permament prosperity.

Money conditions continue healthy with little change in call or time rates. The Federal Reserve ratio just published stands at 75.3, almost exactly where it was a year ago, indicating the soundness of our banking conditions. With such sound money conditions, stability in commodity prices and the present good volume of business it seems impossible to expect continued lower stock prices, and with a large short interest in the market at low prices, and the usual spring trade revival only four or five months away a substantial advance is the logical market course and we expect it.

OIL SITUATION.

Oil companies are still busily engaged in solving their large surplus of crude oil which will accumulate over the winter months. It is estimated that if the present rate of production is maintained, approximately 9,000,000 barrels of crude oil per month will go into storage during the winter, which will bring our present total of 300,000,000 barrels up to 350,000,000 barrels before spring. It is interesting to note that despite the large amount of gasoline on hand, the Department of the Interior estimates that preset stocks are equivalent to approximately only forty-seven days supply.

Several weeks ago crude oil prices in the Mid Continent field were reduced 60 cents to 70 cents per barrel in an effort to meet California competition on the eastern seaboard, and producers in those fields now face further reductions as a result of the recent action of Standard Oil of California in cutting the California crude price 2 cents to 16 cents per barrel. The following comparisons of costs and freight from California and Mid Continent fields to eastern seaboard are interesting, and clearly show how California oil dominates the market. The present cost of highest grade California oil is 76 cents per barrel at the well; to this must be added 15 cents pipe line and tanker loading charges and 70 cents tanker freight, which makes cost and freight at eastern refinery $1.61 per barrel. Equal quality of Mid Continent crude is selling at $1.30 per barrel at the well and pipe line cost to eastern seaboard is 90 cents, making $2.20 per barrel delivered, which is 59 cents higher than the California product.

Conditions in the steel industry continue to show an improvement, October reports so far indicating a substantial improvement over September during which month a substantial improvement over September during which month United States Steel Corporation booked 100,000 tons more than in August. The most favorable factor in this industry is the sustained high rate of production. Most mills are operating close to normal with very little accumulation of stocks, which shows that manufacturers are taking materials as fast as they come and are keeping inventories down.

Oakland Is Third In Bank Clearings

Oakland stands third in the cities of California in bank clearings as reported to the California Development Association for the five-day week ending Thursday, October 18, 1923. The association has issued the following table showing the bank clearings for that period, with the amount of increase or decrease reported for the corresponding six-day week last year:

San Francisco $159,700,000, decrease $26,900,000; Los Angeles $150,040,000, increase $16,552,000; Oakland $16,105,881, increase $89,596; San Diego $10,146,989, increase $6,-164,613; Long Beach $8,838,307, increase $2,094,844; Sacramento $8,-123,058, decrease $912,393; Pasadena $5,808,608, increase $1,047,182; Fresno $3,979,384, decrease $4,138,-192; Stockton $2,647,000, decrease $120,500; San Jose $2,733,570, decrease $492,536; San Bernardino $2,-215, increase $368,115; Bakersfield $991,162, decrease $98,331; Riverside $95,720, increase 7,959; Modesto $887,541, decrease $344,203; Santa Rosa, not reported; Whittier $...,125, increase $350,798.

Cotton Spinning Shows Increase

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—(International News Service).—The census bureau announced today that there were 37,491,706 cotton spinning spindles in place in the United States on September 30, of which ...,585 were operated at some time during the month, compared with 3...,708,667 in August. The aggregate number of active spinning spindles in September were 7,482,660.-

BUSINESS and FINANCE

Stock prices turned heavy in today's quiet New York stock market after a rather firm opening. Weakness of the British and continental exchanges in reflection of unfavorable German political developments and a renewal of selling in rubber, textile and motor accessory shares had a depressing effect on sentiment. Sales approximated 500,000 shares.

Irregularly high prices characterized the opening of today's New York stock market with a brisk demand noted for the tobacco and certain railroad shares. Reynolds Tobacco B advanced one point to a new 1923 high and gains of a point or more also were registered by Norfolk and Western, Hartman Corporation and Associated Dry Goods.

The main trend continued upward in the first half hour. Woolworth jumped 4 points to 269, a new top, and gains of a point or so were established by Baldwin and American Locomotives, Dupont, Norfolk & West Virginia, Sears Roebuck, Wheeling and Lake Erie. Heaviness again cropped out in some of the Northwestern rails and minor oils. Foreign exchanges opened heavy in reflection of the disturbing political news from Germany.

Fresh buying power soon exhausted and the general list turned downward before noon because of the market's inability to absorb, except at concessions, the profit-taking sales of floor traders in the increased offerings of short interests. Special weakness cropped out in the railroad, rubber and textile shares, while the usual industrial leaders slipped fractionally below Saturday's closing figures. Auto Knitter broke 3 points to 8½, a new low, and Northern Pacific, New Haven, American Woolen, National Enameling, Kelly-Springfield, U. S. Rubber first preferred and Goodrich Rubber preferred, dropped 1 to 2 points. Call money opened at 4½ per cent.

The reluctance to increase commitments on the long side of the market in the face of the persistent selling of special stocks, particularly the motor accessory shares, enabled the bear faction to carry the general list lower in the early afternoon. U. S. Rubber first preferred dropped four points and a number of other industrial shares lost 1½ to 2½ points. Woolworth extended its rise to 6 points, touching 271.

TRANSPORTATION STATUS DISCUSSED.

"The transportation situation which exists in the United States at the present time is in some respects remarkable," says the Railway Age. "Ordinarily the heaviest freight movement of the year occurs in October, and there is reason for believing the total traffic being handled has continued to increase up to the present time. Nevertheless, the business of the country is not suffering from any shortage of freight cars. On September 1 there was a net surplus of about 57,000 cars. Nobody can say just what the situation throughout the country is at present, but it is probable that while there are local shortages here and there the surpluses in other places exceed these shortages. A year ago at this time there was a net shortage of about 140,000 cars.

"One reason why the success of the railways in handling the present business without a car shortage is remarkable is that although a large number of new cars have been put in service recently, the number retired from service has been so large that the increase in the last year in the total number available has been very small. The number of new cars actually put in service from January 1 to September 1 was 116,117. A large majority of these new cars were put in service during the first six months of the year. Nevertheless, the number of freight cars owned by the railways increased from only 2,307,397 in June, 1922, to 2,316,225 in June, 1923. The number in service this year has averaged over 50,000 less than in 1920.

"In spite of the efforts that have been made the railways have not succeeded in securing an average loading of cars equal to that of 1920—with which comparison is made for the obvious reason that in that year the business handled was the largest up to that time. Comparing statistics for the first seven months of 1923 with statistics for the first seven months of 1920 it is found that the average tons carried per loaded car in 1920 was 28.6, while in 1923 it has been 28.. It is somewhat difficult to account for this smaller average loading of cars. Bituminous coal gives the railways the largest tonnage of any commodity, and its average loading per car is relatively very large. Up to September 22 the railways had transported more bituminous coal than in the corresponding part of any previous year except the war year 1918. The figure for the first 224 working days 1918 was 429,-240,000 tons. For 1917 it was less than 401,000,000 tons and for 1920 about 395,000,000 tons. ... 1923 it was more than 402,100,000 tons.

"The most remarkable improvement in railway operation, and the one which has contributed most toward enabling the railways to handle the large business in the satisfactory way they have, has been the increase in the average miles traveled by each car daily. In the first seven months of 1920 average miles per car per day was 23.5 while in the first seven months of 1923 it was 27.2. The average tons of freight moved one mile daily with each freight car has increased from 473 in 1920 to 507 in 1923.

"One very important reason for the improvement in the operating results secured is indicated by the fact that in the part of 1920 mentioned the average number of serviceable locomotives was 52,508, while in 1923 it averaged 25,076. This was an increase of 2468, or about 11 per cent in the number of serviceable locomotives available. The average number of freight cars hauled in each train in the first seven months of 1920 was 35.8, while in the corresponding seven months of 1923 it was 39.2. This increase in the number of cars per train caused an increase in the gross tons per train from 1417 tons to 1518 tons. In spite of the increase in gross tons per train the average speed of trains was increased, it being 10.4 miles an hour in 1920 and 10.7 miles an hour in 1923.

"The increase in tons carried one mile thus far this year has been about 7 per cent over the previous record business of 1920. This is a large increase but not an abnormal one. The notable fact is not the amount of the increase in business, but the marked efficiency with which the railways have handled it."

BIG TIN PLATE OUTTURN EXPECTED.

Announcement that the tin plate outturn of the United States in the current year will be the "biggest ever" illustrates the facility with which American manufacturers and workmen develop great industries in comparatively brief periods. It was not until about 1890, says the Trade Record of The National City Bank of New York, that the manufacture of tin plate in the United States was begun. Prior to that time we were entirely dependent upon tinplate from abroad and the importations ran into the hundreds of millions of pounds annually, and in the fiscal year 1891 crossed the billion pound line making in that year its highest record of 1,036,489,-074 pounds with a value of $36,000,-000.

Then the American manufacturers, recognizing that while the United States produced no tin they did make plenty of iron sheets and that by bringing the tin from the other side of the globe they could apply it to the American iron sheets and supply the people of the United States the enormous and constantly increasing quantity of tin plate which they were requiring in their building and other industries. In the first full year following the establishment of the industry, 1892, they turned out 42,000,000 pounds of tin plate, by 1901 it had reached 850,000,000 pounds, in 1903 the output passed a billion pounds, in 1912 it was over 2,000,000,000, in 1917 more than 3,000,000,000, and in 1923 will slightly exceed the high record established in 1917 when we were not only meeting our entire domestic requirements but supplying enormous quantities to other parts of the world.

TIRE COMPANY WILL REDEEM NOTES.

Notice has been received that the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company will redeem on November 15, 1923, at 110 and accrued interest, $500,000 of its ten-year 2 per cent sinking fund gold notes. Holders who notify William Cavalier & Company of the number of their notes will be promptly advised whether or not they have been drawn for redemption.

CONDITIONS REVIEWED.

Moody's Weekly Review of Financial Conditions in its current issue says in part:

"The great investing public is not rich enough to buy stocks on a large scale, nor poor enough to sell; and so it is that the market is doing little or nothing. Herein it is a true reflection of general business, because since last spring the main trend of prosperity has been slightly downward, whereas at the moment this downward trend is temporarily interrupted by the autumn trade—thus resulting in a standstill.

"Liberty bonds, although weak just now, may be relied upon to keep on being governed in price by the average world price or rental of capital as in the past. United States bonds for over half a century have responded consistently to all the principal changes in the average price of capital, and have been only moderately influenced by other factors. Owing to the shortage of liquid capital, or uninvested funds, the rental value of capital promises to increase for two or three quarters; and presumably this increase should be accompanied by a further sagging movement of about the same duration in Liberty bonds. Meanwhile the steadiness of municipalities promises to exert a stabilizing influence upon Libertys, and prevent anything more than a moderate decline.

"There is nothing like conservatism to pave the way for a bull movement. Growing unemployment, even if the growth is slow, leads to lower operating costs; and a flat 1 per cent cut in all operating expenses would probably increase our savings available for investment in securities by 30 to 50 per cent. Hence if this shortage of capital disappears some time next year as it may well do, stock market should respond."

Trade Volume Is Satisfactory In Past Week

Business Leaders Continue to Be Optimistic Following Report on Activities.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—(By The Associated Press.) — Irregularity with a fairly steady undertone in the chief speculative markets during the past week has reflected the business community's satisfaction with the existing volume of trade and its uncertainty with regard to the prospects for next year. Business leaders continue to take an optimistic view, pointing out that creditors have not long been subjected to strain, that stocks of goods have not been accumulated and that liquidation of assets has been maintained.

On the other hand, those who were inclined to pessimism point out that iron and steel production has been declining steadily since the late spring and claim that the activity of that period will prove to have been the peak for the current movement. They consider that four consecutively montaly declines in imports support this conclusion.

Imports during September amounted to only $255,000,000 as compared with $329,000,000 in January. With exports showing a normal fall pickup, September's excess of exports was $126,000,000, a sum which was sufficient to wipe out the import balance which had accumulated during the earlier months of the year.

Reports from the steel industry indicated that output is still receding, though the trade is somewhat encouraged by the fact that the rate of decline is becoming slower rather than faster.

Money remained relatively easy and the bond market displayed an improved tone. Offerings of new securities became more numerous and met with a satisfactory reception.

If you see it in The TRIBUNE, tell them so.

ELECTRIC POWER PLANNED.

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 22.—Plans are now going forward to electrify all the steam roalroad lines within the Chicago terminal area. This will necessitate expenditure by the Illinois Central alone, of $90,000,000.

Investigation of Hog Prices Made

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Investigation as to whether the prevailing low prices being paid for hogs are the result of undue influences, is being made by Secretary Wallace.

Over a period of 50 years the secretary has found the value of 100 pounds of hogs has been approximately the equivalent of 11 bushels of number 2 corn at Chicago prices, but the price has fallen to such an extent as compared with the rising price of corn that the corn-hog ratio at present is much out of line with normal.

Hogs closed last week around $7 per hundred pounds for the average bulk of sales while corn closed the week at $1.07 a bushel. The low price of hogs for the year was $6.65 for the week June 11-16, when corn sold at 84 cents. In the last month hog prices have declined more than $1.50 a hundred pounds while the price of corn has increased 27 cents a bushel.

WATER RIGHT BOUGHT.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Oct. 22.—Northern States Power Company, a subsidiary of the Byllesby interests, has bought the Stanthony Falls Minneapolis water power rights from the Pillsbury Flour Milling Company.

Secretary Fall of the Interior Department Explains Leasing Policy.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22. — The question of drainage was one of the important issues touched upon in the Tea Pot Dome oil hearing which is on here today.

The danger of drainage of the reserve by private operators in the adjacent Salt Creek field was put forward by former Secretary Fall of the interior department as a compelling cause for the leasing policy he inaugurated. In agreement with that view, two geologists not only reported that it was impossible to hold the reserve for the navy indefinitely without having its oil drained off by the Salt Creek private operators, but both of them endorsed the policy of developing Teapot dome by leasing to one efficient management.

The two geologists, Frederick G Clapp and James O. Lewis of New York, were selected last spring from a list of 100 submitted by the geological survey.

About 60 per cent of the Teapot Dome reserve was found by the two geologists to be oil-bearing land.

"An estimated area of 2,300 acres," Clapp reported, "will prove oil-bearing and 1,400 gas bearing, while the balance, amounting to about 5,600 acres, will be barren of oil or gas in every known producing formation."

Lewis estimated that 2,430 acres only will be oil bearing instead of 5,670 acres estimated by the bureau of mines."

Both reports agreed that not only in oil but in gas pressure as well, the Teapot Dome field was subject to partial depletion by private operators in the adjoining Salt Creek field.

REPORTS SITUATION.

"I estimate that 1,200 acres or 70 per cent of the estimated oil-bearing area," said Clapp's report, "are susceptible to imminent drainage or the reduction of percentage of recoverable oil by wells drilled in the adjoining edge of Salt Creek field and that about 30 per cent of the oil-bearing area is insusceptible of such drainage or reduction to any commercial degrees."

Lewis did not estimate the percentage subject to drainage but said that a few rows of "protection" wells, drilled along the Salt Creek border would have given partial protection against draining.

Although the bureau of mines estimated originally that the reserve contained from 135,000,000 to 200,-000,000 barrels of oil, the committee geologists predicted that the yield from the main-bearing sands would not exceed 24,000,000 to 26,000,000 barrels. This estimate is even smaller than that recently made as a result of a separate survey by the navy and interior departments.

The reports of the two investigators, laid before the committee today in its inquiry into charges preferred by Senate critics of the Sinclaire lease, supports in general the contention of administration officials that the geological position of Teapot Dome made it no longer feasible to continue the policy of leaving the oil in the ground as an undeveloped reserve.

Grain Cases Are To Be Heard Soon

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—New evidence and arguments in the proceedings by which western states, under leadership of the Kansas utilities commission have sought reductions in rates on grain, grain products and hay in the western territory, will be heard at Kansas City November 14. An interstate commerce commission order setting the date was issued today.

In acting upon the complaint of western states, brought last year, the commission recently held that the record before it was insufficient to justify reductions. At the same time it ordered that case reopened for a new trial and suggested that all parties to the action widen the scope of their studies to include consideration of such rates in all parts of the country. The commission also of its own motion instituted a general investigation into grain rate levels.

Cost of Living In Slight Jump

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Cost of living in the United States, based on the average for thirty-two cities reported today by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, is increased 1.4 per cent in the three months from June to September. The increase ranged from 2.7 per cent at Boston to two-tenths of 1 per cent at Kansas City.

For the twelve months ending with September the average increase was 3.5 per cent.

The cost of living in September was 72.1 per cent higher for the country than the average in 1913. Food was 49.3 per cent high, clothing 76.5 per cent; housing 64.4 per cent, and furniture 122.4 per cent.

BUILDING PERMITS HIGH.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Oct. 22.—Building permits are maintaining the September rate which was about double the record for the corresponding period of 1922. The striking carpenters have agreed to return to work under the old scale and on an open shop basis.

CANADA'S WHEAT CROP UNUSUALLY GOOD THIS YEAR

Large Rail Shipments to Duluth Will Probably Relieve Congestion.

By J. C. ROYLE.
BY CONSOLIDATED PRESS.
SPECIAL TO TRIBUNE.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—Canadian wheat is overflowing the elevators at Fort William and Port Arthur, the Canadian head of the lakes, and large shipments by rail to Duluth are probable to relieve the congestion. These shipments then would be dispatched by water to Montreal in American bottoms.

The great flood of grain from the prairie provinces is pouring into Fort William and Port Arthur at the rate of two million to three million bushels a day. The Canadian fleet has been totally inadequate to carry this grain on to Montreal for export to Europe and the two Norwegian vessels recently brought into help the movement have proven too small to be of material assistance.

It was expected for a time that the new Canadian shipping law which requires that American vessels loading grain at Canadian ports must make public the rates at which they are chartered, would be suspended during this emergency as American vessel owners have steadfastly declined to carry Canadian grain under those conditions. However, a conference at Toronto called to devise means of relieving the congestion, adjourned without definite action, and it is now likely that American vessels will stay off the Port Arthur-Montreal run the remainder of this season at least. Vessel owners believe, however, that some adjustment of the law will be made before the opening of navigation next spring.

In the meantime, American shipmasters are holding themselves in readiness to handle the rail overflow at Duluth. While it is probable that most of the Canadian grain so routed would go to Montreal for shipment abroad, it would be routed first to Buffalo and some of it at least will find its outlook through the ports of New York and Philadelphia.

"Unless something is done soon by the Canadian government or the Canadian grain shipper," one Duluth vessel operator said today, the latter will suffer a serious loss within the next few weeks.

BUS LINE INCREASE.

Plans for operation of additional bus lines throughout the eastern half of the country on a gigantic scale now are under way. John Hertz, president of the Chicago Yellow Cab Company, declared today that negotiations now were under way between himself and prominent New York financiers looking to the establishment of this method of transportation on a scale never before attempted. The project contemplates not only an increase in bus transportation in the principal cities but also inter-city service in localities where rail and trolley transportation is inadequate.

Thorough study of the situation in the light of tremendous development of building operations in the suburbs of large cities, has convinced the interests associated with this enterprize that there is a real field for additional bus lines.

The first move, it is understood, will be the reorganization of the bus lines in Chicago and New York and their expansion on a larger scale. This movement then will be passed on to the smaller centers. As now planned, the basis of this new transportation will be a ten-cent fare.

COTTON SHIPMENTS.

Exports to Germany during the present week, according to dispatches to the writer from Southern ports, have reached a total of 43,000; last week they were 41,000 bales, and bookings at Galveston and Houston indicate that one hundred more bales will be shipped to Bremen before the month is over.

Refusal to Build Road Is Justified

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad in a preliminary report filed today with the interstate commerce by examiners, was held to be justified in refusing to build a branch line 19 miles long from its main line to the village of Bijou Hills, S. D. The examiner's report indicated the project would cost $598,000 and would be unlikely to earn return on this sum.

THE HUGHES' PLAN

Secretary Hughes' suggestion for a settlement of the reparations issues has been attacked on the mistaken grounds that it contemplates selecting the membership, or a part of the membership, of a commission of investigation. Those who have read the Hughes proposal in full and have given it study know that there is no reason, except that of unfair and partisan politics, to make the charge.

David Lloyd George has no interest in American political parties and would not wittingly make a speech favoring one over the other, and yet his declarations regarding the Hughes plan is an outstanding endorsement and recognition of the Republican principles.

In a recent address the British visitor to America declared that Secretary Hughes' plan for the settlement of the reparations dispute is "absolutely the best hope." The controversy is the greatest obstacle to the resumption of enterprises and industries of peace and the Hughes suggestion is, so far, the most practical of those which look toward the restoration of normal conditions.

Secretary Hughes stated his plan in an address at New Haven nearly a year ago. Since that time there have been repeated efforts to deceive the people as to the nature of the suggestion, the favorite trick being a declaration that Hughes desired this country to mix in and select commission members.

But Secretary Hughes did no such thing. After asserting that it would be unwise for the United States to act as arbiter because of the ill feeling that would result, he suggested that if the European statesmen could not agree, "why should they not invite men of the highest authority in finance in their respective countries—men of such prestige, experience and honor that their agreement upon the amount to be paid and upon a financial plan for working out the payments, would be accepted throughout the world as the most authoritative expression obtainable?" Then he added, "I have no doubt that distinguished Americans would be willing to serve in such a commission."

There is no intimation there that the United States Government should select any member. It would be up to the nations to be affected by the findings to select men from the world field, to make the inquiry and formulate the report.

ZEV BEATS PAPYRUS.

Any way you look at it, it was a great victory!

Zev, the American horse, with an American jockey and with the strains of the "Star-Spangled Banner" ringing in his ears, beat Papyrus, British Derby winner, ridden by an Englishman and spurred on by the British national anthem. Right there is the international importance of the event.

Economically, there were more than 30,000 persons who saw the affair and a great sum of money changed hands. Gentlemen in Whitehall and Limehouse pulled long faces as they checked off their losses and others in Kalamazoo and Cincinnati allowed their faces to expand as the rising sun.

And there is a moral and a political aspect. Papyrus, it will be recalled, is a drinker of beer. It has been said, and perhaps in malice as the horse cannot make reply, he drinks it out of a bucket and without a pretense of blowing off the foam. No one ever caught Zev doing such a thing and Zev won the race!

An older interest, one that is classic, comes of the love of the performance of finely-bred horses, in the pounding of hoofs, the widening and narrowing of the lead, suspense of crowds betting on their favorites with voice and swaying bodies, the love of clean sport and a good race.

Venus, the goddess of love, has been found in a junk shop! Those persons who hunted the objectionful relic that it might grace a public performance stumbled unwittingly upon a good name for a play. "Love in a Junk Shop," the armless goddess, theme immortal for poet and artist, she who has been elevated above the clouds and the drudgeries of ordinary life, surrounded by pots and pans, rusty lawnmowers, and mouse traps! The bluebird, it will be remembered, was found perching on the roof-tree of those who set out over the world in its search. Why should Love not be found in a junk shop—and everywhere else?

POLITENESS PICKS UP.

Of what is it a symptom when a nation turns to etiquette? Is a country progressing or becoming decadent when it discovers the tremendous importance of a knowledge of silverware and the niceties of social deportment?

When it is revealed that the best selling books today, outside of fiction, are those of conduct, the questions are legitimate. There is some question as to the direction we are going in politics, but no denial that we are preparing to turn polite.

It may be that all of these new students of etiquette are theorists only and do not intend to put in practice those things they have learned. Certainly there is not evident any great reformation in conduct but it is, perhaps, too early for the hope.

America has been a new, rustling and bustling nation. It has judged men more by the heart and intent than the gesture and pose, but has admitted, in the few moments of leisure, that its manners were not all that might be expected. Perhaps the etiquette books will work a reformation; more likely that consciousness of a lack or need which has turned so many thousands to the books of rules will do more. It is not nesecsary to know the exact number of inches one should raise his hat, and when the man who wears the wrong necktie to a dinner party is dubbed no gentleman there will be cause for alarm, for that etiquette which standardizes humanity and gives a common coat of veneer is almost as bad as none at all.

THE COWBOY COMMANDER.

The American Legion delegates have departed, but the national commander of the soldiers' organization will remain in California.

He will remain on the farm at Delano, where he and his father raise stock and where he is known as the "cowboy with a college education." The Legion, the state and John R. Quinn, the cowboy, are to be congratulated on the choice.

Incidentally, when the congratulations are being passed around, the University of California need not be overlooked. Jack Quinn, more than six feet tall, was somewhat of an institution there a few years ago. Football fans will remember how he used to lead the cheers and his college mates will recall his popularity.

Quinn left the farm to go to war. He could have stayed at home because his work was supplying food for the nation, but he arranged to have that work done in his absence and crossed the seas. He was one of the many the university and California sent to the front and his qualities for popularity as well as his efficiency won him place in the ranks and in the Legion. It was natural that he was selected state commander and natural, too, that the highest honor in the Legion be given to him.

So Jack Quinn, who was a student, a yell leader, a cowboy, a captain, and a state commander, is national commander and the honor given him is one accorded to the state.

NEW HARBOR INTEREST.

There is a promise in the renewed discussion of harbor improvement in the Eastbay. At a meeting the other night in Berkeley, men of big interests and large affairs talked of plans for the development of the Berkeley front by bringing to it deep water. It is a question of dredging, of local effort and Federal aid.

In Oakland today, Irving T. Bush, head of the Bush Terminals of New York, made a tour of inspection of this harbor and of the local manufacturing district. He spoke before the Oakland Chamber of Commerce. The opportunity to show the Eastbay to this authority and his acceptance of the invitation to speak here have meaning. It may take time, or it may come quickly, but a greater harbor for the Eastbay will come with encouragment or despite a lack of it.

MISLEADING FIGURES.

We admire the Los Angeles spirit in claiming that the assessed value of Los Angeles county is one-third of the total of the state, and we have no doubt but that the figures are correct. The showing of Los Angeles county is not only something for it to be proud of, but the state itself can also pride itself in having so splendid a showing made by one of its sections.

But why does Los Angeles county, through some of its newspapers, deliberately try to cover up what other parts of the state are doing and resort to a sort of covered misrepresentation—or, rather, misleading statement? It says, truthfully, that its county wealth is greater than that of San Francisco county. But a further truth in the matter is that the San Francisco showing of assessed valuation is much higher than the CITY of Los Angeles. And the CITY of San Francisco is all there is to San Francisco "COUNTY," which occupies the small space of 44 square miles. Los Angeles COUNTY is over 4000 square miles, and includes dozens of cities. San Francisco county includes ONE CITY—San Francisco.

The same ratio might apply to Alameda county—which, however, includes several large cities, but is much smaller than Los Angeles county—to Kings, Tulare, Merced and a dozen others. Los Angeles county is entitled to all that is coming to it, but not to that which is not.—Hanford Sentinel.

GUM THAT IS GOLDEN.

To most of us gum suggests either the substance used for sticking papers together or a kind of sweetmeat. Yet there are some kinds of gum whic are very valuable indeed.

In New Zealand there is a whole district in which fossilized gum from trees that died centures ago is found a few feet below the surface. We dig into the earth for all kinds of queer things, but these are probably the o. ly gum mines in the world.

The substance is valuable, for it makes the best kinds of transparent varnish, and many fortunes have been made by men who have worked it.

The most valuable kind of gum is amber, which is found on the shores of the Baltic. It is the fossilized remains of t e gum secreted by giant pines which once grew densely around the shores of this sea.

Primitive man polished it and shaped it into ornaments, and 4000 years ago merchants came regularly to the Baltic coast to barter their wares for amber, which was taken to Greece, Egypt and even to the far west.

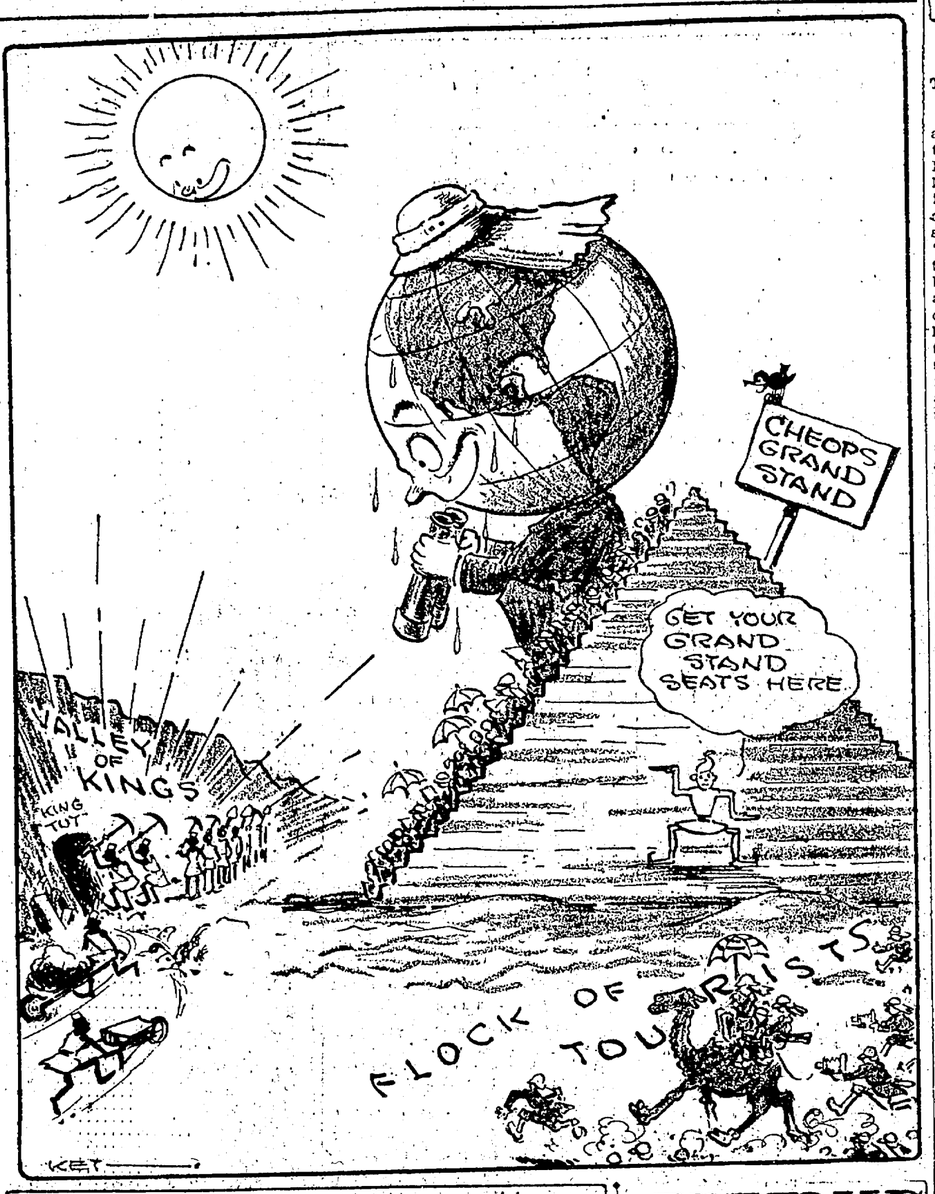

A CLINCHING ARGUMENT.

"You make life a burden to me," said the busy man to the persistent life insurance agent.

"In that case you can't take out this policy any too soon"—Boston Transcript.

The per capita debt in the United States is now $330. A lot of people will be relieved to hear this who have thought they owed much more.—New York American.

NOW THAT THE WORLD SERIES, HORSE RACE ARE OVER!

EXCERPTS from the NATIONAL PRESS

Chicago News: "Decidedly, union labor is in the banking business. According to the correspondent of the Daily News who reported the lively proceedings of the Portland convention of the American Federation of Labor four bank presidents, several about-to-be bank presidents and at least a score of bank directors were in attendance. The labor leaders who have directed the new departure may not be professional financiers, but most of them know the value of sound, expert advice."

Philadelphia Ledger: "Samuel Gompers, re-elected at seventy-three to head the American Federation of Labor, is another refutation of the doctrine commonly known as Osslerism. He is more vigorous than a great many men of half his years. A life of zestful controversy seems to have done much to keep him young. Those who take issue with him in open sessions of the Federation or in private dialetics find him still the redoubtable antagonist of the days of yore."

New York Herald: "The decadence of modern youth is strikingly exemplified by the fact that a number of college freshmen are so ill informed on their country's history they think Henry James, the author, had membership in the famous James band of robbers. The father of these youngsters would never have confused Henry James with Jesse James, nor mistaken William James for Frank James.

New York Times: "At the recent English Church Congress there was much discussion of the country man and the country parson. The Bishop of Exeter, Dr. Gascoyne Cecil, said, rather naively, that no one could fail to notice how, in the public stories of the country predominated over those of the town. Revolution came from the town. The countryman was more individual than the townsman, a sounder, if slower, thinker, with more time for spiritual meditation. He never forgot a preacher's words. This is not the notion, especially in the matter of treasuring sermons, that a multitude of English rural novels has given us, but who are novelists to dispute a Bishop?"

Chicago Tribune: "The Des Plaines school football team was defeated overwhelmingly by the Lane Tech eleven in this year's contest. The Des Plaines coach accused three of his players of 'laying down' in the game, and succeeded in having them suspended by the principal. The school board held a three hours' session on the demand of the boys' fathers that they should be reinstated, and refused to act. The boys are still out. That, we believe, is a perfect example of the way in which athletics ought not to be considered or controlled in schools."

Detroit Free Press: "Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont says she 'hardly knows' a woman of independent means who seems to take the slightest interest in the equal rights movement, and as the other women are generally busy with their own affairs, that makes the situation look pretty desperate."

Chicago News: "Following approval of his act by the Boston theatrical censor Roscoe Arbuckle has decided to abandon his tour. Approval by a Boston censor is regarded in theatrical circles as the most crushing blow an attraction can receive."

SPIRIT of the STATE PRESS

Secretary of the Interior Work declares that of all the government irrigation projects in operation only one is paying its way promptly. That one is the Orland project in Glenn county a unit of the Iron Canyon project.—Red Bluff News.

Bryan's offer to trade the governor of New York for the governor of Pennsylvania, the latter pleasing him better on the liquor question, has not as yet been accepted. There is some doubt, of Mr. Bryan's ability to convey title. The implied notion that he owns the Democratic party continues, evidently, to be one of his pet delusions.—San Diego Union.

By terms of an agreement entered into between the board of directors of the Honcut-Yuba Irrigation district and the Feather River Power Company last Tuesday night, the power company will furnish sufficient water to irrigate 22,000 acres of land in Yuba and Sutter counties, tributary to the district.—Oroville Register.

The real value of all the property in the eleven counties of the San Joaquin valley is given by State Controller Riley at $1,800,000,000 based on the 1923 assessment. The assessed valuation of property in the valley which is 42 per cent of the total value aggregates $763,516,852. In this assessed valuation San Joaquin county comes third with $119,746,530. Fresno comes first with $199,142,944 and Kern second with $180,996,178.—Stockton Record.

Most of us have been taught that schools are conducted only for the good that learning will be in after years. But Miss Jean B. Elwell, retired after fifty years experience, says schools so conducted are failures. It is a mistke to teach that school is a preparation for life. School is life. The days that make the child, and all the days that make him wise.—Woodland Democrat.

California gives admirable support to its schools. This finds echo in excellent results from schoolroom work. A generation is developing here that will be noted for its progressive proclivities. The good work of supporting and bettering the schools should go on without halt or impairment.—Long Beach Press.

Considering the high cost of loving, medals should be struck off and pinned on these people: L. Bay City, Mich., a ... picker named Charles L. Lucius is the father of thirty-three children. In San Diego, Mr. F. Cocena at the age of 7 recently g... birth to her twenty-fifth baby. Her offspring included two sets of twins and one of triplets.—Stockton Record.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

THE SPORTSMAN.

When you have learned to see another win
The victory you hoped yourself to gain,
To bear your failure bravely and come in
And seek not to excuse it or explain;
When you can take defeat with decent grace,
As one with sportsmen you shall have a place.

When joy of battle thrills you to the soul,
And being true excels being overwise—
When this you've learned, and practice, come what may,
Men shall respect you and admire your play.

When you can make mistakes and pay their cost,
When you can fall and never blame your luck,
Or give some paltry reason why you lost;
Seeking to strike, can smile at being struck,
When you can take from others what you'd give,
You will have learned just how to play and live.

CALL OF HOLIDAY.

Oh, the colander and skimmer,
they all are hung away;
The canning season's over, we all may go and play;
Rinse out the empty jelly bags and call a holiday,

Currant, quince and apricot, cherry, plum and nectarine;
Blackberry, raspberry, grape in all its sheen;

Take the fruit stains from your hands, you weary little wife;
Say goodbye to the hot stove and to the canning knife;
Buy the latest magazines, bring out the flute and fife,
Or take a trip to town today and join the social life.

For the canning season's over, we all may go and play;
The long spoon and the kettles are hung far away;
Bury all the parings now and call a holiday,
For the canning season's over and we rest from work today.

DRUMMED OUT.

The summer class at a high school the other day were on the subject of Napoleon's invasion of Russia and his famous retreat. "What was it happened to Napoleon at Moscow?" asked the teacher.

"He ran away," was the quick reply.

"Yes, of course, but that isn't hardly the right expression to use for such a momentous phase of history. Can you not think of a better expression to suit the occasion, with its rumble of big guns, its roll of drums—"

"Sure!" cried the boy promptly. "They beat it."—Los Angeles Times.

PERSONAL HEALTH SERVICE

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author.

THOUSAND AND ONE CAUSES OF HEADACHE

It is enough to give one a headache just trying to list or classify the different causes of headache. Instead of having a headache, let's try to disseminate a healthful idea about th headache and backache, which are traditionally associated with pelvic disease or "female trouble." The cheering truth is that neither headache nor backache occurs in most cases of actual disease of the pelvic organs of women; in most cases of chronic headache and backache in women there is really nothing wrong with the pelvic organs. If women are more subject to headache or backache than men, it is not bcause of their sex.

Running over a few of the thousand and one causes of headache as lightly as possible, there is the headache of syphillis, of malaria, brain tumor, uremia, fatigue, bad air, slight leakage from gas fittings in home or shop, constipation, overeating (which includes headaches attributed to "biliousness" or, if a fancier name is preferred, "lithemia"), nasal sinusitis, migraine, neuralgia, meningitis, the onset of the infectious diseases, arteriosclerosis with nephritis, and hypertension, alcoholism ("the morning after"), eye strain and various diseases of the eye. The excuse headache, the alibi headache, the so-called "nervous" headache, the headache of hysteria and that of ennui are varieties of deceit, and, as we agreed, the other day in discussing imaginary neuralgia, an industrious prevaricator who specializes long enough or a given untruth or fancy comes in time to believe it himself. Victims of "nervous," neurasthenic or hysterical headache are in some such fix as that.

Persons exposed to the vapor or fumes of gasoline by the nature of their employment suffer much from headache with more or less nausea or impaired appetite due to gasoline poisoning. Many other poisons widely used in the industries, such as benzine, benzol, carbon disulphide, wood alcohol, sulphuretted hydrogen, and cyanogen, are responsible for headache among workers. The risk of fatal carbon monoxide poisoning of persons breathing the air of a closed or poorly vetilated garage where a gasoline engine is running is now generally recognized; a throbbing headache is a lucky warning signal in some such cases. Chronic headache is often due to the daily breathing of air very slightly contaminated with carbon monoxide from engine exhausts.

WONDERFUL HORSE!

Oh, horse, you are a wonderful thing; no buttons to push, no horn to honk; you start yourself, no clutch to slip; no spark to miss, no gears to strip; no license-buying every year, with plates to screw on front and rear; no gas bills climbing up each da; stealing the joy of life away; no speed cops chugging in your rear, yelling summons in your ear. Your inner tubes are all O. K., and thank the Lord they stay that way; your spark plugs never miss and fuss; your motor never makes us cuss. Your frame is good for many a mile; your body never changes style. Your wants are few and easy met; you're something on the auto yet.—American Forestry.

Two men are dead and 17 persons are suffering from injuries as the result of automobile accidents about the bay during the past 24 hours.

DEAD:

Bacon received fatal injuries, from which he died soon afterward, when a speeding automobile crashed into a P. G. & E. work truck near Saratoga, from which Bacon and J. H. Rector were unloading tools. The automobile failed to stop and give aid, and was later pursued unsuccessfully by a posse headed by Sheriff George W. Lyle. Bacon received fractures of the skull and of the left leg.

J. N. Olivera, of Concord, Contra Costa county, was killed when his automobile plunged over a 75-foot embankment on Mt. St. Helena. The car crashed into a tree at the bottom of the canyon. Olivera's skull was fractured and his neck broken, resulting in his instant death.

INJURED:

J. J. Rector, San Jose, foreman for the Pacific Gas & Electric company. He received possibly fatal injuries in the accident in which his companion, G. W. Bacon, was killed. He received fractures of the skull and collarbone.

Frank Freitas, a companion of Olivera's in the accident on Mt. St. Helena which cost the latter his life, received minor injuries in the plunge down the steep mountainside.

G. A. Williams, who was in the same car, also received minor injuries.

AUTO PLUNGES 300 FEET.

Miss Alice Taylor, of Oakland, received severe scalp lacerations when the automobile in which she was riding with J. H. Hoffman left the road while descending from Mt. Hamilton, and plunged 300 feet down the mountainside.

J. H. Hoffman, a member of the Oakland fire department, sustained bruises and contusions in the same accident. Both occupants of the car were extricated from the wreckage by passing autoists, and taken to the San Jose hospital.

Wilbur Whitaker, 13, received severe internal injuries when a motorcycle on which he was riding with Dean Works collided with an automobile driven by Herman Irving, 2501 San Pablo avenue. Whitaker, who lives at 1011 Santa Fe avenue, Berkeley, was taken to Fabiola hospital.

Dean Works, 18, Whitaker's companion, was slightly hurt, and was taken to his home, 1801 Vine street, Berkeley.

Mrs. Catherine Caryena was knocked down, receiving severe bruises and lacerations, when she was struck by an automobile driven by A. Graham as she was waiting for a street car at Twelfth and Washington streets. Graham was arrested and held at the city prison pending investigation.

Mrs. H. Richards, 1428 Carleton street, Berkeley, received a rib fracture when her brother-in-law, Floyd Richards, with whom she was riding, drove his car into an electrolier to avoid striking another machine. Neither Richards nor his young son, who was in the car, was injured. The accident occurred at St. Charles street and Buena Vista avenue, Alameda.

AUTO RUNS INTO DITCH.

Mrs. Herbert J. Watt, 1916 Marin avenue, Berkeley, received painful cuts and bruises when an automobile driven by her husband ran into a ditch at Ellsworth street and Channing way, where the Southern Pacific company was repairing tracks. Watt said he did not see the ditch until it was too late to stop. He escaped without injury.

Arthur Fitzgerald, a flagman at Market and Montgomery streets, San Francisco, was lacerated about the face and body when he was struck by an automobile driven by Charles Hans, 287 Thirtieth avenue, San Francisco. Hans is said to have driven his car through a "street closed" barrier and to have wrecked it against a hydrant. He was arrested on a charge of driving while intoxicated. Three sailors who were riding in Hans' automobile—Floyd Vilord, William O'Keefe and Denis O'Sullivan—were severely shaken up and bruised.

Roland Lee, 515 Peralta street, was struck and injured by a Southern Pacific electric train when he stepped onto the track to avoid a speeding automobile. Lee's right leg was fractured. The accident occurred ath Seventh and Peralta streets.

Literary Venture Planned by Class In Kindergarten

Despite the plaints of professional book-reviewers against the flood of literature turned out by sophomoric authors, Elmhurst school has defied the reviewers and gone them one better.

Elmhurst is turning out a book written by the kindergarten class.

The class at Elmhurst is believed to be the youngest short-story writing class known to exist. While the product is admittedly juvenile, it is contended by educators that it is not much worse than some literature now turned out by older folks, and has the charm of originality in addition.

Under the direction of Miss Faith Shaw, original stories told in the kindergarten by the students are being collected and will be illustrated by drawings and pictures chosen by the young authors. The book will be issued shortly.

WALNUT CREEK, Oct. 22.—Arrangements are being made for another road from Walnut Creek to Saranap, according to Supervisor Hayden. The Botelho heirs have signified their willingness to give the right of way along the tracks of the Sacramento Short Line, as the proposed new road will follow the railroad line. If similar promises are secured from the property owners along the route, the county will build a more direct road to Saranap.

This new road which will not necessitate the crossing of the railroad tracks and will bring the communities of Walnut Creek and Saranap into closer contact.

Walnut Creek Home Destroyed By Fire

WALNUT CREEK, Oct. 22.—Fire late Friday afternoon totally destroyed the home and garage of Dr. William F. Robinson here and for a time threatened to spread through the entire town of Walnut Creek. The volunteer fire departments of Walnut Creek and Danville, aided by several hundred men from the vicinity, worked for more than an hour keeping the fire within bounds.

The fire was caused by a defective flue in the fireplace chimney. Mrs. Robinson was burning old papers in the fireplace when she heard a crackling in an upstairs room. Investigation showed the whole room afire. The loss is estimated at $12,000.

RED-MASKED TRIO HOLD UP PAIR IN AUTO

Thieves in Stolen Car Drive Over Ledge, Crash Into Fence, Rip Roof of Private Garage; Make Escape

Detectives of the Oakland police department began a systematic search today for a pair of bandits who menaced motorists on the highways last night and also for three automobile thieves who wrecked a stolen car in eluding the police yesterday morning.

Oscar Pillar, 3101 Summit street, reported to the police that he had been held up and robbed of a gold watch, fountain pen and some change when he and his wife were driving along the Joaquin Miller road last night. The reason the bandits did not obtain considerable money which he had with him was because they were frightened away when Mrs. Pillar fainted, he said.

ESCAPE THWARTED.

Pillar had stopped his car to cool the brakes when two men with red masks drove up alongside of his car and stopped. Pillar started his auto and attempted to escape but the bandits crowded him off the road and into a ditch. Mrs. Pillar sprang from the automobile and started to run down the road. As Pillar attempted to leave the car, the bandits drew their revolvers. Seeing the guns leveled at her husband's head, Mrs. Pillar collapsed in the road. The bandits became frightened and and fled.

Early yesterday morning three automobile thieves drove a stolen car through a fence, over a 10-foot embankment and through the roof of a private garage in their flight from a police machine. The car, belonging to P. Eling, 325 Eleventh street, had been reported stolen Saturday night. Inspectors William Marshall and J. C. R. McDonald recognized the car yesterday morning and gave orders for the driver to halt.

THIEVES FLEE SHOTS.

When the auto thieves attempted to flee the officers fired at them with their revolvers and a shotgun. W. H. Glaze, 1615 East Fourteenth street, who witnessed the affair, declared that he heard one of the bandits cry out as the inspectors opened fire.

At Fifteenth avenue and East Fourteenth street the bandit car tried to turn, but it hopped the curb, crashed through a fence, fell over an embankment and through the roof of a garage belonging to Mrs. E. H. Baker, 2114 Fourteenth avenue.

When the police car arrived a few moments later they found the stolen automobile on top of another car in the Baker garage, but the bandits had escaped. Three men in the neighborhood were arrested, but they later proved their innocence.

RAIL MEN OF EASTBAY GET RAISE

Clerks, Station Forces and Freight Handlers Included in Ruling Handed Down by the U. S. Labor Board

More than 2100 Oakland employees of the three transcontinental railroads will be affected by the ruling of the United States Railroad Labor Board announced today, which raised their wages from one to two cents per hour.

Two thousand employees of the Southern Pacific, including all clerks, station forces, dock, warehouse and platform freight handlers will have their wages increased in accordance with the new ruling, according to a statement issued from the chief clerk's offices today.

Approximately 100 Santa Fe railroad employees working in Oakland will be affected, along with several hundred others working in Eastbay sections outside of Oakland. Western Pacific employees in Oakland who will be affected by the ruling will total less than 55, according to the chief clerk's office.

65 CARRIERS AFFECTED.

The decision of the Labor Board, which was made public in Chicago last night, awards increases of 1 and 2 cents to clerks, station forces, dock, warehouse and platform freight-handlers and similar employees of 65 railroads.

The decision followed closely on another denying an increase to signalmen. The present decision reads: "In the case of the signalmen, their present rates of pay and the very favorable treatment they had received in previous wage orders and adjustments, made it seem inequitable to award the men increase of wages under the state of proof before the board.

"In the case of the clerical employees proper, it is undoubtedly true that their present wages and the previous awards and orders affecting them through a long period of years do not show that they have ever received treatment which could be termed preferential." A dissenting opinion accompanied the previous decision denying an increase to the signalmen.

The employees affected by the present decision were represented by the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, Freight-handlers, Express and Station Employees, and by the International Longshoremen's Association.

An unusual provision of the decision is that the "sum of the increases granted to the employees in each section shall be distributed by joint action of the representatives of the carrier and of the employees in such a manner as to bring about just and equitable rates for the employees in each of the various sections for which increases are provided."

Scion of Noble House Fails in Suicide Effort

Heir to Rushmore Estates, Despondent, Takes Poison.

Claiming to be the heir of the Rushmore estates of England and the son of Lord Rivers, Carlos Rivers, 74, 2571 Foothill boulevard, is at his home recovering from the affects of poison which he took Saturday night through despondency over the death of his wife and the loss of his family during the World War.

Inspectors William Emigh and George Powers assert that Rivers has documents to prove he is the brother of Brigadier-General Lord Pitts Rivers of England, who is with him a joint heir to the Rushmore estate.

According to the old man's story, he was born in India and has fought under five flags. He said he held the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel in the British army during the war and that he now is retired upon a pension of $150 a month.

RICHMOND, Oct. 22.—At tonight's meeting the city council will face the problem of choosing a site to recommend for the Harding Memorial hospital, which is be voted upon November 6. The matter to be voted upon will be in the form of a bond issue for $150,000.

HAYWARD, Oct. 22.—Edward D. Haines, 1925 Tenth avenue, Oakland, paid $10 to Judge Jacob Harder Jr. during the week-end, on a charge of speeding through the city streets. He was arrested by Walter Alves, newly-appointed traffic officer for Hayward.

2 POLICEMEN GUARD TAXES IN NEW ROOM

Precautions Against Bandits Taken As Collectors Open Ground Floor Office Off Washington St. Entrance

Room A, on the ground floor of the city hall, was opened today for the convenience of Oakland city taxpayers.

Because of the proximity of the office to Washington street, Commissioner W. J. Moorehead of the finance department called upon Commissioner Frank Colbourn for two policemen to be stationed near the doors. As an additional precaution, Assistant City Treasurer Hamb was instructed to move money upstairs to the city's big safes as soon as $3000 is collected at any one time. A special guard of policemen will accompany the money on its journey.

To make for quicker entrance and exit, the room now has two doors, one leading from the street and one from inside the hall.

Although the room was used last year in the second installment of the 1922-23 taxes, which was light, the city officials feared that the work of collecting a first installment could not be done in so short a space. The city officials, however, finally agreed that even with handicaps, a ground floor tax collecting room would be better than flooding the four elevators with taxpayers going to the ninth floor. A small elevator accident last year clinched the matter.

Taxes have been collected for a week on the ninth floor, while Room A was being remodeled. Nearly $75,000 was taken in last week.

This morning Hamb led a force of nineteen men to Room A, with all the necessary block books and stationery. The room was put in order within one hour.

Brush Fire Sweeps Santa Clara Hills

GILROY, Oct. 22.—A fire which [illegible] in the vicinity of Long Point in the western foothills last Thursday and has burned over several hundred acres of grazing land was well under control last evening, according to reports. A crew of 30 men from ranches in the vicinity have worked hard to check the fire, which threatened to eat its way to the buildings on the Whitehurst ranch.

The fire has also burned over part of the McGrath ranch on the opposite side of the hills from here, and has done considerable damage to the Miller & Lux property in the vicinity.

A report reached here that the fire had burned down to Magic Springs, but according to an authentic report the fire-fighters have succeeded in stopping it before reaching that place.

NATIONAL MARINE ASSN. SEEKS FOR NEW U. S. POLICY

Asks Government to Give Preference to American Trading Vessels.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—Preferential treatment for American ships in American trade is the policy which the National Merchant Marine association will seek to have the government follow, according to an announcement today by the association's governing council. Enforcement of such a policy, the council contended, will assure a permanent and adequate American trade fleet for commercial and protective purposes with consequent expansion of our foreign commerce.

The council has adopted resolutions, the announcement said, setting forth details of the policy it believes should be carried out by the government. It declared that "benefits provided for will accrue not only to shipping and labor, but to the American farmers and other producers, manufacturers, exporters and importers, and would end the drain on the American taxpayer caused by government operation of the ships."

The association reiterated in its governing council's action that it is opposed to any form of government operations.

Prompt enforcement of section 21 of the merchant marine act, applying coastwise laws to insular possessions, was demanded by the council. It further urged early use of the provision for notification of foreign governments of an intent to modify trade treaties "that now stand in the way of a return to preferential duties and tonnage taxes. Exemption of legislation applying the principle of preferential duties and tonnage taxes for the encouragement of American shipping as against the vessels of other nations also was favored.

The council asked that all governmental supplies be transported in American bottoms and that ocean travel by government officials be restricted to home ships when they are available. In addition, the council urged a national policy "reserving the transportation of as nearly as practicable one-half of the total number of immigrants admitted to the United States in any fiscal year to vessels registered, enrolled or licensed under the laws of the United States."

Closer co-ordination of rail and water transportation facilities was urged in order, the announcement said, to export commerce from interior points. The unbroken movement of such shipments should be accelerated and could be, the council contended, through survey of facilities handling the shipments.

Among other recommendations, the council urged repeal of laws permitting foreign built ships to be registered in America and favored allowance for enlistment of officers and men of the merchant marine in the naval reserve.

Navy Supply Ship Object of Interest

The navy supply ship NECHES will be one of the main objects of interest at the annual Navy Day observance at the Mare Island navy yard next Saturday. Spiggy and Spitz, shown below, are two important members of the crew. Likewise they are the only two who do not care a rap for regulations, gold braid, or admirals.

SEA GREYHOUND PART OF EXHIBIT FOR NAVY DAY

Mare Island Yards to Be Thrown Open to Public as Part of Celebration.

Next Saturday the navy yard at Mare Island will be thrown open to the public as part of the annual Navy Day celebration. A number of large war vessels are lying at the yard, some undergoing repairs or taking on supplies and others lined up waiting to be sold by the government at public auction the end of the month.

One of the show ships of the day at the island will be the new United States oil supply ship Neches, one of the most recent additions to the Navy Department. The vessel has just returned from her maiden cruise to Panama with a cargo of fuel oil and other supplies for the destroyer fleet operating from the canal zone base. On the way down she supplied the navy sea hornets with fuel both at sea and at various points along the Mexican and Central American coasts.

Another vessel which will create considerable interest and which is at present in the navy yard undergoing repairs is the new scout cruiser Omaha, which is having a new foremast stepped. Her other one was broken away during the time she was passing through a heavy gale off the Oregon coast on her way to S. Francisco bay.

The Omaha is known as the Sea," because of the great speed she can make. On a recent run from the Hawaiian islands she slipped 24 hours and 20 minutes for all records. She is commanded by Captain D. C. Hanrahan and is credited with being the fastest seagoing vessel afloat.

Claremont Hit By Storm and Is Badly Damaged

SAN PEDRO, Cal., Oct. 21.—The steamer Claremont, which was disabled in a storm off the mouth of the Columbia river last week, limped into port late today with her pumps going full force and steering with a jury rudder in a 60-mile gale. Her deckload of 500,000 feet of lumber was washed overboard in the storm and her rigging badly damaged.

West Hixton Being Overhauled For Spot Service

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 22.—Overhauling of the steamer West Hixton, which is being prepared for re-entry into active service after having lain idle here for many months, has been completed and the vessel will be inspected tomorrow preliminary to being made eligible as "spot" ship. This will leave the Eastern Mariner as the only idle Shipping Board carrier in Portland harbor.

The steamer Hornet is taking on a cargo of lumber at Garibaldi, on Tillamook bay, which she will carry to Los Angeles.

Advices received here from London are that two steamers have been fixed within the next week to carry lumber from Pacific Northwest ports to Japan at $14.50 a thousand feet. This higher rate is in line with a general stiffening which followed the recent action of the Pacific west-bound conference in advancing rates.

The British steamer Nichteroy, first of the full refrigerated vessels to head for Portland since the present fruit shipping season opened, is scheduled to take out about 100,000 boxes of apples for the United Kingdom, departing November 5. Apples for her cargo already are arriving at the municipal terminal.

The Norwegian steamer Regulus, in the Latin-American line, came up from Astoria last night to complete her cargo for South American ports. Lumber is the principal commodity she will load here.

Lumber shipments from St. Helens for the week just ended aggregated 4,500,000 feet, of which most went to Los Angeles.

The German steamer Kermit arrived early today from Hamburg, via San Francisco. She will take out a shipment of refrigerated fruit.

COTTON.

DALLAS, Tex., Oct. 22.—It costs members of cooperative marketing associations 2 per cent of the value of their cotton crops to market them, according to Secretary Moser of the American Cotton Growers' exchange. Growers who market independently pay from 10 to 12 per cent.

PRES. HARRISON MAKES LAST RUN TO SO. AMERICA

Big Liner Will Go Into the Round-World Service for Robert Dollar.

SAN PEDRO, Oct. 21.—The liner President Harrison made port today from Buenos Aires in completion of her farewell voyage under the colors of the United States shipping board and Swayne and Hoyt, Inc. She will be the first of seven ships purchased by Robert Dollar for the Dollar Line's around the world passenger service, and is scheduled to leave the Pacific coast in that service early in December. Her sister ship, the President Hayes, now in tropical waters, will also be turned over to the Dollar line upon its arrival here. In addition to thirty-four passengers from South America the President Harrison brought fourteen thousand bags of coffee from Santos, 1600 bunches of bananas from Colon and 450 tons of fertilizer from Rio de Janiero for discharge here.

Another arrival was the shipping board freighter Radnor, which came in from New Orleans with engines partially disabled. Repairs were expected to keep the vessel here several days.

Five dreadnaughts of the battle fleet arrived today from San Francisco, the California, New Mexico, Maryland, Pennsylvania and Arizona, trailed by the submarines S-30, S-31, S-33, S-34 and S-35.

En route from the north the dreadnaughts engaged in tactical and gunnery exercises. They approached the harbor hidden by a smoke screen laid down by destroyers on their way to San Diego. The ships will spend the week in repairs and preparation for the Navy Day celebration here Saturday.

Two Matson Liners Are Loaded Heavy

Bringing 98 passengers and a fair-sized cargo of canned pines and raw sugar, the Matson Navigation liner Matsonia, Captain Charles Peterson, will arrive on Tuesday morning from Honolulu. The ship has 64,520 cases of pineapple, 51,744 bags of raw sugar for Crockett, 4163 bunches of bananas, three passenger's automobiles, 214 tons of plunder and 293 bags of mail.

The Matson Navigation steamer Lurline sent in a radio message yesterday, stating that she is bringing to San Francisco from Honolulu cabin passengers, 61,685 cases of canned pines, 1064 bunches of bananas, 15 tons of plunder and 3 bags of mail. For Seattle the Lurline has 2360 cases of pines, bunches of bananas and 97 tons of plunder.

Dr. Walter Wins Match in Opening Round

but lacks the experience of the ex-state champion. The doctor's feature holes were the seventh and eighth. At the former he holed his putt for a 2, and at the difficult par 5 eight, where he was on in two, his putt for an eagle 3 was in and out.

Dr. Walter was much impressed with Ed. Wilson's play, and expects to see him figure in future city championships.

Clair Goodwin played perfect golf over the out holes, reaching the turn in 38, with at least three easy putts missed. Coming in, the Berkeley player failed to keep up the pace, but won from Ed. Winkenback, who plays a strong game, five up and three to play.

R. P. Jackson and F. G. Shaw had an interesting contest in which both played championship golf. Jackson's play was sounder around the greens which gave him the advantage and a victory by 3-2.

Claude Barton Wins From Young Giddings.

Claude B. Barton won his match on the 18th green from a young golfer who is sure to have revenge over the Sequoyah player in a year or less. Young Giddings plays an excellent game, drives with plenty of confidence and plays his other shots well. Giddings is one of the many coming players revealed in The TRIBUNE tournament.

C. E. Lucas in the fourth flight won his match from Stuart Freeman on a technicality. The arrival of an eight-pound baby boy at the Freeman home banished all thought of golf, but not of sportsmanship, as the happy father remembered to phone his opponent of his inability to be on hand.

In the second flight A. DePellaton and Sam Messick went to the 21st hole for a decision, while Ascher Loafea, a 14-year-old Sequoyah caddy, won his match from E. M. Fennon, for whom he had formerly caddied by 9-8.

It has been decided to arrange another flight contest for players defeated in the first round of the championship flight. This defeated eight flight will also play from scratch, and should furnish another interesting series of matches.

The official starting times for all second round matches will be announced in tomorrow's TRIBUNE.

The following are the detailed results:

With the exception of the game between the Maxwell Hardware and Velie Motors, which the latter lost 9 to 2, all games in the National division of the Spalding Amateur League were closely fought.

Two games were played at the Coast League Park, the Swift Lumber defeating the Ashby Athletic Club 3 to 1, and the Magnavox Company taking the long end of a 6 to 4 score from the Calatone Waters. "Dutch" Kaiser started on the hill for the "Mags" but had to give way to George Reckelberg in the second inning. Reckelberg held the Calatones to one run and two hits in the last seven innings and he fanned eight. He also starred with the bat, getting a double and two singles. The "Mags" got eleven hits off Berry. Drew, Kyte and Rose hit hard for the winners.

Jimmy Monahan pitched a four-hit game for the Swifts, but did not get started until after the fourth inning when the game was already sewed up. Robertson pitched a five-hit game for the winners. The scores:

The Durant-Steves Motors did lots of hitting at Alameda, but it was not until the eighth inning that they were able to put over enough runs to defeat the C. J. Nelson Druggists by a 5 to 4 score. In that frame they bunched five hits for four runs, enough to clinch the game, as they already had scored a run in the fifth. Powell and Eddie Pessano were the heavy stickers for Durant-Steves. MY THEORY FOR TEACHING GOLF By Bobby Cruickshank

This is the twenty-third of a series of twenty-four articles by Bobby Cruickshank, who became the leading golf professional of the United States for 1923 by finishing in a tie with Bobby Jones for the National Open title at Inwood.

THE DRIVER

Throughout this series I have progressed from putting to chip shots, short and long iron play and devoted description to the use of the spoon and brassie. I have also told of the method swinging the dozen clubs.

However, we are now on the tee, where one of the most important clubs in golf, deemed by many to be the most important, is brought into play.

I mean the driver. Although I have described the stance and the swing for wooden clubs, I think it would be well if I skipped lightly over these details for the benefit of any reader who has not followed my previous articles. Before going on I would like to impress the golfer with the importance of striving to gain confidence on the tee, because a poor shot there often may be directly traceable to a lack of this proper mental attitude.

Now we are prepared to take up the strike in more detail. For the stance, I assume a position with the right foot ever so slightly advanced. Fix an imaginary spot in the center of the space between the feet. Then see to it that the ball is on a line with this spot.

Now glance at the feet. The right foot should be advanced ever so slightly, and the left toe turned slightly in toward the ball. The reason I turn the left toe in is that I have found it gives me better control of my follow through. Upon assuming this position make sure that there is not a feeling of crampiness about you. Let yourself relax. Also be sure to be comfortable. In order to gain the correct feeling the knees should be slightly bent, for if the legs are held rigid this will have a tendency to throw the player off balance.

Always bear in mind that the arms should be held close to, but free of, the body. Now a good way to prevent getting too far or too near the ball is to place the club-head behind the sphere and stand so that both arms are hanging naturally, with the club grip clasped in the hands.

However, see to it that the arms are not touching the sides. This should give the player the correct distance to stand away from the ball. After these details have been attended to, the first movement of the back swing is made. This is accomplished by the left hand and wrist starting the club-head. To better explain this, I will say that the club is started back by a very slight turn of the wrist, so that the player gains a sense of feeling of the weight of the club-head.

Simultaneously, the left knee bends inward, which is accomplished with ease by raising the left heel very slightly off the ground. Then the body begins to pivot from the waist. The club is brought round to a position nearly parallel with the line of play. While this is being done the left arm should be kept straight. The right wrist should be below the shaft and the elbows close to the body. Do not allow the head to move. The left shoulder, by this time, should just be opposite the ball. At this stage there might crop out a tendency to allow the left hand to weaken its grip. But this should be avoided. However, the wrist should be given enough flexibility to allow the weight of the club-head to tug slightly. Then the down swing begins. The club handle is dragged with both arms to a point about ten or twelve inches behind the ball. There the player may get snap of the wrists into the shot. To accomplish this, the speed is increased with the right hand, striking forward, and the left hand striking backward.

When the ball is struck the club-head hands and the head should be in line. From there the club-head should travel through after the ball, and around the left shoulder, while the right shoulder, side and head turn in direction of flight.

My next and final article of this series will be a lecture on points to obey to improve your game.

News of the Churches

Brotherly Love Needed: Silsley

"The secret of great humans is Christian brotherly love. In the mood that they now are in, the French and Germans will hate each other a hundred years from now, but an hour's application of Christian brotherly love would reconcile them," said Dr. Frank M. Silsley at the First Presbyterian church yesterday morning, preaching on the subject, "The Spirit of Great Humans." Continuing, he said:

"Christ's spirit of brotherly love is the greatest miracle worker in society today. It changes our personal attitude. It revolutionizes our feelings. It releases the angel within us for action, and curbs the beast. It conquers dislikes and antagonisms based on the mere physical experience and looks of others. It is common to say that we do not like the looks of some one, but it is dangerous if pressed too far.

"If Christ had been swayed by the physical looks of others He would not have called the rough, sunburned fisherman to be His followers. Graded according to physical appearance only, Abraham Lincoln would be almost eliminated in popular estimation, but judged by spiritual worth and humanitarian impulses, he is rated as a hero among heroes. Brotherly love also conquers antagonism for others based on objectionable traits of disposition and character. There are traits in humanity very repellent—greed, meanness, selfishness, covetousness and hate, and brotherly love is the miracle-working power that can make us love men in spite of these things.

"The last word of Jesus to the treacherous Judas was a word of brotherly love. The spirit of brotherly love will rescue those today who have been wounded by capital sins, materialism and false religiousisms. We should not look upon false doctrines and capital sins only as our enemies, we should look upon them as Paul and the Master did, as a chance to offer the salvation of Christ. The greatest sin against brotherly love, however, is selfishness, indifference, indolence. We simply do not like to go out of our way or disturb or tax ourselves in the help of others. The whole world of humanity today is crying out for the miracle-working power of brotherly love."

Grasp Living Ideas, Urges Pastor

"Progress in religion may be realized by putting aside the dead ideas of yesterday and in place of them discovering living ideas that may be assimilated, validated and verified," said Rev. Clarence Reed, yesterday morning, speaking on the theme, "I Believe in Truth." He said among other things:

"Men and women are hungering and thirsting today for the bread of life which is truth. They find it impossible to be satisfied with the cold barren stones of the inherited creeds. The myths, superstitions and miracle stories of the past are like the small stones and sand that often get into the shoes of the hikers. It is possible to walk with a certain amount of gravel and sand in your shoes, although it is much better to take off your shoes and shake out the annoying particles.

"Progress in religion may be realized by putting aside the dead ideas of yesterday, and in place of them discovering living ideas that may be assimilated, validated and verified. The ideas that were accented by the church of the past have been outgrown.

"It is as reasonable to ask a person to shut his eyes in order to appreciate the beauty of a sunset, as to urge him to stop thinking and simply believe so as to have a vital religious faith. A person in touch with modern thought never reaches the place where he can stop thinking. He may discover today a great truth which explains many of the facts of life, and tomorrow he may find that the truth which he valued so highly yesterday fails to interpret some new experience. In the light of a greater truth a person ought to be willing to give up a lesser truth. That which is of supreme value is first-hand knowledge of the highest religious and ethical values."

Preacher Calls Peter Ex-Slacker

"The world is full of theories of religion. What it needs now is not theory. It needs a new birth; it needs to see God," said Dr. Frederick Vining Fisher in his sermon yesterday morning at Plymouth church, speaking on the subject, "Peter, the Man With Two Birthdays." Among other things he said:

Peter went through three years of close association with the greatest man in history and came out a coward and a slacker. Heartbroken and repentent he tried to atone for his broken promises and lip failure. But not till his race prejudice, his selfishness, his narrow orthodoxy, his pettiness was swept away in a great vision of one universe, one God, one humanity and one life did he become Peter the preacher of power. It was not the companionship of Christ, the sermon on the mount, the tragedy of the cross that saved Peter: it was his second birthday, when he was born into the world of spirit.

This is an age of well-born folks—the blue blood of New England, the warm blood of the south, the hot blood of Europe flows in our veins, but the real question is does the spirit of God live in our souls?

Our bodies may be the well-dressed tenants of dead souls or the living instruments of eternal spirits. Glenn Frank says that this age needs a new revival and a new renaissance. He is right; it needs a new spiritual shaking up, out of which shall come a second birthday to thousands all about us, the birthday into the life of the spirit. In that day hatreds will melt away, petty selfishness vanish, hope come anew to the world.

Sunset and evening stars are but theories to blind folks. One moment of sight is worth years of imagination. The world is full of theories of religion. What it needs now is not theories, it needs a new birth; it needs to see God.

"Only Genuine Religion": Stephens

"The only religion that is genuine is that in which the knowledge of God descends from the head to the heart, and runs along the nerves and muscles, making a man think and feel and act rightly," said the Rev. John Stephens at the First M. E. church yesterday, speaking on "The Test of Real Religion." Among other things he said:

"Every valuable thing in this world has its counterfeit, and the religion of Jesus Christ, which is heaven's most precious gift to the world, is no exception. There are still men and institutions that wear the livery of heaven to serve the devil in.' But just as there are certain marks by which you can distinguish counterfeit money from the genuine, so there are infallible tests by which you may discern between the true faith and spurious imitations of it.

"These tests, whether stated by the Lord Jesus Himself or by any of His apostles, all resolve themselves into this one, the test of holy living. As stated by the Apostle John, the argument runs like this: A man who knows God will love Him, and one who loves Him will do His will, and His will is that every man should love his brother man, with the inevitable deduction that whoever says he knows God and hates his brother is a liar! In other words the only religion that is genuine is that in which the knowledge of God descends from the head to the heart, and runs along the nerves and muscles, making a man think and feel and act rightly.

"Such a religion is ever the world's greatest need. It is no wonder that thoughtful men despair of help from any other source in the present-day emergency, and are turning to the Christian church as the custodian and herald and exemplar of the gospel of brotherly love based upon the supreme truth of a fatherly God."

"Second Coming" Is Breeden Topic

"Men of high standing and greatly beloved as Christian teachers have staked their reputation as prophets in sending forth to the world their belief that the time of Jesus appearing on earth to take his kingly throne and assume the rule of all nations, is 'very near.' But it is not quite near," said Dr. Harvey O. Breeden at the First Christian church last evening, speaking on the subject, "Is Jesus Coming Again?" He said in part:

"In any teaching on the second coming of the Lord three clear truths must be recognized: First, Jesus himself declared He was coming again. Second, the apostles, as well as all the early Christians, including Peter and Paul, fully expected that He would in their time appear in the flesh. At least that He would make His second entrance into this world in a body of some kind, and would thus begin His reign. Their writings furnish the most indisputable proof that they cherished such expectation. The third truth is that Christ did not come as these devout hearts expected in their day. The next generation of believers looked for Him, but He did not come. And after these their children expected to see Him, but they were disappointed.

"Then it was said that after a thousand years He would certainly appear. But He did not. From that time to the present there have been individuals who have fixed the time when all signs indicated the second advent of Jesus, and the great wonder of it all is the tenacity of their faith.

"He has come, is coming, and will come. We may think of His coming in the great crises of human history, not as an earthly captain or Lord, but as one who in ways beyond our understanding for the bringing out of men's strivings, of victories and outcomes beyond their planning or even their expectation or hope."

Legion Praised; Ku Klux Denounced

High tribute was paid the Independent Order B'nai B'rith, which is celebrating its eightieth birthday, by Rabbi Rudolph I. Coffee in his sermon preached Friday night at Temple Sinai on the subject, "Eighty Years Young."

In discussing the order's fine work to break down religious prejudice, Rabbi Coffee praised the B'nai B'rith and added warm words for the American Legion. He said in part:

"The convention of the American Legion just ending will be recorded as one of the greatest gatherings of our day. At last the dangerous influence of the Ku Klux Klan is exposed and laid bare before the citizens of the nation. The administration of Commander Owsley will stand out because he visited Europe and pleaded with the several nations of our allied league to stop the mad increase in airships, which can only lead to another war.

"Commander John R. Quinn, who comes to his great task with the good will of every citizen, will find his highest labor in taking up the spirit of the convention and waging relentless war on secret and hooded fraternities. No honest society is afraid of daylight; no real American depends on mobs and violence, which are K. K. K. tools.

"The American Legion is the most beloved of American organizations. Let it tackle the most necessary of needed reforms. Just as the soldier boys fought fair, and came home from Europe clean, so must the Legion teach these secret clans that we have nothing to conceal. America is ever above board."

Kansas City Now Leading Baltimore

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 22.—Bunching their base hits and aided by errors and bases on balls, the Kansas City American Association team had little trouble downing the Baltimore Internationals in the sixth game in the Little World Series here this afternoon, 13 to 5. This gives Kansas City four wins against two for Baltimore and means that the Blues must win only one game in the remaining three to clinch the minor league title.

Gang Called in on Question of But One Child for Each House

HERE is a letter I am going to put up to the Gang to answer. I don't believe in one-child families. Children have to learn the lessons of give and take, and they are better fitted to cope with the world's problems if they have had practice at home.

But what are you going to do with this kind of a Daddy? The rolling stone has nothing on him, and the one baby already here has pretty poor prospects for even an imitation home.

Dear Jerry:

I think "Thelma May" is wonderful. Her letter makes me think—so I will put some of my thoughts on paper and send them to you.

My little girl is 3 years old, and although my arms ache for another baby and my conscience hurts me when I see her playing by herself, I can't see my way clear to have another.

We have been married six years, and in that time my husband has had about fifty jobs. We have lived in hovels because I couldn' afford anything better. Before we had Betty I didn't care how much we roamed. I'd think: "He surely will settle down soon and give me a little home," but he didn't. Never was contented more than a month or so in one place or with one job. A year ago I got on my "High Horse." I said: "Get me a home or I leave." Well, it frightened him a little so he actually held a job four months and I saved a little lump, intending to buy furniture, when he drew it from the bank and bought a second-hand car. Well, Jerry—I left. He didn't think I meant it, so I started divorce proceedings. Got my first papers. I had a fine position, met nice people and was happier than I had been for years. But, of course, he was continually pleading for me to come back, and I am on pins and needles for fear that he will get tired of his present job and quit. I don't complain that he isn't able to make a good living if he will only keep steady so that I may know what to depend upon. I am trying to buy a piece of furniture at a time, but I get discouraged in trying, as I never know what to expect.

Jerry, I don't intend to put in my life in this manner, but I don't know what to do. If only he'd give me a little home of some kind I'd be contented, but I guess it's a hopeless case.

Sometimes I think "I'll have another baby to raise with Betty—God will provide a way," but will He? What do you think?

FROM HOUSEKEEPING ROOMS.

One Letter Seems to Answer the Other

This letter would seme to answer the one above, but does it? Both parents working for a home, are laying the foundation that means a decent chance for the babies to come.

Dear Jerry:

I wish to say in regard to the one child idea, that I firmly believe in a family, for the parents' sake as well as the child's.

Of course, the cost is more to bring nine than one, at least that is what those who have four seem to feel, but I have not found it so altogether.

I am the mother of four, ranging in ages from 7 to 13, and if I do say it myself, we are giving them a good bringing up. My husband's wages average around a hundred and fifty a month. We won our home, so have no rent going out, and I do all my own housework and sewing for myself and children, and I still have time to read, practice up in my music and go out one or two afternoons a week.

My oldest is in high school and dresses as well as a high school student should. Of course, he doesn't wear silk shirts or silk socks, and doesn't expect to. The children understand our circumstances and realize that we are doing our best for them and do not look on clothes as the main thing in life.

The two oldest are taking piano lessons and the third is taking violin lessons, and we expect to start the youngest on some musical instrument as soon as he is a little older.

The children know they can have their friends here any time, and in fact our home is called the neighborhood headquarters as it is the favorite gathering place for the children. And, Jerry, they are not angels as they often have pretty hot arguments, and if it gets too hot, why I give them the boxing gloves and let them go to it, but usually they settle the differences themselves and soon have peace.

So I repeat that a family is best for the child and parents. An only child misses half his or her life without the intimate association with a brother or sister. And the family sure keeps the parents exercising their brains, being judge, jury, pal, cook, nurse and everything else.

"A Mother of Four Lively Youngsters."

Thanks, Pal, for that letter. You've given the secret of SUCCESSFUL PARENTHOOD—"The family sure keeps the parents exercising their brains, being judge, jury, pal, cook, nurse and everything else.' That is the angle to the "only child" question that hasn't been touched on.

LISTEN, GANG

ROOKIE discusses affairs with amazing clarity and with all the candor of the girl who has nothing to conceal, for when consequences hold no terror. She is ready to talk about th last-minute state of her heart, her preferences among the young men and women of her acquaintance, the little dissensions that are brewing in her family as in all others, and her problems at college.

"Of course the blessed Mater doesn't know that I smoke," she will tell you without the flicker of a moscarved eye. "It isn't that I'm ashamed of it; it's to save her feelings. The Pater knows, but he isn't going to disturb her peace of mind, because he understands."

Rookie makes ma her pal in most things; with others she goes to the Old Man. Their combined knowledge of her takes in about all that she does and is.

The other day she broke out one of the windows in the laboratory at the university while cutting up with some of the other girls. There was a dreadful commotion about it. One might have thought she had kicked the Campanile over and advertised her pink knickers in the bargain.. A carpenter took her name ad address, talked ominously for a while but without appalling ', finally said he thought she could have the glass put in for about four dollars.

Rookie's allowance was exhausted, she didn't want Mater to hear of it until it had been settled because the Mater is disposed to become panicky over things of that kind, so she waited for her chance and took it up with the Old Man. In a case of that kind he's almost always a comfort, says he'll fix it and everything will be all right.

Incidentally Rookie learned something about Papa. When she told him what the bill would be he looked into an inner compartment of the little pocketbook he carries and took out four one-dollar bills, all firmly rolled together, and held by a rubber band. Rookie asked him why he carried them in that funny little place. He said he had been four months accumulating them for just such a crisis by holding out a little at a time from what the Mater allowed him for his lunches and car fare.

Qualifications of Judges Questioned

"Why should men sit in judgment on women? We all make mistakes."

That's a big sentence, and it is in answer to Ruth—Ruth who had stepped from the "straight and narrow" when she was 13. We don't hold children responsible for crimes, committed at that age; a 13-year-old girl or boy has no legal standing or rights, yet Ruth, in her sorrow and regret for the false step, was going to jeopardize her chances of happiness by confessing to a "horrible past."

Dear Jerry:

First time I have ever had nerve to write you, but when I read "Another Ruth's" letter I just could not keep still. I say, Ruth, don't tell!

Why should she confess to him? Is he telling her some of the things in his life? If he did he would make light of it and expect her to, also. If she has repented and is sorry for her mistakes, and I know she has, why tell him? We are told that if we repent "our sins shall be remembered against us no more, forever."

Then why should men sit in JUDGMENT on women! We all make mistakes, and what a dreary old world this would be if we did not forgive and forget. I always pity a girl who has strayed. We do not know her temptations, and who are we to judge? When we were married, my husband said: "What you did before I met you is none of my business, or what I did. IT IS WHAT WE DO NOW!"

So I say to Ruth, or anyone else: You have suffered and paid the price. Why pay the debt again? He may say he forgives, but he will never forget. Men are queer beings, when it comes to women making mistakes, and who causes a girl to stray? She doesn't do it by herself, that is a sure thing.

Ruth Qualified to Care for Children

I agree with you that Ruth will make a better mother from her sad experience. She will guard her children from sufferas she has. When mothers teach their sons, as they SHOULD their daughters, the ways of the world, there won't be so many Ruths to suffer in years to come. These people make me furious when they say: "What can you expect of that girl. Look what her mother did." Why should she do wrong just because her mother forgot herself? Mothers do wrong in not telling their daughters, and sons, too, of the many temptations that will come to them. They let them find out from experience, and then blame them.

Jerry, if this is too long, cut some out, or all of it.

With my love to all the Ruths,
A QUAKER.

My Marriage Problems

Adele Garrison's New Phase Of

Revelations of a Wife

THE WAY MADGE AND KATHERINE SWIFTLY MET.

The news from Grace Draper's lips that Harry Underwood himself was the Big Tangerine, coupled with the knowledge of his perfidy, to which I had listened unseen by either him or the woman in whose power I was, gave me the feeling of having been suddenly drawn into swirling ocean waves.

Once I had that experience in reality, when—in the first year of my marriage and of my acquaintance with Grace Draper—she had clutched my foot one day when we were swimming, and had drawn me underneath the water in a mad attempt to drown me. Then, not yet hardened to murder, she had brought me to the surface again after a hard battle.

That she had regretted her weakness as she termed it, many times, I knew, and I had no misgivings as to her course now that she had me in her power. But to know that my only hope of rescue, Harry Underwood's intervention with the Big Tangerine, of whom he had spoken so confidently, had been but a mockery, this wellnigh blotted out consciousness from me.

It was only the blind struggle for life till the last breath, which brought me up from the abyss of unconsciousness which yearned for me, and gave me strength to listen longer.

"It is nothing to you," Harry Underwood was saying, "what the Big Tangerine does or does not do. But do you imagine—" there was sudden ferocity in his voice—"that I have waited years for the chance to tame that proud, sneering, little devil, to pay her back for affronts you know nothing of, and then let you snatch the opportunity away from me? Not in a million years! Give me the key to that room this instant, and don't you dare to show your face there until I come back again! I can't wait to go up there now."

AN EFFECTIVE THREAT.

"I will not give you the key," Grace Draper returned steadily, and I am going to headquarters with your interference and with the real name of the nurse you brought in here yesterday. I don't know what you're trying to do—"

Perhaps the same stunt you're planning," he man replied, slowly, significantly. "For the last time, will you hand over that key and keep away from that room until I give you permission? Or will you compel me to inform the Prince of a few other keys which are in your possession, and the little fact that the Inner Presence—

"You devil," Grace Draper said, faintly.

"I thought you'd see reason," he said after a second. "But keep up your spirits," he added with a return to his old bantering manner. "Perhaps neither of us will be compelled to use our emergency plans. If I get back with the old man all right, the whole program ought to go through with a bang, and you can have what's left of both the nurse and the dame behind this key for a rag rug. So long!"

"WHO IS IT?"

I heard his footsteps across the floor of the room below, and when the door had closed a tearing, hysterical but low-muttered curse from Grace Draper's lips. Then I carefully laid the rug over the jagged hole again, and noiselessly crammed one of the pillows around the radiator pipe to deaden any sound of my movements.

With the desperation of a trapped rat I meant to make an effort to get out of my prison room.

Linda lay deep in drunken slumber.

Grace Draper would not come near me until Harry Underwood's return.

If I made any attempt at all, I must not wait.

Hidden in the lining of my manicure case were a couple of finely-tempered tools which Lillian had given me in the days of our government work for just such a predicament as the one in which I found myself. With infinite caution I rose from the couch and took the tiny but powerful things from the case.

Then I went swiftly to the bathroom, rejoicing in Linda's stertorous breathing and feverishly began to remove the screws of the lock which held the door separating the bathroom from the next room. Fortunately the lock was a new one, and the screws were not rusty, so I made comparatively little noise, and it was but a few moments before the lock was loose.

I slipped the bolt which reenforced the lock on my side, pressed cautiously against the door, and realized there was a similar bolt upon the other side. I wondered how loud a call I dared risk, when I heard a tense whisper through the keyhole.

"Who is it?"

When I answered "Madge!" there was a gasp of amazement, the bolt slid back and Katherine Bickett was in my arms.

Danger!

by Hazel Deyo Batchelor

Marian Co.by is in love with her employer, Aleo Ho.den. Holden is forty-two, married, and has one daughter, Eleanor, aged eighteen. Harriet, Alec's wife, has for years lived a life almost entirely apart from him. The thought occurs to Aleo to make a fresh start, but when he suggests this to Harriet, she laughs at the idea. Her ridicule fills him with rebellion and that day when he goes to the office he sees the attractiveness of his secretary for the first time. His best friends, Richard Endicott, at a loss to understand Alec's mood, wonders if some woman is responsible for it.

CHAPTER XIX.
HUSBAND AND WIFE.

Once back at home, Alec's thoughts turned again to Eleanor. He must see the girl and have a talk with her. He must remonstrate with her on allowing any man to take liberties with her. He must impress upon her the danger of such a thing, although he did not delude himself with the idea that anything he might have to say would do any good.

"Very well, Simmons," and Alec turned restlessly to the library, his favorite room. He was tired, all the freshness that had been his that morning had departed, leaving him jaded and old. Vaguely he wondered what was on for tonight. He dreaded going out to the conventional thing, dinner followed by bridge and with no one present in whom he was the slightest bit interested.

As he sat there smoking a cigar, he wondered what he would do if by chance Harriet had no plans. He thought of the club, but poker played to the accompaniment of several strong high-balls had no pull for him tonight. He wished fiercely that there was something unusual for him to do, something with the tang of adventure in it, and as this wish occurred to him, the memory of a pair of long lashed gray eyes set his pulses to tingling, and made him forget his weariness.

Suppose by some miracle of chance he had made plans to see Marion Colby. He would take her to a roof, perhaps, and she would sit opposite him at a small, softly lighted table, and they would talk of hundreds of things, of themselves, of love, and always there would be that look in her eyes, a look half promising—half shy.

He was brought to himself suddenly by Harriet's entrance into the room. "Oh, here you are," she said lightly. "Simmons said you had come in." There was about her an air of conciliating sweetness. She hoped that Alec would not hold anything that she had said that morning against her. Of course now that he had had time to think it over, he must have realized how foolish he had been. She would be more ordinarily sweet to him tonight in order to make up for having wounded his vanity.

Alec looked at his wife through lowered lids. Her pale blue evening gown threw into contrast the whiteness of her bare arms and neck. Her blonde loveliness had never been so striking and yet to Alec, looking at her, she seemed cold, icy, remote. He had no impulse to touch her. He could imagine no thrill should by chance his fingers brush the velvet of her skin. And a kiss from her lips, carefully outlined with a carmine pencil, would give him no more pleasure than a caress from a marble statue.

Harriet had seated herself carefully in a chair opposite him. She was eyeing him now out of very wide, very cold blue eyes.

"Hadn't you better dress? I'm afraid we're going to be late as it is."

"Oh, are we going out?"

"Alec!" Harriet's tone was despairing. "You know we are. This is the night of the Crittendon's dinner. Had you forgotten, or are you just trying to be irritating?"

"Well, hurry and get into your things, like a dear. Mrs. Crittendon hates late arrivals."

Obediently Alec got to his feet. Harriet's eyes followed him as he left the room, but there was no tenderness in the glance she bestowed on him. She was glad that Alec had remained so straight and tall and altogether good looking, but aside from that she had no tender impulses toward him. It was merely pleasantly gratifying to know that her husband was better looking than other men of her acquaintance.

THE "SUCKER LIST"

A Confessional For Reformed Saps

Conducted by George Callenderson

(All Rights Reserved.)

While working in a clerical capacity for one of these sharks, I had an opportunity to watch the systematic defrauding of the unfortunate and helpless workers. I have seen "bruisers" employed by the agency beat up protesting victims and throw them out of the shop. If the police were called in, every employee in the place had to testify that the worker had "tried to start something." I have known men to sell the very clothes off their backs in order to raise the exhorbitant fee demanded for a job, only to be defrauded and left stranded miles from civilization.

Mr. Shark, who fed upon these helpless men, wore diamonds, rode around in a big car, wore silk shirts to work and amused himself by taunting the men who applied for jobs as "skinners," "muckers," "lumber jacks," "whistle punks," "single jackers," "fresno operators," etc. These were only a few of the strange names listed on the blackboard of the agency.

The swindle was worked as follows: Mr. Shark entered into an agreement with the X construction company to supply it with men. He was to cull out experts from the many applicants and to send them to the job via truck which took them 80 miles into the mountains. Of course it was understood that Mr. Shark would receive his fee from the worker.

Shark next made a secret arrangement with the foreman of the X company. He agreed to pay the foreman $100 or $200 a month for "services rendered." The X company was ignorant of the compact, of course.

Shark then put out signs at his employment office and advertised in the paper that 100 men were wanted on a construction job. Free transportation. A thousand men gathered around the place to take those 100 jobs.

Mr. Shark fixed the fee at $10 for every job, irrespective of the wage paid. In some cases where the applicant was to get but $80 or $40 a month, he consented to lower this to $5, when no one appeared with the double fee.

To pick the experts out of that thousand men would have required a week. Mr. Shark did up the job in a day. He sent the 100 men out on the X company job.

Then the foreman got busy to earn his monthly bribe money. The first day he fired ten men who had paid a total of $100 for jobs. He telephoned Mr. Shark, who put up a sign that ten more men were wanted for the X construction gang and who sold ten more jobs for $100. The discharged fellows had to walk back to town with one day's pay, less poll taxes, hospital fees and bunkhouse charges. In other words most of them returned flat broke.

On the second day the foreman discharged fifteen more men and Mr. Shark promptly took in $150 from other unsuspecting workers for these worthless jobs.

As the normal discharge rate on a big gang is high, because casual workers are always quitting and others are proving inefficient, the X company did not get wise to the foreman's graft which netted him $100 or $200 a month or Mr. Shark's graft, which brought him in a thousand dollars a month.

The Film Flapper Says to Jerry

By INEZ KLUMPH.

"I've been to a rehearsal of the new Ziegfeld 'Follies,'" announced the Flapper importantly, aware of the fact that she had trod on sacred ground. "So many movie stars begin in the 'Follies' chorus that I wanted to see what new material was on hand.

"Betty Compson was there too, looking perfectly lovely; she'd dropped in to see Mr. Ziegfeld select the girls who would be photographed for publicity purposes. He picked eighteen or twenty in about that many seconds, it seemed to me. If he ever wants to make movies it won't take him long to cast his pictures, with his eye for photographic beauty!

"Mr. Ziegfeld told me that this was going to be the biggest girl show in years; why, ninety girls are in one number that Brook Johns sings. He was rehearsing in a room about the size of an ordinary living room, with Dave Stamper at the piano and Gene Buck walking up and down, telling Johns how he wanted the songs sung—they did the three big songs of the show for me, and I was so thrilled at having the two composers there that I nearly collapsed. And I met Fannie Brice, and saw how her nose looks since she had the curve taken out—her mouth discounts the difference! She was rushing around, rehearsing in taxis and elevators, she said, and about a dozen different people are writing her songs. She says you have to dig up your own material if you're going to make a hit in the 'Follies.'

"And I saw all the chorus girls. Some of them are awfully pretty, there's one little blonde that looks a lot like Marilynn Miller used to, and there were two gorgeous red heads. They were working like everything, and oh, how they could dance!

"And Ned Wayburn showed me the plot for the show; he had three lists, in parallel columns. One was the big numbers, like the Ben Ali Haggin tableaux; one was the specialties, and one was the comedies, and he was fitting them all into each other. Hap Ward, who was on the stage years ago—you've heard of Ward and Vokes, of course; he was that Ward—is doing a sketch in which they use all the oldest jokes in the world. And Paulette Duval, a lovely French dancer, is in it, and Florian and Revel, who used to dance in vaudeville, and there are some Tiller girls, of course, too English for anything; they looked so cunning, in their little practise costumes, that were all alike, and they were so quiet and demure.

"Mr. Ziegfeld said he wasn't going to put on any more 'Follies' because they're getting so awfully expensive—just hiring Paul Whiteman's band would set him back a good deal, you know! Evidently he's going to make this last one the best of all. But oh, I hope he won't stick to his word, for good as most of the other musical shows in town are, after seeing how he's putting this one on I believe it's going to be the best one in town. Oh, I almost forgot to tell you that he was planning to use a shadowgraph in it—putting the movies into the 'Follies.'"

THE NEW SCHOOL AND THE OLD.

Two women—
Sat and talked one day—
One there whose hair had long turned gray—
And one much younger—
While near them played a vibrant lad—
Whose manners were extremely bad—
When things went all against his will—
The room with lusty howls he'd fill—
He balked his mother's soft command—
For well he understood her stand—
To guide him—
Was but to let him have his way—
She thought his will must have full sway—
It would be wrong to chide him—
And she cried with quiet face—
To show to him his proper place—
When he rebelled in vain she'd plead—
With soft words she would intercede—
She called him honey—
And promised him sweetmeats and toys—
And sought with money—
To guide him in the proper way—
With methods of our modern day—
The woman of the olden school—
Said—"Listen; I will tell the rule—
That parents used long ago—
When everything moved much more slow—
When parents' stern command was law—
The right way through their acts we saw—
The greatest harm that you can do—
That growing child and you will rue—
The years you sought with weakened will—
Life's needed lessons to instill—
Your child is but a growing plant—
Inclined to wildness—that you'll grant—
If you would see the roses bloom—
If you would have its life perfume—
Spread all around—
You've got to guide it—trim it too—
With firm hands you must train it, too—
Or else that plant will spread apace—
Grow wild, and to your sad disgrace—
You love your boy—then let me say—
There'll come to you a bitter day—
If you forswear the chastening rod—
Allow his will to be his God—
He knows no right—he knows no wrong—
And ere he goes out in the throng—
Where he will find life in the throng—
Where he will find life is not play—
Instill in him the proper way—
If he goes forth without restraint—
Yourself to blame—
A heartless world will teach him things—
Much to his shame—
The strong men of the olden days—
Were taught at home in different ways—
Than we have now—
That's why the world has laurel placed—
Upon their brow—
Misguide him now in life's race—
The world will rise and slap his face.

MORNING GLORY

Chapter 1.—The Secret of the Old Arm Chair.

"There comes Pat with my lunch. She said she was going to bring her's out here too, so I guess we will eat by this brook. She likes it down there," Jerald Bennet said to himself.

"Well, Sis, you got here early," said Jerald.

"Yes, father rested nearly all morning so mother and I got the house work done quick," said Pat to her brother.

"I'm glad he is better," said Jerry.

"So am I but you know mother is so worried and just about sick herself."

"I know it, Pat, we will have to do something and do it quick."

They both walked in silence until they came to the brook. They found a seat under Pat's favorite tree. The tree was a large pine with beautiful wide spreading boughs. The blue genitians, Pat's favorite flower, were now blooming. Every time Pat looked at the flowers, she could always find some new secrets. She was so enticed with the beauty of the place that she nearly forgot the lunch.

"Let's eat, Sis. I'm pretty hungry," said Jerry.

"Yes, Pat, they certainly are."

They then began eating lunch.

"Pat, what shall we do to help mother and father meet expenses? With father sick and crops not being good, we will have to do something," said Jerry between the bites of a sandwich.

"Oh, but I wish we could find the money grandfather left us."

"I know we have looked every place but let's look once more," said Pat.

"I haven't much hopes, but I will try anything to help mother and father meet expenses, Pat," said Jerry.

"So will I, Jerry," said Pat.

"I'll be up at the house at about 1 o'clock and then let's hunt for grandfather's money," said Jerry.

"All right, I will be waiting for you."

"Well, count on me at 2 o'clock, Sis."

"Yes, Jerry I will," said Pat as she started to their house.

Pat and Jerry's grandfather had said in his will that all he owned would go to their father when he died. He had said that it was some place in Mr. Bennet's house. The Bennet family had hunted all over the house but Jerry and Pat decided to look once more.

Chapter 2.

Two o'clock found Jerry and Pat in the big sunny kitchen of the Bennet's house. Pat had just taken a cake out of the oven when Jerry entered.

"It's for mother's birthday," she told Jerry. "She is upstairs resting in her room. I will frost it when we get through looking for grandfather's money. Then we will have it for dinner."

"That's right, it is mother's birthday. Oh, if we could only find grandfather's money! That would be a nice birthday surprise."

"That would sure be nice. I haven't much hopes but we will try our best."

The house had two stories and an atic which had three rooms. Two of the rooms had been used as servant's quarters when her grandfather had lived there. The other room was used as a store room. It was to the store room that Pat and Jerry went. Most everything in the room had been their grandfather's.

"Let's look through the trunk first," said Pat.

"Isn't it pretty though?" said Pat.

After they looked all through the trunk, they looked behind pictures and on shelves.

"I haven't sat in that big chair for so long. I'm going to see how comfortable it is," said Pat.

"It's a very comfortable chair," said Jerry.

"Oh, it's so nice that when I get the money I'm going to have it covered over." She then began fingering with a rip in the chair covering. It was old and worn so she accidentaly tore it. To her surprise it had a small piece of wood under it, while the rest of the chair was padded.

"Jerry, Jerry, oh Jerry! Come here quick!"

Jerry ran over to where Pat was. Pat was slowly rubbing the piece of wood. It fell out disclosing what appeared to be a drawer. Jerry quickly tore the padding off of all the chair.

"Look Pat!"

There were three drawers in the back of the chair. Pat with shaking fingers opened the first drawer. The drawer contained their grandmother's jewelry. They both looked at it. Then Jerry opened the second drawer. It contained some valuable papers of their grandfather's. Jerry then opened the third drawer. In it was the long looked for money which their grandfather had left to the Bennets.

That evening at dinner, Pat and Jerry put the money under the cake plate which the birthday cake was in. At dinner they told her the whole story. Mrs. Bennet was very pleased. They had a doctor come to see Mr. Bennet. The doctor was from the city. Mr. Bennet soon recovered.

After that all went well on the Bennet farm.

PRIZE WINNER

Once there was a man who made people thank that he was very good and tried to make them think he was doing everything for his country. Now this man's name was Mr. Lee and he had a partner, whose name was Mr. Roberts. Mr. Roberts was a very good man and did what was right and as best as he could. Mr. Lee did not like Mr. Roberts so he said he would put him in jail.

One night, Mr. Roberts said to Mr. Lee, "You will lock the office safe tonight as I have to go home early."

Mr. Lee said, "Yes."

So Mr. Roberts went home because he did not know Mr. Lee did not like him. About 12 o'clock that night, two masked men entered Mr. Robert's and Mr. Lee's office, one is telling the other where the money and valuable papers are and the other one is opening the safe.

Chapter 2—Robbed.

The next morning, Mr. Lee and Mr. Roberts came to the office and they opened the safe and found the money all gone and Mr. Roberts says, "We have been robbed. Did you lock the office door last night?"

Mr. Lee says, "Yes."

So they phoned the police and get two detectives. The detectives look around and ask questions, then soon go away. Night comes and Mr. Roberts and Mr. Lee goes home.

Chapter 3—James and Mildred.

I forgot to say that Mr. Lee has a very nice adopted daughter whose name is Mildred, Milly for short. Mr. Roberts has a son just from college whose name is James and he is engaged to Milly.

When Mr. Roberts comes home, he calls his family together and says, "We have been robbed at the bank today and I am almost ruined."

Now James think he knows that Mr. Lee hates his father so he says, "Dad, can I be your detective in a way. I mean can I try to find who robbed you and not tell Mr. Lee or anyone."

His father says, "Yes."

So the next day, he does down to the office and talks to the janitor. The janitor tells him that he has found a little piece of paper and it is all dirty, by the safe this morning after the safe was robbed. James takes it and reads it, then he tells Mr. Jones, the janitor, to say nothing about the paper.

Mr. Jones said, "All right."

Chapter 4—A Wedding.

James goes to his father and says, "Dad bring Mr. Lee and the two detectives out to supper tonight."

The father says, "All right."

That night after supper, James says to everybody, "Now I know who robbed the safe," and he tells the detectives to put handcuffs on Mr. Lee and his nephew, which they do. Then James and Mr. Jones tell about the paper and they read it out to everybody. It says, "Dear Nephew, I hate Mr. Roberts and want you to help me put him in jail. Tonight I am going to take all the money out of the safe. Be sure to be there to help me. Your Uncle Lee."

They took Mr. Lee and his nephew to jail and the captain told James that he could be a detective. James said, "No."

He and his father and Mr. Jones were going to run the bank when he said he wanted them to wait a minute and the door bell rang and Mr. Price, the minister, and Mildred Lee came in. James and Mildred were married.

A few years later, they had a little girl named Mildred and a little boy named James and lived happily every after.

ROBIN HOOD AND LITTLE JOHN

Seven hundred and more years ago, the length and breadth of merry England was covered with great forests. In those days men called these vast forests the green wood. One of these forests was called the Forest of Sherwood. In this forest there lived a man named Robin Hood. He was the leader of a merry band of yeomen. Every day men came to the Forest of Sherwood to join Robin Hood and his band of yeomen.

One day Robin said to his men, "It is fourteen long days since we have had any sport. You all stay here in the green wood where I can call you by a blast from my horn, and I will go forth and see what I shall see."

As Robin strolled through the forest, he came to a stream which he wanted to leap but it was too wide. So he walked along beside the stream thinking that he would find a place to get across. Finally he came to a log that had fallen across the stream thus making a narrow bridge. As he set a foot on it, he noticed a tall stranger coming up on the other side.

"Make way," said the stranger as he also set a foot on the log.

"You dare touch that bow string and I will show you right speedily who is the best man," replied the stranger.

"You are speaking foolishly," quoth Robin, "For if I were to bend my bow, I could send an arrow right through your proud heart before you could strike me a single blow."

"And you are talking like a coward," said the stranger, "There you stand ready to kill me with a single blow and me only armed with a staff."

"No one shall call me a coward," quoth Robin, "For your sake I will make a staff."

With this Robin disappeared into the forest and soon returned with a staff very much like the stranger's.

"See I too have a lusty staff. Now we will play here on this bridge until one of us falls into the water and not until."

"With all my heart," said the stranger.

Together they balanced themselves on the log. First the stranger gave Robin such a crack on the dome that it almost knocked him into the water.

"I will pay you back for that," said Robin. With that he gave the stranger such a crack that it made his bones ring. That the stranger struck Robin so that it drew blood and so the fight went on until the stranger hit Robin so hard that he tumbled him into the water.

"Ah, where are you now?" laughed the stranger.

"Oh, I'm floating along with the tide," laughed Robin.

He reached up and got hold of a willow branch and pulled himself up on the shore. As soon as he got on shore, he took his horn and blew a long blast. Almost before the echo died, there came a crashing of bushes and Will Stutely, one of Robin Hood's men came out of the bushes followed by about a score or more of men of Robin Hood's band.

"Dear master, what is the matter?" and he and the other men eyed the tall stranger in askance.

Robin told them about the fight and how the tall man had tumbled him into the water.

"He shall have a ducking too," cried Robin's men.

"Forbear, Forbear," cried the stranger.

"Do not fear my friend," said Robin, "Thou art a good strong fellow. These are my men, they wait upon me. There are three score and nine of them." (One score is twenty).

"Will you join them?"

"Indeed I will," said the tall stranger.

With that they all went off to the place where Robin Hood and all his men dwelled. Robin sent one of the men ahead to prepare the dinner. On the way Robin asked the stranger what his name was? The stranger said, "My name is John Little."

When they got there, Robin told all the other archers what the tall stranger's name was and also told them to think of a name which they would call him. After awhile they had dinner and after dinner, the men came to Robin and they had found a name for John Little.

"What is it?" asked Robin.

"Little John," said all the archers.

"Very good," said Robin.

And you know the rest.

"Baby Mine"

Independent Mary

TODAY'S SHORT STORY, BY Ad Schuster

IF there was one thing Mary Cameron prided herself upon more than the rest it was her independence. She was capable of taking care of herself and always would be, she said, without the aid of any man or boy.

"The modern girl," Miss Cameron frequently remarked, "is self-sufficient. She meets the world aggressively and asks no odds." And Mary practiced what she preached.

When the capable Miss Cameron went to the Maine woods for a vacation she took her theories with her and became the subject of worried conversation around the McManus fireside. Mary had answered an advertisement which offered genuin farm board, and was installed as city guest in a home which had as farm hands and heirs, sons, Phil and William. When she looked at the two tall and bashful young men over the dinner table the first evening of her stay, she decided she had made a mistake in coming to the place.

"Before I go," she thought, "they will be waiting on me and, maybe, making love. I want to get away from men, to be myself, to hunt, fish, and lose myself in the woods. And that is what I will do even if I have to set these young gentlemen in their place."

For all of these resolutions the girl was woman enough to appear at her best at the McManus table where her happy chatter of things in the city, her excited interest in the wild life about, and her many questions won her the admiration of the twins. Mary knew she had made a double conquest and wondered.

"They are fine looking men," she said, "and real gentlemen. Of course I don't love either, which is lucky, for how would one tell which she preferred?"

Early in the mornings Mary, in her khaki suit, plunged into the woods for a day with the flowers and streams. Wandering in the shaded paths, she revelled in the deep silences as only a girl who is used to the rattle of the elevated trains and the snorting and honking of automobiles can rejoice in an absence of city noises. To be free in the forest typified for her the independence which she always professed. She could go as she wished, return as she pleased, and was accountable to no one.

Phil told her she was taking chances walking into the wilderness alone, and the next day William repeated the warning. Mary laughed scornfully and tried to make believe she was angry. One day she caught a glimpse of something moving the brush ahead and walked up quietly to startle a deer. Then she discovered a waterfall and followed a creek for a ways. It was delightfully cool in the forest and she was on a path she had never taken before.

Late in the afternoon the girl decided it was time to return to the house. She tried to retrace her steps and discovered she was meeting with new scenes.

"It's all right, Mary," she said to herself, summoning on all her bravery. "You can take care of yourself." Yet she knew she was lost. Mary made the mistake of seeking to correct the mistake by haste. She was sobbin when night came. The woods had become menacing and there were sounds all about. For fear of wild animals she did not dare sit down to rest and so she kept on.

Pretty soon she began to wish the twins would come to find her, and then she found distraction from her fears by speculating as to which twin she wished most to see. She called for help, called for Phil and William, and felt that she was very tired, near to the end of her strength.

Phil and Bill were not the only ones to take the trail. Aroused to her danger, they aroused the neighbors and many men walked the forest paths looking for the foolish city girl who had walked off alone. They mingled expressions of concern with scolding, and searched until morning. Then Bill found her.

He gave a shot, fired his gun as a signal to the rest, and helped her home. Mary, feeling the need of comfort, realized she was being taken to task.

"You have frightened us all, taken men from their homes and kept them up all night. They won't be able to work this morning, and it is the busy season. I told you you should not walk off alone," Mary held back her tears and stumbled on. 't was mean, she thought, to scold a girl who was so tired.

The next evening, when she was up again, Phil proposed. "You need someone to take care of you," he said. "Won't you let me do it?" And Mary said "no."

She drove to the train with Bill.

"Are you still angr ?" she asked.

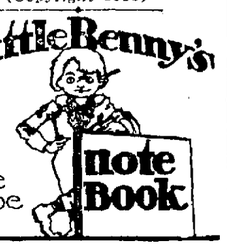

"I guess you've learned your lesson," he replied, "but it was a thoughtless and reckless thing to do. I don't suppose you can care much for me, Miss Cameron, but as I won't get the chance again, I am going to propose to you right now."

And the independent Mary, who had refused the consoling brother, accepted the one who had scolded.

Uncle Wiggily

by Howard R. Garis

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE BELL.

"Uncle Wiggily! Uncle Wiggily! Wake up!" called Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy in the rabbit gentleman's hollow stump bungalow one morning. "Wake up and come down!" squeaked the muskrat lady housekeeper.

"Ho! Ho! That is rather funny!" laughed Uncle Wiggily, as he twinkled his pink nose. "Which do you want me to do first, Nurse Jane, wake UP or come DOWN?"

"Oh, I don't care what you do as long as you keep your promise," went on Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy. "Have you forgotten, Uncle Wiggily, that you promised to do something for me today?"

"Dear me! I had almost forgotten," cried the rabbit gentleman as he leaped out of bed, jumped into his clothes and came sliding down the stair banister railing. "What did I promise you, Nurse Jane? Was it to go and play golf? If it was that I'm ready as soon as I eat breakfast."

"No, I don't want you to play golf," laughed the muskrat lady. "I want you to go to the store and get me a new, shining tin dishpan. My old one is full of holes and leaks water all over the kitchen floor."

"Oh, a new dishpan—that's easy!" laughed the bunny uncle. "I'll hop to the store as quick as never was, get you the pan and then I'll come home and play croquet with you if you wish."

"Thank you—I don't wish," laughed Nurse Jane. "I have the bungalow work to do. So hop along, Wiggy!"

Uncle Wiggily hopped along after eating a breakfast of boiled carrots with maple sugar sauce sprinkled on the middle, and soon he was at the thirteen and fourteen cent store, where they sold new, shining, tin dishpans.

Uncle Wiggily bought for Nurse Jane the largest and shinest pan he could find, and he was hopping back with the dishpan over his head like a sunbonnet, when, all of a sudden, the rabbit gentleman heard a sad little voice saying:

"Oh, dear! What shall I do? I've stepped on a stone and cut my shoe!"

"Ha! That's too bad!" cried the bunny, with a twinkle of his pink nose. "Who are you?" He looked around, afraid lest he might see the Fuzzy Fox or the Woozlo Wolf, but he didn't. "Who are you?" he asked again.

"I'm a poor hoptoad lady," was the answer. "And what I told you is very true—I stepped on a stone and cut my shoe. And I can't hop—so what shall I do?"

"Do," cried Uncle Wiggily in his jolly voice, "why, I'll tell you what to do. Hop into Nurse Jane's dishpan and I'll carry you home since you can't walk. Hop in, Mrs. Toad."

So the toad lady hopped into the dishpan and Uncle Wiggily took her home, and then he took her shoe to the cobbler, who mended the cut in it. The jolly rabbit gentleman, with the dishpan on his head like a sunbonnet kept on his way, and soon he came within sight of the hollow stump school.

But something seemed to be wrong, for, out in front, the Lady Mouse Teacher was creeping up and down, flipping and flopping her tail about in the saddest way you can imagine.

"What's the matter?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"Oh, such trouble!" squeaked the lady mouse teacher. "I can't get any of the animal children to come to school!"

"Why not?" asked the bunny gentleman, taking the dishpan off his ears so he could twinkle his pink nose easier. "Have they become tired of school, or does the chimney smoke?"

"Neither one," answered the lady mouse teacher. "But the bell is broken. It doesn't ring and if the rat janitor doesn't ring the bell to call the animal children to school, they won't come, and it will be dreadful! Oh, what shall I do?" and the poor Lady Mouse Teacher tied her tail in a hard knot she was so excited.

"But the bell is broken—it can't ring," squeaked Lady Mouse.

"I'll bang on Nurse Jane's new dishpan and make more noise than your school bell ever made," chuckled Uncle Wiggily. "The children will think there's a fire and they will come running."

So the rabbit gentleman took a stick and beat on the bottom of the dishpan, making believe it was a big dinner gong.

"The hollow stump school must be on fire!" cried Jackie Bow Wow. "Let's go, Peetle!"

"Hurray! Hurrah!" barked Peetle.

Then he and the other animal boys and girls ran to school to see what made the booming sound, and when they got there the school wasn't on fire at all. But they arrived before 9 o'clock so they weren't late. And the Lady Mouse Teacher thanked Uncle Wiggily very much for making a bell of the dishpan.

Then the rabbit gentleman twinkled his pink nose again and hopped home to Nurse Jane. And if the coal man doesn't turn white when the ash can blows talcum powder on him, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the rolling pumpkin.

The Adventures of Raggedy Ann and Raggedy Andy

by Johnny Gruelle

Copyright by JOHNNY GRUELLE. All Rights Reserved.

RAGGEDY ANN and Raggedy Andy and Peter Pelican did not know much about working magic.

The Raggedys had seen a great deal of Magical things in their adventures through the deep, deep woods, but they had always watched someone else make the magical things with their own magical charms.

Now, the Raggedys and Peter Pelican were trying to work magic with the magical charms which belonged to Crookelookie the Magician.

And, with these magical charms, the three kind friends were trying to change Crookelookie from a monkey and Humpylumpy from a Polly parrot back into men again. This was hard to do, because the Raggedys could not read from the Magician's large magical book. Neither could Peter Pelican. But, even though Crookelookie and his brother Humpylumpy had tried to harm them, the Raggedys felt it their duty to help others whenever they could.

So Raggedy Ann placed all of Crookelookie's magical charms in a circle. Crookelookie had a lot of magical charms. There were six left handed shoe buttons, three jack stones, a pearl handled knife without any blades, three holes out of doughnuts in a little blue bottle, fifteen chinkapins on a string and a lot of other very magical things.

"I cannot remember how Crookelookie placed the magical charms when he tried to make monkeys out of us!" Raggedy Ann said to Raggedy Andy.

"Neither can I," Raggedy Andy replied, "But we will just have to do the best we can!"

So, when all the wonderful magical charms had been placed in a circle, the Raggedys and Peter Pelican danced about and sang the magical song Crookelookie had sung before. Then, the three friends stood upon their heads just as Crookelookie had done, with their eyes closed.

When they had stood this way for almost five minutes, the Raggedys and Peter Pelican were lifted up and shoved right into the chicken coop at the side of the room and they heard Crookelookie laugh real, real hard, like this. "Haw, haw, haw!"

It made cold shivers run up and down Peter Pelican's back. But not Raggedy Ann's and Raggedy Andy's, because they were made out of cloth and stuffed with nice white cotton.

RAGGEDY ANN AND RAGGEDY ANDY AND PETER PELICAN DID NOT KNOW MUCH ABOUT WORKING MAGIC.

The magical charms had worked. Crookelookie was not a monkey any more and Humpylumpy was not a polly parrot any more. But, instead of being grateful to the Raggedys and Peter Pelican, the two mean brothers had shoved the Raggedys and Peter Pelican in the chicken coop.

"Now!" Crookelookie said. "When Humpylumpy and I have finished eating our dinner; for we are very hungry; I shall change you three into monkeys, and this time, I shall make no mistake!" So there wasn't anything to do, but for the Raggedys and Peter Pelican to wait until Crookelookie and Humpylumpy had eaten their dinners. Then they could see what would happen.

SCIENCE and INVENTION

In an attempt to develop an automobile engine that can be operated without the use of gasoline (an expensive item in these days) a French auto manufacturing firm has built a car and engine that operates with oil. A test run of 800 miles was made and the average fuel consumption for the entire trip was one gallon of oil every fifteen miles. It is said that the running cost was approximately one-eighth that of a gasoline-driven car. The engine is considerably smaller and lighter than in the average car. The manufacturing company has announced that, while it is not entirely satisfied with the results of the trial trip, it believes that remarkable progress has been made in the right direction and that it is only a question of time until oil-burning engines will entirely replace the gasoline-driven ones.

The development will be watched with much interest on this side of the Atlantic, for the constantly increasing cost of gasoline has been a source of worry to the millions of auto owners here, just as it has in France and all of the other European countries.

Here's a tip that may help some backyard farmer who is troubled with an excess of weeds and a shortage of hours and inclination to pull them out. Pineapple planters in Hawaii have hit upon the scheme of stretching broad strips of soft brown paper over the soil where the pineapples are planted and have increased production about 50 per cent, according to a report from that interesting section of the country. The fruit is planted in loose soil which is likewise very conducive for the growth of weeds. It has been found that the paper smothers the weeds and retains the moisture in the soil. The pineapple plants will grow up through the paper.

Waste fibers of sugar cane are utilized in manufacturing the paper. These fibers were discarded as being of no value until some practical and scientific minded person conceived their present use.

The country is being flooded with circulars worded in the most abominable English. Here is a specimen: "It will not happen often that an offer of such solidlly (sic) reaches you." After this preamble you are told that you can have 2½ gallons of Rhine wine, Moselle, etc., or "Beer of Munich," with "guaranteed fullbodied production," whatever that may mean. "Or if you want something stronger you can make a gallon of whisky, chartreuse or Benediktine (sic) for the same money—two dollars. Samples are not shipped and orders must be accompanied by United States currency." Probably there are many who will learn their lesson in chemistry that alcohol cannot be made by a powder. Barnum was right.—Scientific American.

Although poison ivy is one of the worst offenders it frequently is blamed for poisoning caused by other plants. The Department of Agriculture has a list of more than 100 of such plants that grow in this country, and it is probable that there are others that may be poisonous to some persons. Not all of these plants are equally poisonous, and too there is great variation in the susceptibility of persons.—Scientific American.

Our CHEERY CHUM

THE BAREBACK RIDER.

"Hurrah for the circus! Three rings going at once and a Wild West show in the center ring!" yelled Tubby, the riding master, leading the pony to Burt's side.

Burt started to mount, but the pony gave a snort and began to buck and kick. His eyes rolled; he jumped and danced about. Burt struggled to get on his back;

Finally he made it. Round the ring galloped the pony, and if Burt hadn't been a good rider, he would have been thrown.

HELP FOR THE MAN WHO WANTS TO BUILD

SELECTING THE HARDWARE FOR YOUR NEW HOME

The first of two articles to appear in this column by the Architect's Small House Service Bureau of the United States on "Selecting and Setting the Hardware for Your Home."

When you start out to figure the cost of building your house, there are certain things which can only be covered by a lump sum. You do not know how much you will spend for these items so in order to make sure that a sum sufficient to cover them will be set aside you include in the contract a statement like this: "The contractor will allow $100 for this item." The understanding is that if more should be spent, you will supply the additional money, but that if costs should run under the sum allowed, the savings would then go to you. This is the way hardware and electric light fixtures are usually provided for.

Consult Your Hardware Dealer

Suppose then that you have made an allowance of $100 for your finish hardware. How will you go about spending it? How will you get the greatest value for your money?

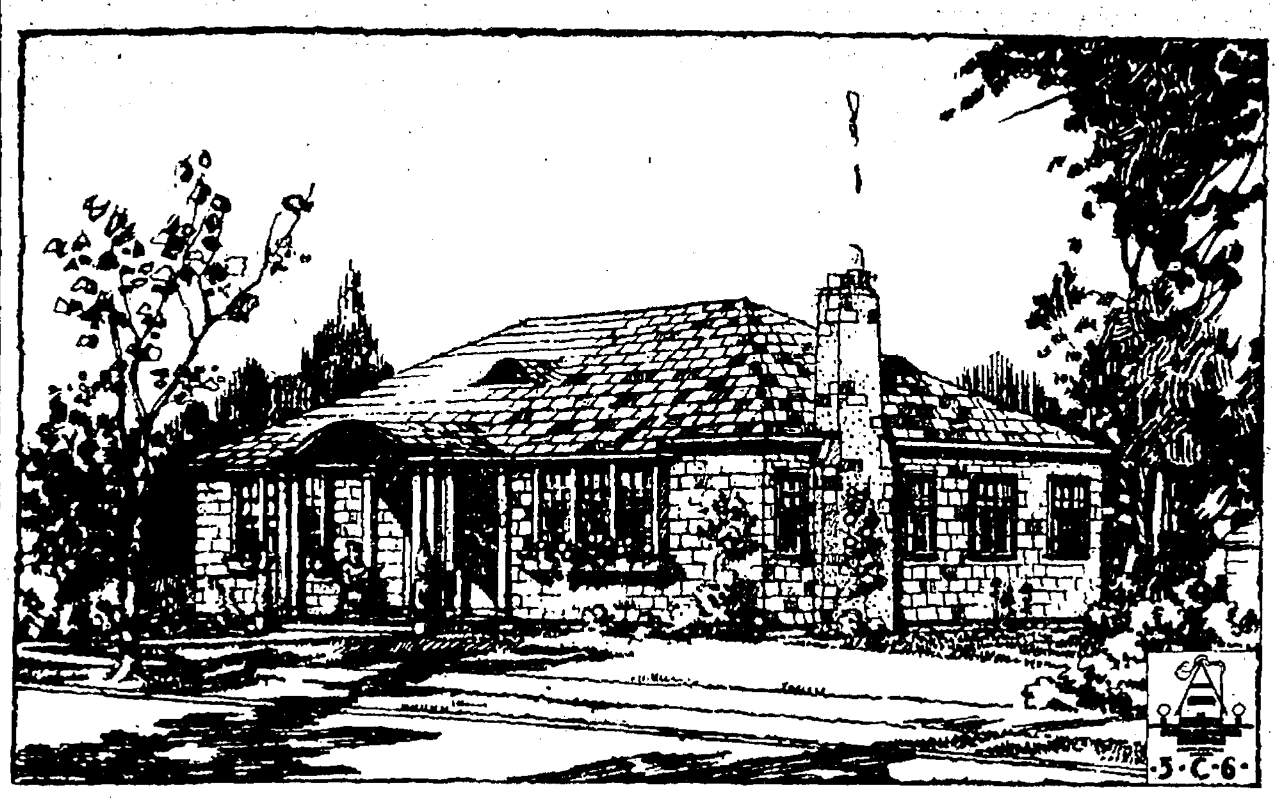

Your local hardware dealer will help you with this matter. Just gather up your blue prints as soon as possible after building has begun, and take them down to him. Have him list all the locks, catches, hinges, and so on that will make a complete installation for your house. When he has done this, get him to show you the catalogs illustrating all the different kinds of designs. You will find that you can have knobs, scutcheon plates, catches and other pieces in a wide range of designs, some of them following the architectural styles. Thus, your Colonial house can be equipped with hardware in the Colonial style, and so on. You can make a selection not only of the style you want, but also of the metal in which you wish to have it made. Probably the hardware dealer can show you from his stock the actual piece that you have selected from the catalogs.

Brushed Coats Wear Off

You will find that most of the hardware is made in cast steel, cast and wrought iron, brass, and bronze, and some other especial alloys. Some of the steel and brass shapes are pressed from sheets of the metal. Some of these articles are cast. The cast metal is more sound and more expensive than the pressed metal. There are two forms of black metal. One, a solid rustless iron is much superior to the other. You can have most of the metals in a polished or dull finish as you prefer.

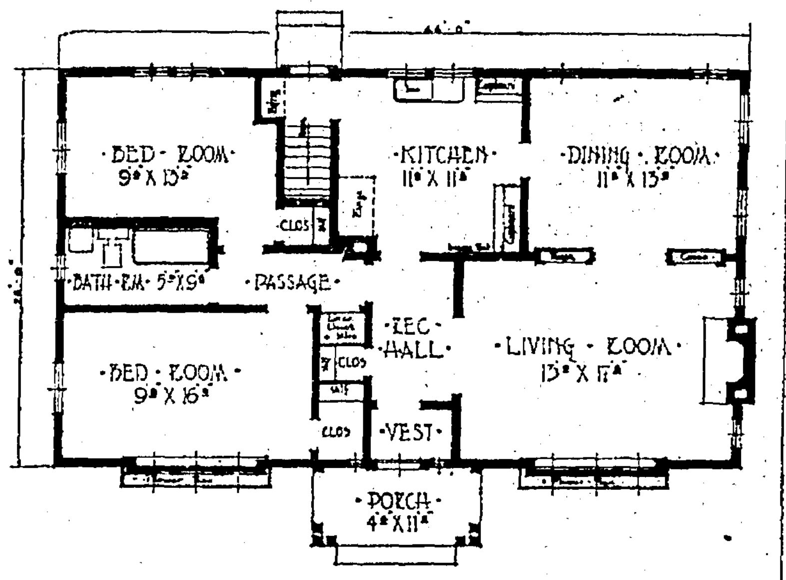

It is a trite saying that all is not gold that glitters. This applies to hardware as well as to many other things. For example, your dealer will show you different kinds of metals finished in various ways. Steel with a brass finish—brass with a bronze finish, and so on. Many of these finishes are brushed coats—that is, they are plated on. They come off parts that are subject to wear, like the door knob, almost—but not quite—as easily as they go on, so that after a time the highly ornamental finish that you started with gives way to the honest brass or steel below. After all the brass looks pretty well shining through there—so much so that you think it might have been better if you had started out with the brass and finished with it.

BUNGALOW WITH FIVE PRIMARY ROOMS

Copyright, 1923—Architects' Small House Service Bureau

Plan No. 506.

THE bungalow, it is commonly said, originated in India, where it developed as a result of the hot climate. It always was of single story construction, low, rambling with broad verandas, and overhanging eaves. But in America, we have come to describe as a bungalow almost anything that is informal and picturesque, whether it is built entirely on one floor, or has an addition of another half story.

Many people consider the bungalow affords the most convenient arrangement for the housewife, who does all her own work.

The bungalow illustrated above contains five primary rooms, all on one floor. It may be best suited to a wide suburban lot, at the same time it will look well on a city lot with a 45 foot frontage, with a porch and driveway on the side. This places the living room and dining room to the front, and assures plenty of light all around.

Bungalow Has Many Features

The fireplace is a feature of the living room. The opening between dining room and living room is provided with bookcases. The kitchen is planned to lessen steps and save labor. Plenty of cupboard room, and ironing board and other conveniences are provided.

A full basement extends under the house, containing vegetable and fuel and laundry rooms.

Color Scheme Is Important

The general color scheme of the house is made effective by the roof treatment and large size shingles, to harmonize with the exterior walls.

This home contains approximately 24,000 cubic feet. It is a model of economical arrangement and should appeal to home builders desiring maximum equipment within minimum space.

Cost To Build Bungalow

The house should be erected complete, including heating, plumbing, lighting, painting, ready to live in, but not including wall decorations, between $6,500 to $8,000. In certain localities where costs are high, the highest figure quoted would be too low. In other localities, the lowest figure quoted would be more than sufficient. The range of $1,500 is given to cover differences in the way the house is built, how thoroughly it is equipped, and completed and in what district it is erected.

To assist in keeping building costs down in this house, as well as others that appear in this column, stock and standardized materials are used wherever possible. This lessens waste and helps to eliminate extras. By limiting your requirements and using substantial but not expensive materials and finishes, you can build this bungalow at a reasonable cost.

EDITOR'S NOTE: The plans for small homes are furnished by the Regional Bureaus of the Architects' Small House Service Bureau of the United States, Inc., an organization made up of the representative practicing architects from leading architectural offices throughout the United States. This bureau is controlled by the American Institute of Architects, and has the endorsement of the Department of Commerce, United States government. It is practically a non-profit making public service, and has as its purpose the furnishing of a very complete and dependable small house plan service at modest cost. For information regarding the blue prints and specifications, address the Home Building Editor of this paper. The United States bureau maintains an information department to answer home builders' questions at no charge. Enclose stamped addressed envelope.

WHAT YOU MAY WANT TO KNOW ABOUT BUILDING

Questions addressed to the paper will be answered by the Architect's Small House Service Bureau of the United States, Inc., controlled by the American Institute of Architects and indorsed by the department of commerce, United States government. Inclose selfaddressed, stamped envelope for reply.

Q—Is it necessary to have metal lath in the bathroom?

A—It is necessary if you want a good and permanent job. Wood lath does not do well in the bathroom because there is so much moisture, and the consequent swelling and expansion will crack the plaster. Run metal lath up at least 4 feet 6 inches.

Q—Is there any real difference in varnishes? Our specifications call for one kind and we understand that we can save money by using another. What is the difference?

A—Varnish is compounded from oils, gums, and turpentine. The processes of manufacture are extremely important. The quality of the materials used has much to do with durability. A cheap varnish can be made by using inferior substances and slighting the manufacture. If you use the cheap varnish you pay the price of the better grade by replacements of the poorer material.

Q—Is it satisfactory to lay a cement floor for a porch on a well stamped earth fill?

A—No. It costs you very little more to put in the proper reinforcing steel. You will not be troubled with a settlement of your floor if the job is well done.

Q—There are some rather wide windows in our new house. Is it necessary to strengthen the wood frame where these occur?

A—It is. The contractor should put the headers on edge rather than lay them flat as commonly done. In addition to this, if the span is wide, there should be trussing over the opening. A good carpenter will do these things without question or direction. You are entitled to this kind of work. See that you get it.

Q—Is a tile roof waterproof?

A—Yes, if the whole roof is constructed properly. It is necessary to underlay the tile with a coat of waterproofing.

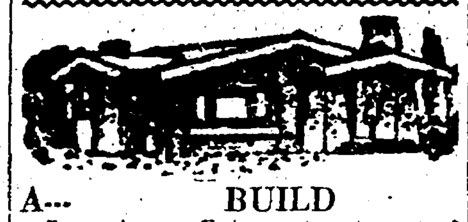

Q—In the stories published in this column I notice you speak of space saving. What is the most economical plan?

A—A plan is most economical if it uses the least possible materials to get a given result. These economies are obtained by using materials in the common lengths in which they are manufactured so that there will be no waste in cutting. Economies are effected by using grades of materials that are sound but which are not extravagant. More especially it is important to have the house arranged so that communications between the various rooms and all accommodations are obtained without wasting floor space. It is necessary to work out the balance for these things with great care if the best effects are to be obtained. This is the architect's work. He is fitted by training and experience to do it better than anyone else.

...ID OF LONDON ...PASSES; SHOCK IN FIRE IS CAUSE

BERKELEY, Oct. 22.—Edward ... Payne, first minister to preach ...rom a pulpit in Berkeley, former ...ditor of "Overland Monthly," ...riend and advisor of Jack London ...nd well-known lecturer and ...riter, is dead.

...Payne, who some years ago ...ropped the "Reverend" prefix ...rom his name, succumbed to a ...eart attack last night while at...ending a meeting of the Public ...orum at Eleventh and Clay ...treets, in Oakland. He died ...hortly after his removal to the ...akland Emergency hospital.

...Although Payne had been a suf...erer of heart trouble for years, ...is death is attributed by his wife ...o the schock attending the recent ...erkeley fire, in which the Paynes ...ost their home at 1529 Scenic ave...ue. Payne had spent yesterday ...orning looking over the frame...ork of a new home which was ...eing built on Oxford street, and ...ppeared in his usual health when ...e left for last night's meeting. ...lthough he was 76 years old, ...ayne was unusually active and ...resented the appearance of a ...ounger man.

AFFILIATED WITH LONDON.

...Payne's wife is an aunt of Mrs. ...harmion London, and both Mr. ...nd Mrs. Payne were closely affili...ted with the famous author dur...g his rise to fame.

...Born in Vermont, Payne came ...o Berkeley when 26 years old, ...fter graduating from Grinnell and ...berlin colleges. He was named ...e pastorate of the First Con...regational church and served ...ere as not only the first minister ...f that denomination but as the ...irst minister to occupy a pulpit in ...erkeley. Four years later he left ...he Congregational faith to affili...te himself with the Unitarian de...omination and he became the ...irst minister of the latter church. ...Remaining in the Unitarian pulpit ...or four years he quit the church ...or literary activities and became editor of the Overland Monthly. A year later his health forced him to give up editorial activities and he devoted himself to "free lance" writing.

BURIED TOMORROW.

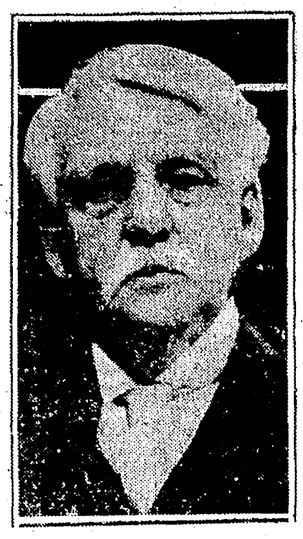

Following the fire, the Paynes have made their home with friends, Mrs. Marin Scammerhorn and Miss Anna Coleman, at 2007 Benvenue avenue, from whose residence funeral services will be conducted at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Some years ago Payne had given up his affiliation with the orthdox church, and for that reason tomorrow's funeral rites will be conducted by two laymen, Herman I. Stern, a former president of the Berkeley Board of Education, and Ben F. Wilson, a brother of J. Stitt Wilson, former mayor of Berkeley.

COMMANDER A VISITOR.

MEETING WILL DISCUSS FIRE PREVENTION PLAN

Plans for safeguarding Eastbay homes, particularly those in the foothill districts, from the possibility of a recurrence of the recent Berkeley disaster, are to be discussed at a meeting of the Contra Costa Hills Fire Protection committee at 4:30 tomorrow afternoon at the Oakland Chamber of Commerce.

Invitations to attend the meeting have been sent throughout the Eastbay district to mayors, councilmen, fire department heads, police chiefs, representatives of civic and improvement clubs and owners of hill properties. Paul I. Daniels, chairman of the Fire Prevention association, will preside.

Supreme Court to Decide Tax Priority

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 22.—The question whether back wages of employees, or government and municipal taxes, are to be paid first out of the assets of the defunct West Coast Rubber Corporation of this city is to be decided by the United States Supreme Court.

The local Circuit Court recently held that the tax claims should have priority over labor claims in the bankruptcy proceedings. The case was taken to the Supreme Court by the receiver of the company and the employees in a petition for a review. This petition was today granted by the Supreme Court.

Income Forfeited In Case Legatee Gets Into Court

Karl Emil Schwartze will lose the income from his one-third interest in the estate of his mother, Mrs. Sarah L. Schwartze, if he should become bankrupt, attempt to assign his interest or become the object of any legal action, according to a codicil to the will, which was filed for probate today. In such a case the trustees are empowered to pay the income to the next of kin.

A peculiar feature of the provision is that Emil Schwartze is himself a trustee jointly with his sister, Mrs. Clara A. H. Lawton. The will and codicil was dated December 3, 1921. Mrs. Schwartze died May 13, last, at her home, 2850 Jackson street, Alameda. The estate is valued at $14,000. The petition for probate will be heard by Judge E. C. Robinson on November 5.

PHONE GIRL IS FOUND BY COPS, KEEPING STILL

SAN JOSE, Oct. 22.—Louise Demecca, in her work as telephone operator, talked so much all day she decided to keep still all night. Police detectives Ray Starbird, John Guerin and Theodore Swanson of the San Jose department found her in the basement of her home, 643 South Eighth strete, doing her best. They confiscated the still and a quantity of the moonshine with which Louise intended to spread sunshine into the lives of friends, who knew she was quietly keeping still. She was released on $250 bail.

Starbird, Guerin and Swanson were at first refused admittance to the Demecca house of solitude, but, having a search warrant, they got an axe and disturbed the still night by breaking down the door.

Educator Takes Pupils' Needs to Homes of Parents

A new idea in education, parental conferences, is being tried out by Stuart Wilson, coordinator and citizenship instructor of the Oakland Part Time school, who now spends half his time in the classroom and the other half in the homes of the parents of his pupils.

It is asserted by Wilson that the co-operation of parents, and especially in the backward districts, is one of the real necessities of an educational system. Wilson asserts that "mutual understanding between parents and their boys or girls" solves a great part of the educational problem.

"In four years of experience I have never failed to gain the approval and the cooperation of fathers and mothers in this work," says Wilson.

National Bank Issues Argued

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—The whole question of the right of National banks to establish branches and control of states over national banks today was ordered opened and argued by the Supreme Court.

S. F. BARBER JOB IS PREFERRED TO JUGOSLAVIA BANK

John Kerment Proves Faith by Quitting Four Posts in High Finance.

SAN FRANICSCO, Oct. 22.—(By the Associated Press.)—John Kerment of this city prefers to be a barber in the United States than a banker in Jugoslavia, and he proved his statement by giving up the vice presidency of four banks in Jugoslavia and returning to San Francisco, where he is again manipulating a razor.

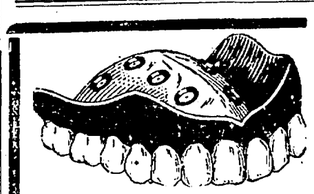

Kerment, better known as "John the Barber," left here three years ago for his native Jugoslavia. He carried with him $11,000 in American money, which he exchanged for 2,000,000 crowns. Having become a "millionaire" over night, John started a bank at Viritutica. The institution, capitalized at 5,000,000 crowns, grew and three branches were added. The San Francisco barber became vice president of the group, being in charge of the branch at Zarget, Croatia.

"We made money, and while I like the banking business better than the barbering business, I did not like the unsettled condition of the country," explained the barber-banker on his return here. "Everybody in Jugoslavia wants to be a general and shoot somebody. Nobody wants to work. Every morning I would shake my head to see if it was still on my neck.

"After I had been there for several years I learned that I would lose my citizenship in America if I stayed any longer. I wouldn't lose that for a dozen banks in Europe, so I quit and came back to San Francisco to re-enter the barbering business."

Sugar Market Is Quiet Today

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—All departments of the sugar market were quiet today. Raw sugar futures opened 1 to 2 points lower and declined to $5.08 for December under little realizing, due to the dullness in the spot market. At the decline Wall street and the trade bought moderately and carried December up to $5.12 with midday prices about 2 points net higher. Refined sugar was inactive and unchanged at $9.15 @9.50 on list prices for fine granulated.

United States—Mining gypsum from one of the many extensive Certain-teed gypsum deposits. Used for Certain-teed plaster, gypsum building blocks, plaster of Paris, dental plaster, agricultural gypsum, etc.

We call this label the "Label of a hundred satisfactions" because we put it on more than a hundred different products which we know are all right, and will give you the best value for your money. This label represents Certain satisfaction—quality guaran*teed*.

India—Preparing jute for shipment to Europe where it is woven into burlap, then shipped to this country. Millions of yards are used annually in Certain-teed linoleum.

Beyond the Rim of the Horizon— a Host of Workers Serve You

In India they have prepared the jute, in Portugal they have stripped the cork-bark, in Argentine they have grown the flax for the linseed oil in Certain-teed linoleum. For mellow-toned Certain-teed shingles and roofing, rags have been sorted all over Europe and the Near East—rugged Vermonters have crushed the slate and Mexican peons have worked to produce the asphalt. From every point of the compass ships of commerce are bringing oils and gums, destined to become Certain-teed paint and varnish of enduring quality.

From our Southland comes the cotton for Certain-teed oil-cloth, and from many Certain-teed mines, the gypsum for plaster and light, fireproof walls.

The great Certain-teed plants, located at points where manufacture is most economical, convert these materials into more than a hundred useful articles. These go into every corner of the globe to meet the need for Certain-teed products.

Many products, one overhead, one management, one sales force and an organization of skilled workers enable Certain-teed to produce "enduring quality at low cost." These five words express the benefits that may be yours if you insist on the Certain-teed Label when buying.

Mexico—One of the asphalts used in Certain-teed roofing and Floortex comes from Mexico. Millions of gallons of asphalt are used annually in the Certain-teed plants.

New Zealand—Weighing kauri gum used in Certain-teed varnishes. Also Certain-teed paint, linoleum, Floortex & oilcloth.

China—Primitive method of husking nuts for wood oil used in Certain-teed varnishes, paints, linoleum, oilcloth and Floortex.
